Kidnappers Deal For Cuba Sanctuary

Times News Services

MONTREAL—James Cross is free.

The dramatic end to his 60-day ordeal came at noon (PST) when the British trade official walked from a convoy at the site of Expo 67, St. Helen's Island.

Police at the scene told reporters the vehicle was booby trapped to explode if authorities attempted to interfere, and grab the kidnappers before they reached a prearranged sanctuary on St. Helen's Island.

Ricardo Escartin, acting Cuban consul-general in Montreal, was at the island site to meet the convoy as it sped southward from the residence in Montreal North where Cross was held.

This appeared to be in line with a government offer of safe passage to Cuba for the kidnappers in exchange for Cross.

Carbonneau, 37, a swarthy cab driver, has been sought since Oct. 18 on a warrant charging him with the Oct. 5 kidnapping of Cross and the Oct. 10 abduction of Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister who was strangled a week later.

Lanctot, 25, is wanted in connection with an alleged plot to kidnap the Israeli trade commissioner in Montreal last March.

The 10-car police convoy brought Cross to the Expo site from a three-storey residence in Montreal North.

He rode in a 1962 Chrysler in the centre of the convoy. Occupants of the car held newspapers over the windows to avoid being seen.

The convoy moved out minutes after the arrival at the house of Jerome Choquette, Quebec justice minister. He flew to Montreal from Quebec when informed that police and soldiers had surrounded the place where Cross was held.

The convoy moved south on Pie IX Boulevard, a six-lane divided artery previously sealed off by armed troops using portable metal barricades.

Pedestrians were shooed off the street and held back by the barricades.

Escartin was accompanied by a representative of the British trade commission in the wait for the kidnappers.

"The same plan is in effect," said Escartin, who explained he is acting in the absence of Alfredo Ramirez, Cuban consul now on regular holiday in his homeland.

Troops with fixed bayonets and police acted swiftly in Operation Cordon this morning, circling the four-block area six miles due north of downtown Montreal.

They isolated the suspect duplex—evacuating occupants of neighboring structures, including two schools. But they made no move to enter the modest-looking house immediately.

A police escort brought Choquette into the

FERRY COLLISION

Pilot Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP)—A federal inquiry commission today ordered suspension of the licence of Capt. D. G. Crabbe of Victoria, the pilot aboard a Russian freighter that collided with a British Columbia government ferry Aug. 2, killing three ferry passengers.

County court Judge E. J. C. Stewart, head of the commission, said the panel could not make recommendations about the competence certificates of Capt. R. J. Pollock, master of the ferry Queen of Victoria, or his chief officer, Zale Kirron.

He said Capt. Nikolai Khaustov, master of the freighter Sergey Yesenin, was outside the jurisdiction of the commission, but was guilty of no wrong act.

Judge Stewart's report said the collision was the result of failure of those in charge of both vessels to keep sufficiently to starboard in narrow Active Pass, and the "absence of standards of alertness" as they approached Helen Point at the western end of the pass.

"Capt. Pollock and Capt. Crabbe caused serious danger to the Queen of Victoria and loss of life, but we can deal only with the licence of Capt. Crabbe," the report said.

Federal Budget Tonight

OTTAWA (CP) — The country finds out in dollars and cents tonight just how much Ottawa plans to take out of Canadian pay cheques and profits in coming months.

Betting in advance of the federal budget—to be presented by Finance Minister E. J. Benson at about 5 p.m. PST—has favored announcement of measures to stimulate business activity and generate more jobs.

That could entail increased spending by the government, tax reductions, a combination of both or simply a shuffling of tax burdens and spending priorities.

Also imminent are changes in federal revenue demands, tax rates and tax exemptions to back up wholesale reorganization of social welfare programs scheduled for the new year.

In addition, some "temporary" tax measures are due to expire or run down. The government could decide to announce revival or an end to the 1968 surcharge on basic income taxes, due to end Dec. 31, and a 1969 measure to discourage construction of commercial buildings in richer communities, which peters out in 1971.

ASSUMING PERMIT WILL BE GRANTED

Utah Goes Ahead With Mine Plans

PORT HARDY — Utah Construction and Mining Co. is building its $74-million copper-mining complex on the assumption it will be allowed to dump mine waste into Rupert Inlet near here, a provincial government inquiry was told Wednesday.

This statement was made Wednesday by a company spokesman during a 12-hour hearing into the permit application held by provincial pollution control director William N. Venables.

Robert Wheaton, administrative manager of the project, was answering a question asked by Elaine Price of Duncan, who had suggested that the company was proceeding with its project without knowing that it might be refused a permit and have to shut down its construction operation.

He told Mrs. Price that the company has applied for a permit to discharge its mine-mill waste into Rupert Inlet, and that if the application is turned down the company would make another application based on alternative methods of disposal of the waste.

Mrs. Price's question apparently arose from comments made Tuesday during a tour of the project by Venables to the effect that the hearing was being held chiefly to determine the method of waste disposal, rather then to deny proceeding with the project.

Venables later said he had intended only to emphasize that his responsibility does not relate to the question of the actual construction of the plant, but deals only with control over discharges from the plant into Rupert Inlet.

After he adjourned the marathon hearing, Venables was asked if he could indicate whether Utah could conceivably be denied a permit and thus be forced to shut down this operation.

CURB BILL WITHDRAWN

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP) — The government on opposition urgings today withdrew its bill to restrict the powers of the auditor-general.

Stanley Knowles, New Democrat house leader, presented a motion giving the government consent to withdraw the bill which the opposition had said it would fight all the way to closure.

Knowles's motion required unanimous consent.

city behind wailing sirens from Montreal International Airport as excitement gripped the population which has waited long for a big break in the Cross case, now in its 60th day.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons that negotiations with the abductors began this morning.

Trudeau said the abductors sent a communique proposing negotiations Wednesday night, after an intensive police operation began in Montreal.

The prime minister told the Commons that lawyer Robert Demers was acting for the government.

The break in the case came just 60 days after the British trade commissioner was kidnapped at gunpoint Oct. 5 from his home on fashionable Redpath Crescent.

The weather was sunny with temperatures in the 40s, unusually warm for December. Streets were dry and police movements were made easier by the absence of snow.

Warrants are out for four men in connection with the kidnapping of Cross and the subsequent kidnap-killing of Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister slain Oct. 17 after a week in captivity.

Charged with both kidnappings are Paul Rose, 27, a former teacher, and taxi driver Marc Carbonneau, 37.

Charged with conpsiracy in the Laporte abductions are Jacques Rose, 23, brother of Paul, Francis Rimard, 23, and Bernard Lortie, 19. Lortie was picked up in a police raid Nov. 6.

In Montreal North, police surrounding the suspected hideout refused passage to a well-dressed man in his late 50s who said he wanted to get through "just in case" his son was in the house.

The man was Gerard Lanctot,

Lanctot, worried and nervous, offered his help to authorities to prevent his son from doing anything rash—if his son happened to be in the house.

He had not seen Jacques since his son was 17.

After the lawyers entered the house Montreal's police chief, Marcel St. Aubin, arrived on the scene. The QPP chief remained at police headquarters to brief Justice Minister Choquette.

The Montreal Star says negotiations of some kind have been under way through an unidentified channel since Wednesday night.

The terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec was apparently asking that the government's safe conduct offer for the Cross kidnappers should also be extended to those involved in the kidnapping and murder of Laporte.

Choquette said Nov. 3 the government offer of safe conduct to Cuba does not apply to the murderers of Laporte.

The Star quotes informants in Montreal and Quebec City as saying the FLQ cell members holding Cross had been warned that if anything happens to the diplomat their own chances of survival would be slight indeed. The police would simply go in shooting.

Residences surrounding the duplex have been evacuated, a QPP spokesman reported. Four ambulances and several helicopters were seen on the yard of Pie IX school, which had been evacuated earlier.

The last word from Cross came in a handwritten letter found in a northern telephone booth Sunday, Nov. 22, saying he was alive and well but wondering when his "bad dream" would end. It was dated Nov. 15.

The eyes of all citizens were turned to the north-end area, a quiet district in normal times.

Big buses were used to blockade streets at a time when the QPP would confirm only that a "police operation concerning the Laporte-Cross investigation" was in progress.

One source said later the Des Recollets house had been under surveillance for nine days.

At 9:30 a.m. general police broadcasts were made: "All vehicles and personnel involved in Operation Cordon take positions."

Three minutes later they were reported in position and ready to any eventuality.

Involved in the sealing-off operation were QPP, RCMP, Montreal and harbor police.

Bennett Continues Tax Game

He said today "the people must be served" and as a result "adjustments" will be made at a Vancouver hospital which was forced to confine patients to bed unless they can dress themselves.

The move, resulting from a critical staff shortage at the Pearson Hospital for the chronically ill, a provincial institution, was attributed Wednesday by Opposition Leader Dave Barrett to "cruel or stupid" policies by Health Minister Ralph Loffmark.

Bennett said today such adjustments "cost money" and engaged a reporter in a brief debate on the merits of paying taxes to provide more services to people.

"We've got to give more services, not less. They cost money," Bennett said.

However, when asked whether he would have to dip into surplus funds to balance the current year's budget, as he predicted last summer, Bennett said he would prefer to wait a while and study his revenue receipts for the remaining four months of the fiscal year.

Bennett said his previously announced review of the provincial taxation system is "coming along very thoroughly."

USC Fund Provides Homes

Easing hunger is not enough. The poor of Korea, Asia, Vietnam and the Middle East need homes, medical aid and vocational training.

The Unitarian Service Committee of Canada is a non-denominational, non-political relief and rehabilitation agency with programs for all these needs.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, USC executive director, guarantees that USC funds are never diverted by graft or into the black market. Each year, she personally inspects USC overseas programs.

Your donations to the Times Children of Asia Fund will help the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada reach its goal of $1,265,000. Donations to the Children of Asia Fund may be mailed or delivered in person to the Times offices at 2631 Douglas or to the Bank of Nova Scotia, Douglas and Yates.

Snowmobile Licences Proposed

NEW WESTMINSTER, (CP)—The British Columbia Federation of Agriculture voted Wednesday for compulsory licensing of snowmobiles.

The resolution, presented by the B.C. Beef Cattle Growers' Association at the federation's annual convention here, stated licensing of the machines would make it possible for their operators to be tracked down in the event of damage to farm property.

The convention passed another resolution from the cattle growers suggesting it be made compulsory for anyone carrying a firearm outside the boundaries of his own property to have a licence.

Delegates also voted for resolution proposing a fund derived from the sale of hunting licences be set up to compensate farmers for the loss of livestock to hunters and predatory animals.

The three-day convention ended Wednesday.

Saanich Plans $2 Million Loan For Sewerage

Saanich council is proposing to borrow close to $2 million to finance sewerage and waterworks expansion.

Official notice was given today. Unless within 30 days one-twentieth of the property owners (about 1,500 persons) petition council for a referendum, council may approve the bylaws.

It is proposed to borrow $924,000 to construct various improvements and extensions to the waterworks system and $900,000 for sewerage work in the Burnside-Marigold and Warren Douglas areas.

He said this question is impossible to answer fairly, but then pointed out that the Pollution Control Branch is 'quite anxious for this province to advance and at the same time has pollution control methods which have some compatibility with industry."

Four objectors said after the exhausting 12-hour hearing here Wednesday that Venables conducted the hearing in a "very fair" manner.

The marathon one-day hearing began at 8:30 a.m. and lasted until 9:30 p.m. when Venables adjourned it without setting a date for any further meeting.

However, Venables, in an earlier interview, indicated the hearing would be "open-ended" to permit objecting organizations to appeal his decision not to hear their briefs at this time.

The hearing was conducted with all the solemnity and severity of a courtroom. Venables explained to the objectors, representatives of Utah and about 40 other people gathered in the Lions Hall that "for the purpose of the hearing the director has all the powers of a judge under the Summary Convictions Act." He warned further that the hearing would be carried on in an orderly manner, and it was.

Participants had only one hour off for lunch and a five-minute afternoon break. Venables would not allow smoking in the hall which was cold in the 20-degree weather.

Three laymen and a representative of a conservation group appeared as objectors before Venables and a panel of three technical experts and a lawyer.

The objectors were Mrs. Price; E. R. Morton; Roger Prentice, retired, or North Vancouver, and Patrick Moore of the Pacific Salmon Society.

3-Count Hearing Continues

A preliminary hearing of a joint three-count charge against two brother-businessmen which began Wednesday is scheduled to continue until the end of next week in Victoria provincial court.

Frank Large, 4230 Glendenning, and Earl Walter Large, 882 Beckwith, were charged Aug. 18 with issuing a false prospectus, defrauding Gairdner and Co. of $1 million, and theft of more than $50 from Datatech Systems Ltd.

Tower Collapse Quiets Stations

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — Wind and ice toppled most of a 500-foot radio transmission tower on Orcas Island in the San Juans today, Don J. Bevilacqua, manager of the station, reported.

Bevilacqua said his station, KERI of Bellingham, and KVGM, Bellingham, both FM, were knocked off the air when 420 feet of the tower went down.

The mishap also affected navy transmission since the tower, located on 2,500-foot Mount Constitution, also carried navy equipment, he said.

Station KVOS-TV of Bellingham lost power due to the tower's plunge, Bevilacqua said, but resumed transmission with auxiliary power.

He said there were no injuries.

Victoria Man, 26, Charged After Mayor Campbell Hit

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 26-year-old man from Victoria was charged with common assault Wednesday following an attack by an alleged Maoist on Mayor Tom Campbell during an election rally at the University of British Columbia.

The mayor said he was hit in the side by an ashtray when a man strolled onto the stage and lunged suddenly across a table in an apparent attempt to punch him.

Later, David Johann Johannson was charged with common assault, and remanded without bail until Dec. 9—Vancouver election day.

Mayor Campbell was winding up a brief speech at an all-candidates meeting when the attack came.

Glasses flew and nine other mayoral candidates leaped up. Mayor Campbell dodged the assailant after a brief scuffle and ran to one side of the stage while three policemen and a few of those on stage grabbed a man and pulled him to the ground.

The man was identified by nearby students as being a member of the Canadian Communist Party Marxist-Leninist and not a UBC student.

The man kept screaming "Death to Fascism" and "Death to Fascists" as he was hustled away.

Bill Gibson, a UBC professor and candidate for mayor, charged that Maoists and Yippies are trying to get Mayor Campbell re-elected because they would have no one to attack if a moderate were elected.

The mayor told reporters he was unhurt and would not seek medical attention but he clutched his right side.

"He got me in the rib cage," he said, "I'm all right. I'm all right."

But it was learned later the mayor was planning to undergo x-rays today.

An official of the university RCMP detachment said no special security arrangements had been made to protect the mayor as far as he knew.

But protection for the mayor was reportedly renewed by city police Tuesday after he received a threat. No details were disclosed.

UBC student Robb Walsh, acting as moderator at the university meeting, tried to pull the attacker away from the mayor while New Democratic candidate Tony Gargrave and other candidates assisted.

A statement from the university's Alma Mater (student) Society president "deplored" the incident.

"It was not the act of students of the University of B.C. I hope the people of Vancouver will see the incident in its true light as the action of an individual."

The mayor left the meeting a short time later saying he had another commitment.

He told reporters later:

"All I know is that all of a sudden this guy jumped on stage and came over and threw an ashtray at me. It's in pieces lying on the floor."

Earlier, Mr. Campbell told students that society will be in trouble unless there is law and order.

"If anyone had predicted five years ago what has happened in Quebec, everyone would have laughed. I am warning you now unless we do have law and order you are going to have the same thing happen in B.C."

Vietnam Search Continues For Downed U.S. Aircraft

SAIGON (CP) — U.S. planes and helicopters criss-crossed the mountains of central South Vietnam today, searching for the wreckage of two American C-123 transport planes missing since the weekend with a total of 123 persons aboard.

One of the planes disappeared last Friday with 73 Vietnamese and six Americans aboard. The U.S. command announced Sunday that it was missing.

Today, the command announced a second C-123 disappeared Sunday with five American crew members, 27 American passengers and 12 Vietnamese passengers. A spokesman said it was on a scheduled passenger flight.

SOVIET BLOC AGREES ON ALL SUBJECTS

Rubber-Stamp Meeting Ends

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviet bloc summit meeting in East Berlin lasted only one day and announced full agreement on all subjects discussed but gave no details. Meanwhile, the Western Big Three again protested the latest interference with West Berlin traffic.

The top leaders of the seven Warsaw pact nations met Wednesday in East Berlin for the first time, apparently to bolster the prestige of Walter Ulbricht's East German regime.

A communique said unanimity was reached and documents would be released later on the topics discussed: "The strengthening of security and the development of peaceful co-operation in Europe, the sharpening of the situation in Indochina, the situation in the Near East, and aggression of the colonialists against the Republic of Guinea."

As the meeting ended, the chiefs of the U.S., British and French missions in West Berlin delivered a note to the Soviet embassy in East Berlin protesting East German harassment of traffic to and from West Berlin since Saturday.

Western border officers reported that the slowdown on the access routes ended about the time the Communist summit ended.

Pollution Agreement Expected

BRUSSELS (AP) — Leaders of the North Atlantic pact are expected to announce agreement Friday to work together urgently toward getting rid of sea pollution from oil tankers.

It will be the first high-level decision to emerge from the Committee on the Challenges of Modern Society, set up in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Most oil pollution of the sea comes from tankers using sea water as ballast and to flush out their holds. The alternative is to build facilities on shore, or tankers that separate their sea-water ballast from the oil.

Neither of these projects has begun on any considerable scale, and either would be long and expensive.

CCMS is working on seven other projects that have nothing to do with defence, from road safety to the motivations of government jobholders. It has done some work on investigating air pollution over big cities and on a "clean engine" that would cut down the pollutants from automobiles.

Carrot Versus Stick

IT CANNOT BE SAID THAT THE voluntary price and wage restraint which was inaugurated by the Federal Prices and Incomes Commission last February has been a success. But it would be equally incorrect to call it a failure, for even with limited support for the guidelines the surge of inflation has not been so pronounced in Canada as in some other countries, and there are signs that it is now tapering off.

The program of voluntary restraint was advanced as a joint plan for labor and management with the national government as its sponsor. Six per cent wage increases were suggested as the maximum which should be permitted. Price increases were to be held below cost increases. Organized labor, however, rejected the program entirely; management gave fairly widespread agreement to the concept, but in practice it was almost impossible to apply it in terms of the original expectations.

Now the guidelines plan is to be abandoned: a request to continue it through the first six months of next year has been turned down by management on the grounds that the uncertainty of economic conditions, and a move by government to encourage new life in business activity to ward off a too-severe unemployment situation this winter make it impractical for management to continue.

The program from the first had been the target of strong criticism, largely because it was a voluntary one and hence, it was said, doomed to failure. Labor's reaction did little to counter this contention. But the alternative of a legislated price and wage freeze, with its irksome restrictions, ponderous machinery, and heavy costs of supervision and enforcement, was something to aviod if at all possible.

The guidelines, even with their partial effectiveness, exerted beneficial influence. As an exercise in citizenship and group response to a serious national problem it was very revealing. Wage increases of as much as 20 and 25 per cent were imposed during the course of the voluntary plan.

It was in mid-August, 15 months ago, that Prime Minister Trudeau outlined in a broadcast the main principles of government policy on inflation. There was to be an effort to achieve a budgetary surplus, to cut down on governmental costs, to reduce the amounts of money turned over to the provinces. There was the application of improved program planning and budgeting methods for cost control. And there was the voluntary restraint program for private industry and labor.

In the year or more since announcement of the program the erosion of inflation has not been halted; but the situation today is better than if no action had been taken. The side effects, particularly mounting unemployment, have brought hardship in some areas, and the government's concern now should be to start the opposite trend toward more jobs, on the reasoning that if new productivity can match incomes the inflationary pressure will be kept to a minimum.

The voluntary guidelines program at any rate was well worth trying, even though so many Canadians appeared unwilling to make a voluntary effort unless they were forced into it.

Loosen the Reins, but . . .

IN EASTERN EUROPE, WHERE the youth revolt is less "far out" than in the West, Communist officials have begun to analyse the phenomenon on a basis other than that their own young people have been infected by the West.

In Hungary a party newspaper notes that youth is living in a changing world with values that do not coincide with those set for society by a generation now between 30 and the late 50s. The state, it suggests, should raise its standards for youth's welfare, material and aesthetic.

"Young people," a writer in the newspaper says, "must express themselves in 'searching' and 'debating' and if some of their ideas are 'extravagant' this is better than holding prefabricated notions which they have not worked out for themselves or which are not based on their own experience."

This attitude, more liberal than most in Eastern Europe, perhaps comes closer to a recognition of the ferment and its causes among the young than is usual among Communist countries. The writer, moreover, cautions his contemporaries of the older generation not to hold all young people suspect if they criticize.

But this line of thought comes to an abrupt end. After preaching a liberal doctrine, the writer adds one little provision. Let them think independently, he argues, let them speak out, and all will be for the best so long as they realize that "only the party" could define the line young people should follow.

The discussion sounds familiar: loosen the reins, but remember who's in the driver's seat.

Trapped by Medical Success?

STARTLING VITAL STATISTICS, which it attributes to India's health minister, have been reported by Reuter from New Delhi. The news service says that family planning has prevented 52 million births up to this year, but that although the birth rate is falling the population rises by about 13 million a year because fewer people are dying.

Conventionally, the latter development should win commendation for the apparent advances it discloses in medical science, hygiene and nutrition. The drop in mortality tables reflects a positive gain in health. It is reasonable to assume that improved diets, resulting from improved agriculture, are significant factors in the development. Yet, despite the cheering successes implicit in the trend, the old problem of over-population is accentuated.

The prospective solution seems to be intensification of work on family planning — already proving itself in the reduction of the birth potential, but not enough to compensate for the higher survival rate. A natural check on growth has been removed in India by the creation of a healthier people, but the eventuality indicated by Professor Malthus is apparently a problem still to be solved.

Pushed Around by Hydro

Is the average citizen aware of the sweeping powers given to B.C. Hydro for the purpose of acquiring property? This Crown Corporation can enter anyone's property without first obtaining the owner's permission. We checked with a local MLA who confirmed that Hydro has this authority. Can it be true that the citizens, and in effect the government of British Columbia, are really subservient to B.C. Hydro?

About two weeks ago, a Hydro representative telephoned to inform us that our five-acre parcel on Munns Road, very near Francis Park, was required for a power line site. That same evening, before the significance of this could sink in, he made an offer to buy this property for much less than we paid for it several years ago, not to mention other related costs such as legal fees.

In an attitude of superior knowledge and wisdom, he further stated that if we made a blunder by buying in a depressed area of Saanich, as well as over-paying for it, then Hydro was not going to pick up the tab on our error. He stated it would not be fair to pay more than $1,100 per acre to us when others did not get as much.

A week later, the same representative arrived and made his top offer to purchase our land for $7,500. We stated that if we could buy similar land in Saanich's six-mile circle for that price then it seemed fair enough. Since then we have checked with most real estate firms as well as through private advertising and have received, but one offer to sell to us at $4,500 per acre. Real estate people have assured us there is nothing at all in the Hydro-offered price range.

The day following Hydro's last offer, their agent wanted to send a bush clearing crew in to strip our land of trees. We gave him a firm "NO" because we wanted to have it appraised in its present state. We were surprised to find a large tree cut the very next day. About two days later several more trees were cut as well as a slash right across our land. When we saw Hydro tags on the stumps we realized that this was not the work of vandals. But that in itself was a small consolation because we felt that our right of privacy was infringed upon by an organization created and given legal protection by our government but denied to the people of British Columbia.

There is to be a large corridor denuded of trees and scarring our landscape and watershed area for the purpose of power lines and transformer sites. Large areas of land are now in the process of being amassed. No doubt there are others affected. This we feel is a situation where people faced with this problem know that the price is not fair but are pushed into a corner by a corporation with vast resources, lawyers, and other experts hired to fight us with our own money. Then as a double burden we must find our own private resources to obtain redress. This is a first-class example of mental coercion. — Mr. and Mrs. S. Borden, 2144 Ferndale Road, Victoria.

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

Nothing to Lose but Our Shirts

THE onset of a period of unemployment has traditionally been signalled by demands inside and outside Parliament for greater protection of Canadian industry.

Western

What distinguishes our time is the absence of any serious resistance in the House of Commons. Nothing could better illustrate this than the reception accorded Jean-Luc Pepin's shirt tax. This is overt and plainly recognizable protection intended to supplement the covert and camouflaged protection of the "voluntary" agreements. It will be recalled that these were imposed (originally on the Japanese) by Donald Fleming and extended subsequently by Walter Gordon and his Liberal successors.

As government house leaders frequently complain, opposition members are often deaf to pleas of urgency from the ministerial benches. An obvious example is the slow progress on the Temporary Measures Act. On Thursday, however, the House moved with quite remarkable celerity — and with only one dissenting voice — to give its approval to the surtax order.

Why the haste: The original order effective on June 2 last was to have expired on November 30. Various importers were holding quantities of non-quota shirts in customs warehouses. The fear was that these might go on the market at the beginning of December, thus — in Mr. Pepin's words — "disturbing the sales of Canadian products during the holiday season."

Were Consumers Disturbed?

How many consumers, other than those connected with the industry, were disturbed sufficiently to petition Parliament for action averting this awful fate?

To his credit one western Liberal, David Anderson (Esquimalt-Saanich), did make a stand for the Christmas shopper. He stood alone. The Conservative spokesmen beamed on Mr. Pepin and expressed commendation. NDP and Creditiste members scowled at the minister, complained that the policy was inadequate and lamented the plight of other industries in similar circumstances. Except for Mr. Pepin, one member from a textile area, and a Parliamentary secretary who had to reply in line of duty, none of the Liberals said anything.

There were, however, a number of obvious things to be said. On the evidence of the speeches that were made textile plants are going down right and left and need to be supported by such devices as the shirt tax. At the same time, however, Mr. Marchand is paying out money to set up new plants for regional development. How soon will we be faced with the choice of propping these up or watching them go down in the same fashion?

How Temporary?

The surtax is temporary. So was the last one. So were the quotas — temporary since 1960. In fact governments have been extending temporary help to textiles, at the expense of consumers and taxpayers, for the better part of a century. If the industry, as one imaginative spokesman put it, is "in the vanguard of technological progress throughout the world," when will we be liberated from shirt protection?

The usual assurance is that some great scheme of modernization or rationalization is just around the corner. Why does it never materialize? This time as on the last occasion action is being taken "pending the full implementation of the new textile policy." At the moment the policy is a gleam in Mr. Pepin's eye. It is to be recommended at some time to the government by the textile and clothing board. We can only surmise its nature from certain remarks volunteered by Bruce Howard the minister's parliamentary secretary.

The government is to make available to the industry a full range of programs. In particular, Ottawa officials will help the shirt industry with style promotion, thus enabling it to develop export markets which do not now exist.

With government sponsored styling the shirt manufacturers will be happy at last and there will be an end to demands on the consumer.

Any consumer who believes this deserves to lose his shirt.

The trouble with the arguments made for shirts is that they can also be made for other protected goods. Indeed, they were. Mr. Saltsman, spoke of desperate conditions in the shoe industry, as did one of the Creditistes. Tears were also shed for the electronic, chemical and furniture industries, all of which have been dependent on protection since ancient times.

Inefficiency

But surely we must have some inefficient industries which the consumer ought not to be required to support. Or is this merely a quaint notion of economists? Mr. Howard said: "In good conscience we cannot see established industries wiped out by a program of freer trade." Thus if they are established they must be efficient even if we do have to go on propping them up, year after year and decade after decade, especially at Christmas.

The situation is complicated by the apparent fact that the government's right hand does not know what its left hand is doing. For, as Mr. Anderson pointed out, the present measure is aimed not primarily at the United States or Japan but at the poorer countries. As such, he noted uncharitably, "it is contradictory to the Canadian government's white paper on foreign policy with respect to external aid."

A colleague from Quebec, Mr. Yves Forest, introduced the concept of an "irresponsible import." Unfortunately, he failed to define it. What is there about an irresponsible import, other than an attractive price, which would serve to identify it to the responsible consumer eager to adjust his purchases in accordance with the wishes of style-conscious Ottawa officials?

It does not appear that an alert opposition, seeking to perform its critical duties, might without too much difficulty have found reasons for resisting the shirt tax on Canadian consumers. The only conclusion to be drawn from the absence of protest is that the opposition preferred to be uncritical lest it sacrifice potential votes. Mr. Pepin's motion passed without so much as a cry of "on division" — a fair indication that while protection may be wrong in principle, it arouses a minimum of indignation in particular cases.

UN ENTRY ISSUE

By C. L. SULZBERGER

Time for a U.S. Switch on China

NOW that elections are over, it is high time for the United States to adopt a realistic new China policy aimed at bringing Peking into the UN instead of keeping it out. This question is no longer a hot political issue and, indeed, more and more prominent Americans have spoken in favor of such a move and more and more polls have indicated it would be acceptable to public opinion. Moreover, it can now be stated with 100 per cent certainty that Communist China wants to join and no longer abides by its previous snooty, stand-off attitude. There is absolutely no doubt on this score.

Sulzberger

Peking realizes it has lost by past policy and that its great adversary, Moscow, has gained throughout the world by the self-imposed Chinese isolation abetted by American quarantine efforts. Today China understands that at least some of its international ambitions can best be expressed through existing international institutions.

For its part, the United States has slowly become aware that its hitherto successful effort to exclude Peking, first by corralling votes, then by insisting this is an "important" question that can only be settled by two-thirds majority, is counterproductive.

It is counterproductive with respect to potential relations with China simply because the Peking regime can only have its rough edges beveled off by increased association with the outer world and can only mature in the sense of international responsibility as its foreign contacts expand. This has been the case with every revolutionary regime in history and there is no reason why China's should prove different.

Counter-Productive

Furthermore, it is counterproductive with respect to over-all American foreign policy because the attitudes with which we are now stuck by inheritance since 1949 force us into a position of total inflexibility with respect to great-power relationships. One by one we have seen our major friends realize as much and desert our deadend course — Britain, France, Canada, Italy. It is also time for us to change.

At this juncture we seem again to be on the verge of working ourselves into another box with Russia, yet we don't have the opportunity — which theoretically exists for the Russians even if they don't try it — of playing an alternative China game.

President Nixon recently made it clear to Foreign Minister Gromyko that the latest American proposals for the SALT disarmament talks represent the limit to which the United States feels it can go. Therefore we may soon know whether there is to be a deadlock in those all-important negotiations at the same moment that the argument over Suez cease-fire arrangements continues unabated.

The wise thing for Washington would be not simply to drop insistence on the "important" question definition but to release all other nations from their pledged votes accepting the U.S. line and to switch our own stand from opposition either to abstention or to outright approval. Surely nothing is gained by stumbling down the same blind alley for yet another year.

This, of course, raises the highly charged issue of Taiwan or, as it fondly calls itself, Nationalist China. There is no doubt that Peking will not, despite its changed views, agree to join the UN while Taiwan remains a member. The old "two Chinas" formula is dead; it was always a non-starter.

Taiwan Ouster

Therefore Washington will have to accept Taiwan's ouster from the U.N. if Peking is to join. However, there is much confusion on this point. Admission of Communist China does not require Washington to accord diplomatic recognition to Peking; indeed the two have nothing to do with each other. Nor does it require Washington to abandon its insistence on Taiwan's independence from the mainland and its physical security.

It is perfectly logical for the United States to continue guaranteeing Taiwan's security for as long as this is deemed in our own national interest. Today we are allied to and stand guarantors of West Germany, South Korea and South Vietnam, none of which is a UN member. The only thing required to libertate our policy from rusty old shackles is to terminate the sham that Taiwan is China.

We could even, if necessary, reassert our protection of Taiwan — as Taiwan, not Nationalist China — while at the same time moving for the first time toward a realistic China policy that accords with prevailing facts. Everyone would gain from such a new approach and not the least of the beneficiaries would be the United States itself, at last allowed a tiny bit of elbow room in its field of great-power manoeuvre.

Sugar Plums Dancing Through Shattered Psyches

and STEPHEN ISAACS

Are you one of the millions upon millions of people looking forward to Christmas, 1970, with joyful anticipation? Are you one of those who can't wait for the love and sharing of love, the spirit of giving and of forgiving?

Or are you among the growing numbers already heading into their annual Christmastime depression, yellowing with anxiety, soulfully despising the prospect of having to endure one more Christmas with sugar plums of frustration skittering about their psyches?

Because there is, indeed, a striking polarity about Christmas in America, and the chasm seems to be ever-widening as the emphasis on Christmas continues to heighten.

The Christmas Jollies and the Sufferers do agree on one point: that the Christmas season is the most loaded time of the year, psychologically speaking. It is the time when feelings can be intensified to the point of absolute benevolence, raving cupidity or sudden despair.

The Casualties

Generally, the sociologists, psychologists and psychiatrists are negative about Christmas. This is explainable, certainly, by the fact that most of the reactions they see are the casualties. You might even say they go out looking for them.

The pre-Christmas holiday "is characterized by the presence of diffuse anxiety, numerous regressive phenomena including marked feelings of helplessness, possessiveness and increased irritability, nostalgia and bitter rumination about holiday experiences of youth, depressive effect and a wish for a magical resolution of problems . . . (the patient) may deny the meaningfulness of the holiday season to him, though the emotional components and unconsciously motivated behavior remain . . ."

Great Expectations

Dr. Cattell further pointed out that Sundays and holidays are times of re-evaluating one's self and one's relationships to the world around. "There is a paradoxical emphasis," he said, "on conforming obedience, special expressions of interest, tenderness and belonging on the one hand, with unusual license and magical expectations on the other.

"All this carries a tremendous emotional impact and nurtures regressive behavior which is almost as well institutionalized as the more formal religious and social aspects of Sundays and the holiday season."

Indeed, institutionalized regression. Heavy stuff, but that, in brief, is what Christmas is all about, a weird kind of ego trip, with people grabbing a little bit of love. You might boil it down to its most simplistic form and say that people who can love and accept love can dig Christmas, but people who have trouble loving and being loved tend to go into a private hell at Christmas.

So how does Christmas affect an uptight person?

Dr. Cattell says he or she "has feelings of isolation, loneliness and boredom, as well as an inclination to frequent self-evaluation in a derogatory sense."

The whole literature of the psychology of Christmas reiterates that referrals to psychologists and psychiatrists are heavies at Christmas.

There are these two disparate schools of thought on Christmas — one that holds it out to be a beautiful, blessed time for warm families to become even warmer and another that decries the emotionalism of the season for forcing recall, consciously or unconsciously, of terrible fantasies and nightmares of Christmases past.

They're probably both right. Because life presents all sorts of potential crises for the psyche. Some people handle them beautifully and grow from their handling of them. Other people go to pieces from essentially the same stimuli.

Translated into reality, that means that some people love fantasizing about Santa Claus and enjoy healthy, well-balanced attitudes towards the myth of Santa and all it implies, and some other people end up hating their parents for lying to them about Santa and hating their siblings for getting more from him than they did (they think) or just plain hating Santa because he didn't come across with what they really wanted.

Cut Off Ear

Take the case of poor Vincent van Gogh. The famed Dutch painter didn't undergo the hyped-up, tinsel-entwined, hallellujah-baby Christmas that Americans have drummed up, but the variety he was approaching in 1888 didn't please him too well.

At 11:30 p.m. on Dec. 23, the night before Christmas Eve, he lopped off his ear.

Dr. Albert J. Lubin analysed van Gogh 80 years later and concluded that he identified with the maimed, the aged and the poor. He did so, said Dr. Lubin, "in the hope of obtaining the Christmas gifts of love and foregiveness."

The literary view of Christmas glorifies the Christmas spirit, the spirit of warmth and charity and human kindness — the literature, say, of Dickens' Christmas Carol, of Francis Church's oft-reprinted editorial Yes, Virginia, There is a Santa Claus.

The psychiatric literature is more characterized by, say, Jule Eisenbud's negative reactions to Christmas or Dr. L. Bryce Boyer's Christmas "neuroses."

The men of the mind really tee off on Christmas Carol. Says psychologist Renzo Sereno: Christmas Carol points out how Scrooge "is able to dispel loneliness and fear through a modest investment in good fellowship."

And about Yes, Virginia, Sereno says, "Virginia could well afford to have doubts about Santa. But the editorial writer could not, lest he be forced to look at himself and to take stock of his insecurity and anxiety."

Sociologist James H. Barnett says Christmas Carol "is in a sense, a literary sermon on the importance and necessity of observing Christmas in the proper manner . . . Scrooge is portrayed by Dickens as sinning against Christmas . . in that he refused to recognize the claims for assistance of less fortunate members of society and denied the conventional obligations of kinship, friendship and kindness.

"He is threatened with death because he is neither charitable nor concerned with the lives of his fellow men . ."

Says Sereno:

"Belief in Santa is both a patriotic and an effective social gesture." Later, he says that the Christmas custom "is protected by a taboo against any critical discussion, so that adults may continue to shelter themselves and their children from the anxieties which lie between them and maturity."

The taboo against knocking Santa or Christmas goes further, though. Many people see Christmas as a religious rite — thus criticism of Christmas in effect takes on the sinful tinges of criticizing religion of God (Christ) himself. And many other people don't see it as so much a religious holiday as a hallmark of the American way of life and to fail to conform is to be indecent, aye, un-American.

Pagan Rite

It is worth noting that Christmas did not begin as a Christian celebration, but as a pagan rite (it stems from the Roman Saturnalia of the fourth century A.D.).

Says Barnett:

"The secular aspects of the Christmas holidays seem to be established quite firmly, and are not specificially related to the original religious character of the celebration.

"In the exploitation of Christmas sentiments by business groups, secularization has proceeded in the direction that calculated use of Christmas for financial gain has somewhat displaced the folk and familiar character of the celebration . . ."

The whole ritualism of the affair can, to some people, be delightful, in effect providing an annual regularity that pleases, totally. To others the rite becomes one of feeling small, of feeling impotent to stop all of it and ignore Christmas.

The family togetherness idea may be the single strongest lure of the holiday. Ernest Jones, in essays in Applied Psychoanalysis, says that Christmas pychologically represents an idea of resolving family discord through reunion. Its perennial attraction, Jones feels, is in the hope of attaining that ideal.

More Suicides

You find this longing particularly evident among people who have had little joy in relationships throughout the year. (Barnett mentions the "emotional warmth at Christmas that is not characteristic of the rest of the year.")

The contrast between happy, close-knit, joyous families is often too much for lonely people around Christmastime. Statistics show that most of December's suicides are clustered around the 25th day of the month.

The Christmas season "is characterized by the greatest relaxation on the part of the superego of society, so to speak. This is the season when governments grant amnesties and penal institutions distribute pardons."

What this means on a personal basis, says Barnett, is that "family differences, disputes and disagreements are supposed to be put aside for the holiday period and much stress is placed upon 'everybody's being happy this one time of the year.' "

Further, he says that "the Christmas emphases on kindness, generosity and levelling are cultural ideals which require reaffirming in a somewhat compensatory sense because the life processes of society deny these ideals in large measure . . ."

There are 18 shopping days left before Christmas.

Picture of Troubled Profession

By NICHOLAS VON HOFFMAN

Ralph Nader's people have now joined with many others in questioning whether the standard of medical care Americans are getting is as good as it should or could be.

One of his study teams, directed by Dr. Robert S. McCleery, a distinguished former Federal Drug Administration official, has recommended nothing short of federal supervision of the practice of medicine.

This may appear drastic, even to the growing number of Americans who're becoming dissatisfied and even frightened by the quality of medicine they risk having practiced on them. The problem with trying to make an intelligent decision about such proposals is that what goes on in American medicine is so hard to find out about. It is a surprisingly secret profession.

Something of the sociology of medicine can be learned from a magazine which doctors don't leave around their waiting rooms. It's called Medical Economics, and it deals with every aspect of a doctors' life except the purely technical so that it's a first-rate source for learning how doctors live, what they think about, what their problems are.

Hide from Public

In line with the profession's obsessive need to control its millieu by secrecy, Medical Economics puts a copyright on a number of its articles which reads, "This . . . article may not be reproduced, quoted or paraphrased in whole or in part in any manner whatsoever . . ." Such strictures are unenforceable in court, but the mere attempt shows you the lengths medicine will go to escape any public review of its conduct.

What emerges from the pages of the magazine is a troubled profession in which the doctor works too hard, makes too much money, has too many business and administrative responsibilities and appears to be gradually cracking into pieces under the strain.

Doctors do make a lot of money. For example, one-fourth of all the obstetrician-gynecologists in private practice in the United States make over $50,000 a year. In another article, entitled "Urologists: Enjoying a Seller's Market," the magazine reports that 24 per cent make more than $60,000 a year and that 40 per cent make more than $50,000 a year.

Work Too Hard

To make this kind of money, doctors have to work 60 hours a week or more, which leads Medical Economics to repeatedly warn its readers against working too hard.

In a piece called, "You'll Live Longer if You Practice Defensively," Dr. Joseph Wasserug writes, "But even though it's true that you can earn more by working as hard as possible, your total wealth still depends on how much you can earn in a lifetime, rather than in a year or two. A doctor who makes $50,000 a year for 10 years is infinitely better off than a man who makes $75,000 for five years and drops dead from overwork."

The fatigue theme runs through issue after issue of the magazine. There are pieces on how to beat it, how to see more patients faster, how to make more economical use of time, how to be tired and also study the medical literature so that you're reasonably up to date in what you're doing.

You can't peruse Medical Economics without coming to the conclusion that many doctors are making too much money for our good and their own. They don't even know how to spend it, as the following list of article titles will illustrate: "How to Find Little Stocks With a Big Future"; "Investing in Scotch Has its Hangovers"; "The Stocks That May Lead the Next Bull Market"; "Will You Get Hurt if Your Broker Goes Under?"; "Convertible Bonds Can Put Kids Through College"; "How Doctor (Mutual) Funds Bucked Last Year's Losing Trend"; "How to Earn Top Interest With Safety — Hospital and Church Bonds Yield Appreciably More Than Other Bonds"; "How I Lost $17,000 in Successful Oil-Drilling Ventures"; "Real Estate Trusts are Worth a Second Look"; "What to do if a Stock Certificate Vanishes"; "How to Speculate Without Getting 'Speculitis.' "

The lay view of the professional man, the view that organized medicine has labored to have us accept as the norm of medical behavior, is offended by physicians who push themselves past exhaustion and ability to do the job right in order to have money to invest in scotch whisky futures.

The special respect accorded the profession is at least partly based on the premise that they are people who forego such wealth for other and better satisfactions.

Businessman

The magazine, which goes to a couple of hundred thousand doctors, brings out another aspect of the American physicians' life that lay people don't sufficiently appreciate, and that is the family doctor as a retail businessman, struggling to run a small organization which grosses anywhere from $100,000 to $400,000 a year.

In the pages of Medical Economics, we see doctors harried by personnel and administrative problems to such an extent that they must hire business consultants to set up paper-flow systems for them. We read articles with titles like "Is Your Receptionist Killing Your Practice — If She Can't Handle People Gracefully, She's a Menace."

We read other pieces about doctors who couldn't keep their records straight and went to jail for income tax evasion, and other physicians who lost control of their practices to their business managers.

In another issue we learn "How to Size Up a Collection Agency" and are given a sample dunning letter which says, "Remember, you will never be denied medical care . . . your choice is whether you want to be a clinic patient or a private patient. No further letter will be sent! If we do not hear from you in five days, your account will be turned over to our attorney for immediate suit . . ."

Haunted

The doctor is revealed in Medical Economics to be a man haunted by the threat of malpractice suits and deeply concerned over the price malpractice insurance is costing him.

To guard against successful suits, there are articles advising him to have his patients sign all kinds of forms, waivers and agreements, and yet other articles which explain that one of the reasons that physicians order expensive and unneeded diagnostic tests is to arm themselves with evidence in case of legal eventualities.

Still the price of malpractice insurance continues to rise, perhaps because patients sense a number of doctors are rich prizes for rip-offs, but also because the inept practitioner who merits being sued can't be chased out of the business.

Again, the pages of this magazine suggest that the doctors themselves know but can't bring themselves to do much about the bad physician whose license should be revoked.

Maybe heavy federal supervision will do some good, but if the U.S. government protects the public safety in this area as poorly as in so many others, it's a dubious proposition. The underlying difficulty is that the doctor has been changed from a professional into a businessman. The fee system which was supposed to keep him independent and with no loyalty save to his patients now works against his ancient status.

Perhaps more thought should be given to abolishing fee medicine; perhaps doctors should be salaried so that they don't overwork, don't engage in medical speedups to get rich and are freed from administrative and business cares.

Exchanges Support Moore Report

TORONTO (CP) — The major Canadian stock exchanges "have agreed to adopt temporarily the main recommendations" of a report that proposed stopping further foreign investment in the Canadian securities industry.

The Toronto Stock Exchange notified members Wednesday that the TSE, the Montreal, Canadian and Vancouver stock exchanges and the executive of the Investment Dealers' Association have agreed to the principal proposals in the Moore committee report.

The committee, directed by Trevor F. Moore, a retired senior vice-president of Imperial Oil Ltd., issued its report last May after a 10-month study of the industry.

The report's main recommendations were:

- Further foreign ownership of Canadian firms should be held by persons associated with the firm, and investment by "approved investors" outside the industry should be less than 25 per cent.
- Public ownership of Canadian securities firms should be prohibited.

The TSE report to its members said the exchanges will continue studying the question of foreign firms already established in Canada.

There are 114 Canadian securities firms which have membership in one or more of the four stock exchanges that commissioned the report. There are 15 foreign-controlled firms — 11 United States-controlled and four controlled by British interests.

The TSE notice said recommendations concerning foreign firms already operating in Canada will be completed by Oct. 1, 1971.

Foreign Exchange Reserves Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's official foreign exchange reserves rose $37.6 million during November to reach $4,644.5 million at the end of the month, the finance department reported today.

All of the increase was due to the maturing of a commitment made in May to buy U.S. dollars, when the government was trying to defend the former pegged exchange rate of 92.5 U.S. cents to the Canadian dollar.

Since the dollar was allowed to float and find its own level in international exchange markets, the foreign exchange reserves have been needed only to moderate day-to-day swings.

The November-end reserves consisted of $2,991 million in U.S. dollars and $12.4 million in other foreign currencies. The government held $880.4 million in gold, and had a reserve position in the International Monetary Fund totalling $579.6 million. In addition, Canada had IMF special drawing rights totalling $181.1 million.

LONDON (Reuter) Britain's gold and dollar reserved increased by £27 million in November even after allowing for debt repayment and other special outgoins totalling £85 million the treasury announced Wednesday.

The reserves now stand at £1,168 million, the highest they have been for 10 months.

But for the special outgoings, the reserves would have gone up by £112 million. This would have been he best gross gain since November, 1969, when the stockpile was increased by £9 million after overseas debts totalling £114 million had been repaid.

U.S. Will Pay More For Market Pulp

VANCOUVER (CP) — MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. has announced it will increase the price of market pulp in the United States effective Jan. 1.

The company said it has not made changes in the Canadian market.

The increase will amount to $8 a ton of bleached kraft pulp and $3 on unbleached grades. This brings the price to $177 (U.S.) for top quality fully-bleached pulp and $150 (U.S.) for unbleached.

A company statement said it was "impossible" for the company to absorb the full amount of increased production and distribution costs.

Total funds available for investment	$5,428,165,742	$5,232,342,897
These funds were employed as follows:
Cash resources—to meet the daily withdrawal of funds by customers	$1,202,204,575	$1,356,419,569
Call Loans and Government of Canada securities available to provide additional cash at short notice	866,785,596	742,095,090
Funds lent to provinces, municipalities and corporations by investing in their securities	253,927,009	219,995,513

Total funds employed	$5,428,165,742	$5,232,342,897

This tabulation sets out in simple terms our position as at October 31, 1970, and reflects our continued growth over the past year. Assets, deposits, loans, revenue and expenses all recorded an advance. Deposits, our main source of funds, rose by $208 millions to $5,009 millions. Total assets increased by $196 millions to $5,428 millions. The high interest rates which prevailed throughout the year are reflected on both sides of the revenue and expense statement. Interest income at $400 millions was $78 millions higher, but was largely offset by a rise of $67 millions in interest paid on deposits and bank debentures. In addition, salaries, pension contributions and other staff benefits recorded a marked increase, rising by $10 millions to $76 millions. Appropriations for losses totalled $18 millions as against $19.3 millions in the previous year and income taxes at $28.2 millions were $1 million higher. Profits after taxes and all charges were $18.9 millions, equivalent to $1.26 a share as compared with $1.15 in the 1969 fiscal year. The year was one of further progress for Toronto Dominion—made possible by the continuing confidence of our customers and the loyalty and teamwork of our personnel in 770 branches. To both our customers and personnel, a sincere "thank you". To non-customers a cordial invitation to make use of the complete banking service offered by

Alberta Upholds Court Choice

EDMONTON (CP)—The Supreme Court of Alberta ruled Wednesday that the Crown has the right to proceed by indictment in a case which can also be handled summarily.

Chief Justice J. V. H. Milvain said there is no discrimination against an accused if the Crown chooses to elect trial by indictment, even though a person could receive a longer sentence than he could if convicted in a summary trial.

Chief Justice Milvain was dealing with an application from lawyer Ian Baker, who claimed that two of his clients charged with trafficking in the drug MDA were being discriminated against because the Crown had chosen to try them by way of indictment.

Pat McClary, 26, and his wife, Carole, 25, were charged Oct. 22 under provisions of the Food and Drug Act. If convicted by indictment they face a maximum sentence of 10 years, seven years longer than the maximum sentence for the same offence by summary conviction.

SAYS RIGHTS VIOLATED

Mr. Baker said the Crown's election was a violation of the Canadian Bill of Rights.

In rejecting Mr. Baker's application to prohibit preliminary hearing in the case, Chief Justice Milvain said the Crown's choice to proceed by indictment or summary procedure is "one that has been embedded in our criminal law from its commencement."

The Alberta ruling follows a decision Nov. 9 by Judge Joseph Kelly of Ontario county court that the Crown had no right to proceed by indictment in a tax-evasion case.

The ruling came when Judge Kelly quashed charges against Stafford Smythe, Toronto Maple Leafs Hockey Club president, of evading income taxes of $289,372 and filing false or misleading returns.

Judge Kelly's ruling was appealed to the Supreme Court of Ontario. Chief Justice Dalton Wells reserved decision Nov. 17 on a Crown application asking him to order a trial for Mr. Smythe.

Ford Grant Won

NEW YORK (CP) — The Ford Foundation has announced a $126,000 grant to the University of Toronto for research in reproductive biology. The grant was one of five totalling about $1.4 million for research and training in the field, and the University of Toronto was the only Canadian institution to be named as a recipient.

Fear and Contempt In Africa Easing

By KENNETH L. WHITING

PRETORIA (AP) — There are hints of relaxation in the long and bitter conflict between black and white countries in Africa.

For more than a decade the continent's white-ruled southern tip and the newly independent states to the north viewed each other with fear and contempt. Militant black leaders condemned racial segregation and threatened to "liberate" blacks in the south. A succession of South African leaders warned they would tolerate no interference.

Bitterness and tension increased in the late '60s until it appeared no negotiating room was left.

Now there are small signs of a breakthrough.

From the South African viewpoint it is one result of Prime Minister Vorster's "outward-looking" foreign policy of mutual co-operation and aid for friendly black neighbors. This was first outlined more than two years ago. Skeptics suggested that Vorster aimed at creating a ring of neutralized buffer countries around South Africa and economically dependent on South Africa.

Foreign Minister Hilgard Muller indicates Pretoria is still sensitive on this point. He told a political meeting:

"We want our neighbors to become our friends voluntarily. We do not want an iron curtain around South Africa. We want to establish a friendly circle of free, independent states in this part of Africa."

Geography puts the former British territories of Botswana, Lesotho and Swaziland into South Africa's economic orbit. The unrecognized regime in breakaway Rhodesia depends heavily on South Africa for moral and financial support.

Malawi was the first real triumph for the outward-looking policy. In exchange for diplomatic recognition, Pretoria provided medical technicians and other specialists, communications equipment and funds to underwrite President H. Kamuzu Banda's dream capital at Lilongwe.

MEET SUCCESS

For more than a year informed sources in other parts of black Africa reported that South Africa's economic overtures were meeting with increasing success. Trade with more than half a dozen countries in east and west Africa developed under various guises.

Muller went to Malagasy in November to sign an economic pact through which South Africa will lend the Madagascar republic $3.25 million to develop tourism. Diplomatic links seem likely.

The Ivory Coast president, Felix Houphouet-Boigny, has suggested that black African leaders discuss the opening of "a dialogue" with South Africa. Five other French-speaking countries and Ghana supported his proposal. A similar number of nations rejected the idea.

There is no sign of an early detente, but the proposal may eventually mean an end to the era of empty threats and counterthreats. It could conceivably clear the way to devoting more money toward economic development and less to the politics of race.

9.6 Per Cent Average Pay Hike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiated wage increases in British Columbia for a six-month period to the end of November showed an upward trend, the B.C. Mediation Commission said in a report Wednesday.

A study of 32 agreements involving 48,000 employees indicated an average 9.6 per cent wage increase for the first year of negotiated contracts and 8.7 per cent for the second year.

Last year's six-month rate, including October, was about nine per cent.

NEW LOWER PHOSPHATE
DRIVE

DRIVE

OK

says Mrs. K. Tippett of St. Vital, Manitoba.

We gave Mrs. Tippett an advanced pack of new lower phosphate DRIVE, reformulated with substitute materials. Here's what she had to say about it:

"I liked the idea of a really good detergent and a stain remover working together. So I used DRIVE. Now that I have tried the new lower phosphate formula, I shall go on using it. It doesn't seem to have changed DRIVE's ability to give me a clean stain-free wash, and that's all I want."

This is just the beginning. Lever research will continue to try to find ways to use substitute materials to lower phosphate levels while maintaining DRIVE's high quality performance.

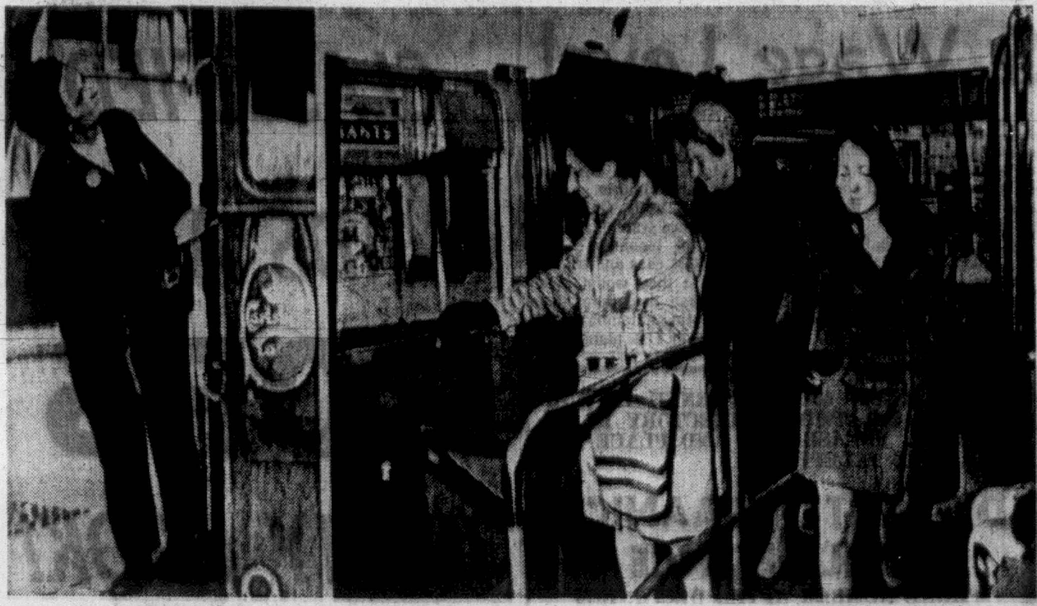
'CLIPPIE' RULE IS OVER



HEYDAY of woman conductors, or clippies, on London's double-deckers is over. They are being phased out in favor of driver and token turnstyles. (CP Wirephoto.)

By DONALD FORBES

LONDON (AP) — The heyday of the conductors and "clippies," the martinets who rule over London's famous red buses, is almost over. They are being eliminated.

Clippies are the woman conductors who appeared during the Second World War and soon earned the distinctive nickname. They still make up a large portion of the conductor force.

In London, conductors are like captains of ships. While drivers sit in isolation in enclosed cabs, the conductors collect the fares and rule with absolute powers over bad-tempered rush-hour crowds. It makes no difference whether the conductor is a husky male or a miniskirted clippie.

When one rasps "Move along there please," passengers hastily obey. When a clippie catches a traveller who hasn't paid the full fare, the blast of derision makes strong men blush.

The conductors are being dropped by London Transport because of demands for more efficiency, constant labor shortages and worsening traffic congestion.

Instead, it is putting the drivers—and automatic fare-taking machines—in the firing line by converting its fleet of 6,500 double- and single-deck buses to one-man operations. It is also to build 1,600 new double-deckers designed for one-man operation at a cost of $50 million.

The double-deckers seat up to 72 travellers. Only five standees are allowed, and they must be downstairs.

The new long wide single-deck buses—called Red Arrows—carry as many people, but two-thirds of them are straphangers, jolting around precariously in stop-start traffic.

Britain Turns Back Clock In Return to Greenwich

By RODNEY PINDER

LONDON (AP) — Parliament voted Wednesday night to turn back the clock and abandon Europe's time for good old GMT.

By an overwhelming vote of 366 to 81, the House of Commons wrote an end to a three-year experiment matching British clocks with those on the Continent.

Instead of keeping British summer time the year round, the clocks next Oct. 31 will be set back an hour to Greenwich mean time, the standard adopted 900 years ago.

Thereafter summer time will be used only from April through October.

Year-round BST was introduced for a trial period two years ago, mainly because of pressure by British industrialists wanting to get in time with their European colleagues.

During the winter, they complained, they started work an hour later than the Continent; had different lunch hours and went home an hour later, leaving only four or five hours of the business day open for telephoning back and forth.

In the debate in Parliament, the members were freed from party discipline and allowed to vote according to their own feelings. The House divided between north and south, and between town and country.

Northern members complained that some of their people didn't see the light of day until 11 a.m.

Farmers, who had christened BST "bloody stupid time," argued that darker mornings made country life more expensive and uncomfortable.

Canadian GM Offer Below U.S. Wage Level

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-three cents and a pension plan kept the General Motors of Canada Ltd. strike situation unsettled Tuesday.

Master table negotiations broke off when United Auto Workers union negotiators retired to consider a GM economic offer—but not until President Leonard Woodcock of the UAW labelled it "unacceptable."

The company offer would raise the base rate for assembly-line workers to $4.02 an hour from $3.59 under the old contract.

Under their new agreement, assembly line workers at General Motors Corp. in the United States get $4.25 an hour in the first year, 23 cents higher than the company's Canadian offer.

Canadian union leaders insist they will not settle for less than parity.

PENSION IS ISSUE

The other main issue is a Canadian pension offer of $442.50 a month at age 58, as opposed to the U.S. settlement of $500 a month at age 56.

Mr. Woodcock said Tuesday he hopes GM is willing to negotiate beyond its present offer "because what it offered today will not end the strike."

A. G. Stapleton, head negotiator for GM Canada replied, in an interview: "I don't see any settlement this week."

The strike by 23,000 Canadian workers entered its 82nd day today.

U.S. INDEX CLIMBS

The U.S. index climbed faster than the Canadian index and Mr. Woodcock has said the Canadian cost-of-living increases must be tied to the U.S. index to preserve parity and lay the basis for stable conditions and harmonious relations in the future.

George Morris Jr., a top GM negotiator, noted in an interview that Mr. Woodcock had said earlier that over the last 23 years the Canadian cost-of-living index had climbed 12.9 per cent higher than the U.S. index.

"Should this trend prove to be true in the future, General Motors' Canadian employees would be disadvantaged if the U.S. index were used to adjust their cost-of-living allowance."

GM officials also said the Canadian pension offer contains a supplementary benefit that would make the actual company pension higher than the U.S. company pension.

As negotiators debated in Toronto, about 100 wives of union members picketed the Oshawa office of GM Wednesday, refusing to let 1,500 office employees in to work.

"We're just fed up with the way negotiations are going," said Mrs. Frank Ayleward, mother of nine children.

In Niagara Falls, Ont., union members were watching border crossings for incoming American-made GM cars and trucks.

They said they would picket any Canadian dealership found to be accepting automobiles produced in GM's U.S. plants.

U.S. to Hike Spending On Defence

By RALPH HARRIS

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Americans face an increased defence bill next year despite President Nixon's policy of reducing U.S. military involvement abroad and hopes for negotiating an agreement with Moscow to curb the nuclear arms race.

A two-year trend toward lower defence spending, resulting mainly from the need to economize in a time of inflation, is likely to be sharply reversed.

Defence department officials are estimating that Congress might be asked for as much as an additional $3,400 million for the defence budget in the 1972 fiscal year beginning in July.

A seeming paradox is that the bill for overseas military and economic aid goes up as the president applies his Asian doctrine of pulling troops out of South Vietnam, Korea and other Southeast Asian countries.

The reasoning of the Nixon administration is that more defence spending now will be insurance against Russian nuclear gains and will permit U.S. allies and friends abroad to do more for their own self-defence without involving hundreds of thousands of American troops.

EYES SOVIET UNION

Defence Secretary Melvin E. Laird has given an unhappy Congress notice that he is likely to ask for budget increases next year chiefly to offset military advances by the Soviet Union, which he reports to be pulling ahead of the U.S. in the size of its nuclear arsenal.

Despite savings resulting from troop withdrawals from Vietnam, the word is that more money is needed to provide new military aid to overseas allies, to undertake urgently needed modernization of U.S. weapons and reserves neglected during the Southeast Asian war, to pay for inflation and to improve military pay scales.

Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the foreign relations committee, and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana say that a proposed increase of $155 million in military and economic aid to Cambodia indicates a widening U.S. involvement in the Indochina war.

The president's more politically popular request for $500 million to finance the sale of arms to Israel is assured of congressional passage without any delay.

BOYCE
. . . slows trial

Former Soldier Refuses To Give My Lai Details

FORT BENNING, Ga. (AP) — By refusing to testify even to being in Lieut. William Calley's platoon, a former soldier has slowed the four-witness-a-day pace of Calley's courtmartial.

The trial judge, obviously nettled, was to rule today what should be done with the reluctant witness. The judge said a contempt citation is possible.

"I wish to take my rights under the constitution," said Alan Boyce, 22, of Bradley Beach, N.J., when asked Wednesday the routine opening question of whether he had been in Vietnam.

"You are directed to answer the question," said Judge Reid Kennedy. "Were you in Vietnam?"

"Yes," Boyce said finally.

It was the last time he responded to any question about Vietnam and what happened at My Lai March 16, 1968. Calley is being tried on charges of murdering 102 Vietnamese civilians in the village that day.

The interruption — which caused Judge Kennedy to close the trial to public and press — came after other members of Calley's platoon placed the 27-year-old lieutenant near the ditch where 70 of the killings are alleged to have occurred.

In published recountings of the incident at My Lai, Boyce was said to have been left in a group of soldiers guarding Vietnamese who had been driven from their huts. The accounts said Boyce did not take part in any slayings.

Population Up

TOKYO (Reuter) — Japan had a population of 103,703,552 on Oct. 1, the premier's office announced. This represents an increase of 5,430,000 during the last five years.

Theft Level Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate legal and constitutional affairs committee has approved amendments to the Criminal Code which would raise to $200 from $50 the value of a theft for which a person could be jailed for 10 years, the maximum penalty for theft.

Price Boost Backed

CALGARY (CP) — The Alberta government will support the oil industry's quest for higher crude oil prices, Premier Harry Strom said Wednesday.

He doubts, however, that provincial endorsement will have to be as definite as it was in previous attempts to secure enlarged export markets for the industry.

The oil industry is long overdue for a price adjustment for its product as it has not received an increase for about four years, Strom said in an interview.

Labor 'Militant'

EDMONTON (CP) — Workers in Alberta are becoming more and more militant and the trend is not likely to stop, Eugene Mitchell, executive director of the Alberta Labor Federation, said Wednesday.

He said in an interview that workmen in the province "aren't going to settle for second-best situations any more."

He blamed the government and big corporations for the current inflationary spiral. Labor's increasing militancy was a "reaction" to inflation.

Mayors Upset

Henry Baker, mayor of Regina for the last 12 years, went down to defeat before Harry Walker, a 58-year-old school principal and former alderman.

In Moose Jaw, L. H. Lewry, mayor for the last six years, was upset by James Ernest (Ernie) Pascoe, 70, in a nip-and-tuck contest that ended with Pascoe ahead by 73 votes.

Increase Disappoints

WINNIPEG (CP) — The president of the Winnipeg Teachers' Association expressed disappointment Wednesday over an arbitration board's award of a five per cent wage pay increase to the city's 2,500 elementary and secondary school teachers. "in view of the awards made recently to civic employees such as police and firemen — who received a 23 per cent increase — this is certainly the lowest in Winnipeg," said Jack Lockett in an interview.

Rents Protested

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — About 60 employees of Churchill Forest Industries have threatened to withhold rent payments unless action is taken to improve what they called "the outrageous housing situation" in this northwestern Manitoba town.

The complaints were included in a brief presented to Ron McBryde, NDP member of the legislature for The Pas.

Probe Urged

EDMONTON (CP) — Grant Notley, New Democratic Party leader in Alberta, said Wednesday the provincial government should ask the prices and incomes commission for a formal investigation into the gasoline price increase announced Monday by Imperial Oil Ltd. He called the increase a "blatant example of corporate gouging."

Alberta Probes Future Education

EDMONTON (CP) — Albertans may be able to catch some fascinating glimpses of the future when a special congress on education gets down to work Friday.

The Congress on the Future: Education is sponsored jointly by the Alberta Human Resources Research Council and the province's commission on educational planning.

About 300 delegates, representing every part of the province's social, professional and political fabric, will consider such questions as:

— What lies ahead for Alberta in the next 19 years?

— What will life be like for Albertans by the province's Centennial year in 2005?

— Is it possible to predict the future accurately?

— Can foreknowledge be used deliberately to shape the future rather than letting the future shape itself?

EXPERTS TO SPEAK

Expert futurists are among the speakers, said Lorne Downey, chairman of the council and co-host with Dr. Walter Worth, head of the educational commission.

Dr. Donald Seastone, economics professor at the University of Calgary, has been studying population trends for the province untill 2005. He will outline where Albertans likely will be living, what age groups will be prevalent, what numbers will be in schools, universities and other educational programs and similar projections.

He will also predict the economic growth potential for the province and suggest what relationships might be possible between government incomes and expenditures in education in the future. Will the education budget continue to grow? And will the taxpayer be able to meet the costs?

Dr. Harold Dyck of the Westrede Institute, and independent research and development organization in Edmonton, will describe some of of the extensive predictions he has worked out about Alberta's sociological future. Resources Research Council, will speak on the needs of individuals in the world of the future, basing his observations on past studies by Dr. Seastone, Dr. Dyck and other futurists.

Keynote speaker is Dr. Warren Ziegler, co-director of the Educational Policy Research Centre in Syracuse, N.Y. He will tell delegates about providing alternate plans that can shape the future in different ways.

New Money System Confusing Britons

LONDON (AP) — "Right, madam, here's your change. I owe you eight shillings 11 pence. But that, of course, now comes to 44½ new pence. Everything clear?"

Chances are it won't be next Feb. 15 when Britain abandons the money system it has followed for centuries and takes on decimal coinage.

The pound no longer will be divided into 20 shillings of 12 pence each. Instead, it will consist of 100 new pence. By then everyone with 10 fingers is supposed to find it easier to count by tens instead of the present system of threes, sizes, twelves and twenties.

Workers who must make change, like bank and postal clerks, worry now they are going to convert the unconverted public to the new system. Public opinion polls show more than half the British people don't like decimalization and more than a third don't understand it.

Bank, post office and other workers are sure to face delays, mistakes and added strain in their everyday dealings. They are already pressing for more pay in order to cope with "worry money."

SEEK GUIDANCE

Claims are in from unions representing 150,000 white collar workers. Even the tax collectors have put in a claim for $120 to cover extra paper work.

Nervous employers are asking for government guidance, fearing that once one claim is met it will open the gates so that shop clerks, bus conductors and just about everyone else who handles money will put in his bid.

The Daily Mirror calls this campaign "the cheekiest try-on since Australian dockers demanded 'temptation money' for unloading crates of scotch."

"Let's cut out the window dressing," and editorial said: "Bank workers, taxmen and post office clerks are all supposed to be good at figures. That's what they're paid for. Now they are claiming extra pay for continuing to be good at figures."

The Working Poor

What Does a Man Have to Do Merely to Get By? Quit His Job, Get Few Dollars More From Welfare

By PETER
McNELLY

In a society which measures a person's worth by how well he is able to provide for himself, the working poor feel acutely strained.

Forced to make ends meet on budgets which cannot be stretched, they are particularly vulnerable to the demands of unexpected costs: dental bills, car repairs, rent increases, major appliance breakdowns.

Changes proposed in the federal government's white paper on income security brighten their future as far as pensions and unemployment insurance go. But immediate benefits are small compared to immediate needs.

In some cases, persons on low incomes turn to local welfare offices for help. But if they are earning more than what they would receive on welfare, they are ineligible for extra cash.

One woman, a deserted wife with two children who works in Victoria as a clerk-typist, budgets on a net income of $293 a month which includes $14 in family allowances.

Her fixed expenses:

Rent, $120; Hydro, $10; fuel, $12; phone, $5.67; car repairs, $10; bank loan for dental and debts incurred when married, $23; department store account, $10; garbage, $1.50.

•

This leaves $101 for food, gasoline, clothing and recreation. White paper proposals would increase her monthly income by $18. That's an extra $216 a year coming from increased family allowance benefits.

Until last week, this woman's rent was $60. But she had to move after the premises she rented was sold. Knowing that she would have to wait at least 1½ years to move into Blanshard Court, she went for help to the Victoria welfare department's Cook Street office.

She asked for a $75 monthly income supplement until a vacancy occurred at Blanshard Court. This, she was told, is against regulations, since her income exceeds the maximum welfare allowance for a family of three, $236.

The social worker advised her to cut costs by getting rid of her car and telephone and by not buying any new clothes.

A check at the family division of provincial court showed that the most she could hope to get from her husband for child maintenance would be between $10 and $20 monthly.

Harried Woman Advised to Drop Car, Phone and New Clothes

A probation officer there advised her not to press charges of desertion, since the strain would not be worth the financial return. The woman is convinced her husband would leave town if ordered to pay maintenance. She is filing for a divorce.

Acting on advice of another social worker, she wrote Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi, seeking his personal intervention.

Gaglardi replied that her income was too high for a supplement, and he also advised her to get rid of her car. He promised to have a department official help her look for another place to rent.

But the help never came. The woman cannot get rid of her car because she now lives past the bus line, outside the city.

She has no intention of quitting her job to go on welfare. But others in similar situations have quit their jobs.

A man with seven children quit his job last month and went on welfare. He was employed as a janitor grossing $403 a month. Basic welfare for a family of nine is $401.

The man visited the office of the Low Income Group and asked how he might get some help to make ends meet. His net income was less than the basic welfare rate for his family size.

But he, too, was ineligible for a supplement. New family allowance rates would give him another $112 a month.

Group president Walter Olszewski advised him to keep working. But the man went on welfare. Now, in addition to having a higher net income, he is eligible for free dental and medical care for his family as well as school and clothing allowances.

"If the government would have helped this man with a supplement, they would not have been paying the whole shot as they are now," Olszewski said.

And he said another aspect of going on welfare is the risk of getting caught in a "welfare cycle" which continues for generations.

•

The rehabilitation department's position on supplements is that they are, in effect, a subsidy for private enterprise.

Community Action Group advocate Susan Talbot says working women on low incomes are common. She feels they should be allowed at least enough money for babysitting, medical and dental care.

Furthermore, these groups receive the lowest wages, usually at or near the federal minimum of $1.65 an hour or the provincial minimum of $1.50.

Average gross wage for these jobs, he says, is about $60 a week. That's $3,120 a year.

Many clerical and sales workers cannot get full-time jobs. A recent Victoria city study of its labor force showed slightly more than 17 per cent work part-time.

Experts on poverty say a person needs at least $1,000 a year just to get by.

In April 1969, the Economic Council of Canada told the Senate Committee on Poverty that a family of four is living in poverty if its gross income is less than $4,200 a year.

'They Get Into The State Where Welfare Is Big Mother'

B.C. welfare rates for a family of four, calculated at maximum benefits, are $700 less than the Economic Council's $4,200. And B.C. rates are among the highest in Canada.

What these figures indicate is that both welfare recipients and low income workers live in poverty.

Though the province cannot supplement incomes which exceed welfare rates, welfare recipients can earn up to $100 a month without having their cheques cut proportionately.

This is allowed for persons who can show that the work may lead to eventual full-time employment.

Provincial government policy tries to help people get off welfare but does nothing to keep poor workers from quitting their jobs. Income supplements are indeed a subsidy to industry, and a logical answer to them is higher wages.

Yet governments subsidize industry in other ways, through tax concessions and depreciation allowances, for example.

Planned increases in unemployment insurance and pensions will be substantial for many people. For example, pensions to disabled heads of families will increase more than $150 a month.

•

Pensions for couples with no other income will rise $28 more per month than increases under the current scheme. Pensions for single persons without other means will rise $22.

How these increases will affect B.C.'s pension supplement policy, parallel to but separate from the federal scheme, is unclear. Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi said this week he would have to study the federal white paper before commenting.

But he did slam the federal proposal to eliminate family allowances in cases where earnings exceed $10,000 a year.

"What it really means is an increase in taxes to a lot of people," Gaglardi said. He added that the changes will place new tax loads on "already overburdened" middle-income families.

•

Prime Minister Trudeau said Sunday his government will stand or fall on public reaction to reforms in the welfare white paper.

He said the government belives the country is mature enough to accept reforms aimed at taxing the rich to help the poor.

Public response to the white paper may determine how far Ottawa will go in the future toward creating wider-ranging — and costlier — programs such as guaranteed annual incomes.

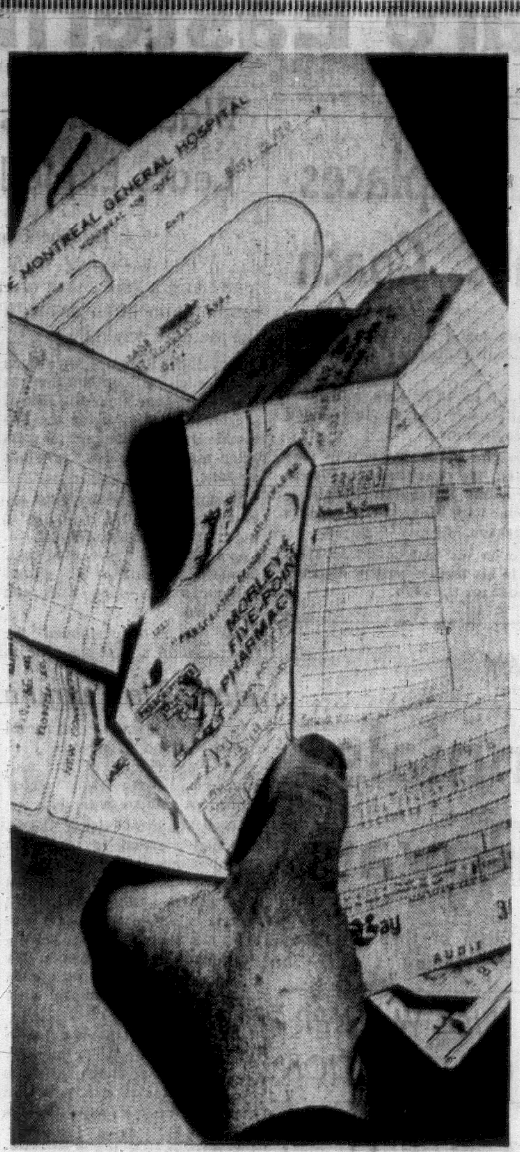
Meanwhile, the poor may receive some help, but they will still remain poor.



What Kills Is Unexpected Bills

Haddock Defies Mess Critics

Mayor Courtney Haddock today fired back at critics of his campaign to raise money from local businessmen to refurbish the Victoria police officers' mess.

Haddock said one of the police commissioners has pulled a "complete about-face" by voting for the refurbishing and then criticizing Haddock's method of raising the money.

The mayor also said he suspects some businessmen might be "offended" because they were not asked to contribute.

Police commissioner Gordon Carter said Wednesday he would vote against the measure if it came up again, and feared the fund solicitation might set a bad precedent.

Asked today at a press conference if he would go ahead with the scheme, Haddock replied: "No question about it—why not?"

"What businessmen are they talking about? The ones who were invited or the ones who were not?" he said, in an apparent reference to complaints by businessmen that they had been asked to contribute.

'SOMEWHERE'

Haddock said "We must give moral support to police forces—right across Canada. There's an element in our country that shows a significant lack of respect. A start has to be made somewhere."

Asked to comment on Carter's opposition to the plan, Haddock said "I'm very disappointed about that because he voted for it—he never communicated with me.

"It's a complete about-face."

Haddock said Woodwards, the store doing the refurbishing, contributed $500 and he showed reporters the cheque.

He said Woodwards paid the money because "I asked for it. Woodwards is one of the best businesses in the world" and he added he worked at that company's stores for many years.

'A FRINGE'

Asked if any other department stores were asked to contribute, he said "Yes, they were invited, too . . . we don't want to slight anyone, or discriminate.

"As far as I know, they were asked."

"Not at all — because it was such a small amount."

He said the $4,100 carpetting provided by Woodwards would be installed by Dec. 15. It will be "an inexpensive but good carpet, instead of a bare tile floor."

He added "my hundred dollars is there."

He said he "can't understand" why there should be any opposition to the move. "It's such a chintzy little thing."

Man Makes Splash On First Night

Commissionaire W. H. Whitmore's first night on patrol duty at the navy's Colwood base Wesnesday was almost his last.

The 50-year-old commissionaire walked along D jetty where HMCS Cowichan is tied up at 12:30 a.m. this morning. Five minutes later he was struggling for survival in the icy water.

His cries for help were heard by Cpl. Michael Kattler aboard the Cowichan, who immediately went into action.

"I threw him a Kisbie ring, sounded the alarm and phoned the Belmont fire department."

Kattler and his crew lowered a berthing hawser through the eye of which Whitmore put his arms. They tried to haul him up but he was too heavy.

Today he was in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Kattler said the wind was blowing at 50 miles an hour at the time of the incident, drowning out Whitmore's voice. He said the commissionaire stumbled in a large hole on the jetty, used for buoy storage by the federal department of transport.

His rescuer said he was almost as shaken as Whitmore.

CRASHING START FOR WEEK

Council general manager John Reeves said there were 19 traffic accidents Tuesday in Victoria and surrounding areas with five injuries and 18 accidents Wednesday with nine injuries.

All areas but Sooke have had accidents.

The injury accidents have occurred in Saanich, Sidney, Oak Bay, Central Saanich, Colwood and the city.

IN JUST FOUR YEARS, SAYS CURTIS

Saanich Welfare Bill Up 400 Per Cent

The cost of welfare in Saanich has jumped from $178,293 in 1966 to $894,000 this year, Mayor Hugh Curtis said today.

The increase of more than 400 per cent compared with an increase of "only 112 per cent" in provincial per capita grants in the same period, from $828,000 to $1,765,000, he added.

"One of the principal reasons, of course, for the substantial increase in social assistance costs to munici*palities is the sudden doubling* by the province (to 20 per cent) of the municipal share in 1968," said Curtis.

He made the comments in letters to the five members of the legislature for Greater Victoria, because part of Saanich is in each of the constituencies.

"It was the feeling of the executive of the Union of B.C. Municipalities that the very severe incidence of social assistance costs on municipal budgets should be drawn to the attention of all members of the legislature," Curtis wrote.

He pointed out that municipalities are required by provincial law to adopt budgets by May 15.

Saanich, in setting its welfare budget, took the per capita total cost from 1969 of $624,000 and brought this up to $710,000 in the expectation of increases this year.

LEVY INCREASED

Subsequently, the province increased the per capita levy from the old 96 cents to $1.15 and then to $1.58.

"Assuming that the $1.58 rate will remain until Dec. 31, we are required to find $184,000 more than the $710,000 budgeted," he said.

In 1966, welfare costs represented 21.6 per cent of the per capita grant which the provincial government gives municipalities but this will be over 50 per cent of the grant this year.

"When you consider that over 90 per cent of the tax base in Saanich municipality is represented by residential assessment you will realize that this extraordinary increase in social assistance costs becomes a direct burden on the homeowner," he wrote.

"It may be argued that a considerable amount of the increase in social assistance costs is due to transients but this certainly does not apply to all municipalities in the province yet they have to bear their share of this burden."

Pickets Call Firemen To Sandringham

At 7:10 a.m. they called the Victoria fire department. Department inspectors came to the hospital at 1650 Fort. They found too much oil getting into the furnace's combustion chamber.

A fire department spokesman said they called in a mechanic who adjusted the oil flow, returning it to a safe level. He said it is against the law to operate a furnace in a dangerous condition.

Protection Due for Sheep

Agriculture Minister Shelford indicated today a sheep protection area will be established in the View Royal-Otter Point district as requested by farmers and ratepayers.

Shelford said the move, which involves licensing of dogs with provision for impoundment or shooting of dogs running loose and attacking sheep, would require a provincial cabinet order.

There are a number of sheep protection areas in the province, and Shelford added that similar regulations may have to be made to protect children from dogs in the Atlin area of northern B.C.

G. H. Mitchell, Metchosin area farmer, who called for the special measures, said about 12 per cent of flocks have been lost to dogs in the area every year.

Arthur Mayse . . .

THERE ARE A COUPLE of factors that our Robin Hood federal government seems to be overlooking when it proposes to snatch the baby bonus away from the family whose income exceeds $10,000 a year.

One of these is that since its inception, the per-child family allowance has been sensibly paid to the wife. And with equal sense, most wives who are mothers have through the years regarded this government assist to the child-rearer in a very special way.

They don't look on it as income. It is something for the kids, whether spent on their behalf each month, or salted away to help them through the years when education becomes expensive.

I think that any number of mothers in families whose gross income is over the cut-off figure are going to entertain less-than-friendly feelings toward a federal authority that ends a now-traditional rebate on stiff income taxes.

It's possible too that certain husbands who have kept the amount of their earnings from their wives won't be happy with a measure that forces them out of the fiscal underbrush.

Husband, uncomfortably: "Well, dear, I've been meaning to tell you . . .")

All in all, I suspect that the Trudeau government would do well to consider an embarrassing political fact before shoving this measure down the Canadian craw.

Giving to those who haven't isn't necessarily going to win votes. But taking excessively from those who have is an excellent way to lose 'em!

•

The other evening I was looking hungrily at some nice fat pork chops in a market bin when a large stranger approached. He delivered a plaint that was music to these ears.

"It's a long time since you've written anything about fishing," he said. "How about making a reel scream?"

I'll be delighted to oblige when my temporarily idle reels have something to scream about. Until then, the best I can manage is a report on a gift that came my way this week.

It's a hard-used leather flybook almost as old as this century. In its transparent envelopes are Atlantic salmon flies of a sort that match the book.

They are tied in patterns with honored names: Jock Scott, Durham Ranger, Thunder-and-Lightning, and other such.

Wonderful creations they are, their varied plumage set in place with a skill that few amateur fly-tiers could hope to emulate.

From the head of each projects the loop of silkworm gut to which leaders were secured before the salmon hook with metal eye came into vogue. Some of those loops are brittle with age.

But not all of them, and in due time I mean to try my luck for B.C. steelhead, coho or big cutthroat trout with a Jock Scott presented long ago for approval to the lordly salmon of Tweed or Tay.

Should a reel-screamer latch on, I hope the sound will carry to whatever waters the sea captain who once used those flies now frequents.

•

Back once more to food, a subject much on my mind these days of reduced intake. In case you haven't noticed, the number of specialty restaurants in Victoria is growing.

Now that Ernie Mykyte and Jerome Olymyk have opened their Fort Street Cossack, the diner-out can add Russian dishes to the list.

For me a wistful reading of the menu, followed by a bowl of very good Ukrainian borscht.

So much for this day, and home now with pounds shed and belt already taken in a notch. Two more, and we've made it.

Rangers Extend Streak To Share Eastern Lead

Al MacNeil Replaces Ruel as Habs' Coach

MacNeil, born in Sydney, N.S., in 1935, was appointed Ruel's assistant before the National Hockey League club opened its pre-season training camp last September.

He was a former National League defenceman who saw service with Toronto Maple Leafs, the Canadiens, Chicago Black Hawks, New York Rangers and Pittsburgh Penguins, before undertaking a coaching career with Montreal Voyageurs of American Hockey League last season.

Ruel, who replaced Toe Blake on his retirement in 1968,* remains with the club and reverts to his former post of director of player development and chief scout for the club.

Black Hawks Edge Bruins; Leafs Explode Over Kings

By The Canadian Press

When a hockey team wins most of its games at home and a fair share of those played on the road the combination often means a playoff berth at the end of the regular schedule.

New York Rangers have been using such a combination to good advantage since the 1966-67 season when they made the National Hockey League playoffs after missing the four previous seasons.

Wednesday night they won another home game, rallying in the third period to defeat St. Louis Blues 4-2 and extend their home-ice streak to 12 games without a loss—nine wins and three ties.

The victory moved the Rangers into a first-place tie in the Eastern Division with Boston Bruins, who were downed 4-3 by Chicago Black Hawks despite the three-goal performance of Phil Esposito, the Boston centre and NHL scoring leader.

Both Boston and New York now have 32 points on identical records of 14 wins, five losses and four ties.

Another three-goal performer Wednesday night was Toronto's Dave Keon, who scored two of his goals while his team was shorthanded as the Maple Leafs shut out Los Angeles Kings 7-0.

Habs Tie Penguins; Stars Top Seals

In other games, Montreal Canadiens and Pittsburgh Penguins played to a 3-3 tie and Minnesota North Stars edged California Golden Seals 3-2.

The Western-Division Blues also had a streak of their own before their game with the Rangers. Unbeaten in their last five games, they also had a record of seven wins, one loss and three ties against East-Division teams and until Wednesday night had lost only three games all season, fewer than any other club in the NHL.

The Blues still have the fewest losses in the NHL but they now must share that distinction with the Black Hawks, who lead the second-place Blues by six points in the West.

The Blues held the Rangers in check for the first two periods, allowing them only one goal, a tip-in shot by Ted Irvine at 5:02 of the second period. But in the third period Ron Stewart, Jean Ratelle and Dave Balon scored in quick succession to offset third-period goals by Jim Lorentz and Jim Roberts.

BRUINS-HAWKS TANGLE

Besides Esposito's three goals, the Chicago-Boston game was marred by a brawl late in the first period with the score tied 2-2. Both benches emptied after Chicago's Jim Pappin and Bruin defenceman Don Awrey came together at the Chicago blue line and fists started flying.

After tempers cooled, referee John Ashley handed out five-minute penalties to Awrey, John McKenzie and Ted Green of the Bruins and to Pappin, Keith Magnuson and Dan Maloney of the Hawks.

Dennis Hull scored two goals for Chicago and the Black Hawks' victory also extended their unbeaten streak at home to 13 games.

ONE SHORT OF RECORD

Keon's two shorthanded goals gave him a total of six for the season and left him just one short of the NHL record of seven shorthanded goals scored in a season by Jerry Toppazzini with Boston during the 1957-58 season.

Keon dismissed as stupid any suggestion that he will be out to topple Toppazzini's record when reminded he was nearing the mark.

Discussing his penalty-killing assignment, Keon said:

"I'm not out there to score goals. If I score (when the Leafs are shorthanded), it's an accident."

"If you play it right, then you get the point," he said. "If you start gambling (for a goal), then they'll get a point."

The shutout was the first this season for the Toronto team and the 74th in the career of Toronto goalie Jacques Plante who also played with Montreal, New York and St. Louis.

Pete Mahovlich's goal on a rebound shot midway in the third period gave the Canadiens the tie against the Penguins.

BOBBY'S IN A HULL OF A FIX

Heading for crash is Chicago winger Bobby Hull (9 as he falls over stick of Boston's Ted Green (6) during National Hockey League game Wednesday night in Chicago. Bobby came a-cropper as he attempted to score on Bruin goalie Gerry Cheevers, who gets backup support from Don Awrey (right). Bobby's brother, Dennis, scored twice as Black Hawks nipped Bruins 4-3. Centennials Crush Royals Victoria Cougars lost a little of their first-place margin in the B.C. Junior Hockey League on Wednesday night.

Vancouver Centennials humbled the Royals 7-0 before 526 New Westminster fans to move within five points of Cougars in the Coastal Division race.

It also set the stage for a Friday night clash when Cougars visit Vancouver.

Cougars then return to Memorial Arena on Saturday for an 8:30 p.m. clash with Kelowna Buckaroos of the Okanagan Division.

THREE-GOAL EFFORT

Mike McCarthy scored three goals for Centennials and set up two others to lead his team to victory. Other goals were scored by Neil Murphy, Ray Todd, Grant Casper and Pat Russell.

New Westminster coach Buster Brayshaw said he couldn't figure out what went wrong except that the Royals did not play well at any time during the game.

"Things will change," he added.

Use of 'Ethical Drugs' Under Study in Baseball

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Concern over possible drug abuse by major league players and late-season trading ploys by major league clubs have overshadowed the normal course of business at baseball's winter meetings.

The trade controversy centred around Atlanta's re-acquisition of 47-year-old Hoyt Wilhelm two days earlier in a deal with Chicago Cubs.

The Wilhelm trade was one of 10 transactions made at the major league level during the first two days of the meetings. But the market fell off Wednes*day and there was only one deal* of consequence.

KUHN MAY CHECK

But the team physicians shared the spotlight Wednesday with commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who indicated he will investigate the deals that sent relief specialist Wilhelm from the Braves to the Cubs for last season's National League East Di*vision stretch drive* and then back again.

The use and abuse of drugs was among several medical items discussed by doctors of the 24 major league clubs, whose meeting concluded with the formation of the Association of Professional Baseball Physicians.

"We're not talking about narcotics," the commissioner said later in the day. "They are concerned with whether ethical drugs, such as amphetamine and pep pills, have been overused and whether their use is being properly regulated."

In the Wilhelm affair, the majors' oldest player was sold to Chicago with two weeks *remain*ing in the regular season and the Cubs in the thick of the division race.

Wilhelm, who had joined the Braves in a waiver deal during the 1969 stretch run, helping them capture the National League West crown, appeared in just three games for the Cubs. Atlanta got him back Monday in exchange for first baseman Hal Breeden, a minor league home-run king.

The day's inter-league trade sent Johnson to the Pirates along with shortstop Jackie Hernandez and catcher Jim Campanis. In return, Kansas City received five-foot-four shortstop Fred Patek, smallest player in the majors, pitcher Bruce Dal Canton and catcher Jerry May.

Hoop Vikings Face Alberta Invasion

Alberta teams are poised to invade the University of Victoria for three Western Canada Intercollegiate Athletic Association men's basketball league games this weekend.

University of Calgary Dinosaurs form the advance force against Vikings in an 8 p.m. encounter Friday in the Uvic gymnasium.

Dinos are winless so far this season.

At the same time and spot Saturday night, University of Lethbridge Chinooks (1-2 this season) provide the opposition while undefeated University of Alberta Golden Bears (3-0) visit Vikings on Monday.

Vikings are 2-2 this season and three victories by the Bob Bell-coached group could mean a great deal when playoff time rolls around.

Only the top four teams make the playoffs.

Uvic Jayvees provide preliminary action for both Friday and Saturday when they meet Centralia Junior College in an exhibition game at 6 each night.

Seniors' South Island Playdowns at Duncan

Fifteen of the 16 rinks entered in the first leg of the Seagram Stone competition are from Victoria-area clubs. Duncan, the host club for the double-knockout event which gets under way Saturday at 9:30 a.m., supplies the other entry, skipped by Bert Wise.

Heading the entries are Gordie Moore, who finished second in the seniors' national finals two years ago, and Gord Walker, 1969 Alberta seniors' king. Both curl at Victoria Club.

Also entering rinks from Victoria are Steve Hayhurst, Kirby Moysey, Ralph Cooper, Elmer Hoffman, Bert Booth and Glen Robertson. Esquimalt entries are Harvie Ward, Alec Moore and Bud Fugle while three rinks from the Racquet Club will be skipped by Lloyd Kearns, Dave Myles and Eric Greenwood. Harvey Mossup will skip the lone Playland entry.

The opening draw will be made at Duncan shortly before 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Liberalization Hopes Of Amateurs Improve

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chances for a liberalization of restrictions on amateur athletes during the current Amateur Athletic Union convention were brighter today with support of the track and field committee.

The 800 delegates were still occupied largely with committee meetings for the convention's fourth day.

A decision by the board of governors on relaxing some of the amateur status strictures is among the major items of business for the final two days, Friday and Saturday.

The track and field committee, headed by Stan Wright, recommended to the board of governors that athletes be permitted certain uses of their pictures and signatures in their business.

The committee also favored banning foreign athletes from competing for U.S. championships unless there is a reciprocal agreement with the countries from which these athletes come.

ACADEMY AWARDS-STYLE . . . . . . FOR PRESENTATIONS

Baseball Tries Hollywood Pitch

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The envelope please, Mr. Stengel."

Baseball goes Hollywood tonight with a gala, first-time awards banquet honoring the outstanding players and top personalities in the sport.

The Academy Awards-style presentations will be made at a black-tie, $50-per-plate dinner in the Beverly Hilton Hotel as a highlight of baseball's annual winter meetings.

Awards will go to the player of the year, top pitcher, top defensive performer, manager of the year and the player who best typifies the game on and off the field.

Catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati and first baseman Boog Powell of Baltimore, previously named most valuable players in the National and American Leagues, respectively, are the nominees for the player-of-the-year award.

And Casey Stengel will be there, too, along with a host of baseball celebrities and show folk.

The World Series Trophy will be presented officially to Herold C. Hoffberger, chairman of the board of the world champion Baltimore Orioles, and Orioles manager Earl Weaver.

Special honors will be paid to Ted Williams, George Sisler, and Bill Terry, baseball's only living .400 hitters, and to Stan Musial, Hank Aaron and Willie Mays, the games only living 3,000-hit men.

Recognition also will be given to the batting, home run, RBI, and pitching kings in each league.

THREE-GAME SERIES FOR BASEBALL TITLE

Cuba, U.S. in Playoff

CARTEGENA, Colombia — The United States and Cuba began a three-game playoff series today to decide the 18th world amateur baseball championship.

The teams finished the regular championship schedule tied for first place with 10 victories and one defeat. The U.S. lost its only game to Puerto Rico but later came back to defeat the Cubans.

The first playoff game was originally scheduled for Wednesday but the Cubans protested, saying they had not been consulted and wanted a two-day layoff.

Cuba defeated Colombia in its final game Tuesday to force the tie. Colombia dropped to fourth spot behind the Puerto Ricans, who edged Canada, 2-1, in another final-day game.

Other final results were:* The Netherland Antilles over Nicaragua, 7-6, and the Dominican Republic over The Netherlands, 15-6.

OUTDOOR SCENE

By Barry M. Thornton

With Christmas only a few weeks away, the annual problem of what to buy the outdoorsman once again plagues the family.

Following are a few suggestions which hopefully will make your gift selections easier. A word of caution, however, for those who would purchase the colorful articles so prominently displayed in sporting goods stores.

Your outdoorsman is a specialist, and as such he has very definite views on the size, make, model, color, etc., of the articles which he uses. He is an expert in his particular outdoor sport and any deviations from those very specific articles which he uses are a hindrance. His obligation to use the trinkets which you have so thoughtfully given will in reality frustrate the enjoyment of the sport he pursues.

If you wish to purchase the special items which will complement his sport, giving him more pleasure and satisfaction, please do the following.

* * *

Find out exactly what his sport is. It is not just fishing, it is steelheading, bucktailing, wet fly fishing, nymphing, dry fly fishing, trolling, winter spring fishing, stream or lake fishing, mooching, strip casting, surf casting, buzz bombing, bobber fishing, estuary fishing, etc., etc.

Secondly, find precisely what he wants, its size, color, make, model, etc. Do not buy a substitute which the sporting goods store suggests. Purchase only the precise item he desires.

As a general rule don't buy guns, fishing rods, fishing reels, fishing line, lures, specialized clothing or ammunition. These are all personal items which can only be purchased by the outdoorsman. Purchase them only if you have him point out exactly what he wants.

Outdoor books and magazine subscriptions which relate specifically to the sport he enjoys are always a welcome gift. They provide many hours of reading pleasure and in subscriptions provide a monthly experience in his outdoor field.

* * *

B.C. authors writing about the B.C. outdoors are rare. The following titles are some of those available from most Island book or stationary stores.

"British Columbia Game Fish," edited by Jack Grundle and Peter Broomhall. (Western Fish and Game Magazine, $7.95) is a collection of stories on B.C. salmon, trout and steelhead, written by many well-known B.C. outdoor writers.

Roderick Haig-Brown, famous author-angler-conservationist from Campbell River has written some two dozen books on fishing and stories of the B.C. outdoors for youngsters. His books on fishing have become classics for all North American anglers. They are particularly appropriate for anglers on Vancouver Island as Haig-Brown discusses streams and conditions which are a part of every Island fishing trip. A few of his angling classics include "The Western Angler" ($6.95), "A River Never Sleeps" ($4.95), "Return to the River ($4.95), "Fisherman's Fall ($5.50), "A Primer of Fly Fishing" ($5.50).

For the steelhead fisherman, "Steelhead Paradise," by J. Fennelly. ($5.95) relates the personal recollections of a steelhead fisherman on the Kispiox and Morice rivers. "A Field Guide to Western Birds," by R. T. Peterson, provides the most accurate bird identification booklet for the outdoor sportsman ($5.00).

"Trees, Shrubs and Flowers to know in B.C.," by C. P. Lyons ($3.95), provides an excellent reference on B.C. flora. Complete with drawings to help identification, this guide is easy to understand and provides for a more complete understanding of the outdoor environment.

An inexpensive handbook paperback series published by the B.C. Provincial Museum provides an invaluable reference of over 25 guides on various animal, fish and plant species and their habits and habitat. Notable among these are the following (for a complete list write to A. Sutton, Queen's Printer, Victoria, B.C.). "The Fresh Water Fishes of B.C. (75c), "The Birds of B.C., Upland Game Birds (25c), "The Birds of B.C., Waterfowl" (25c), and "The Mammals of B.C." ($2).

Gift subscriptions to any of the following magazines are certain to please all outdoorsmen whether the young or the old.

Claremont Rugby Skein Shattered by Vic High

Victoria moved into sole possession of first place with a 6-0 defeat of visiting Claremont.

Claremont's last loss was in 1968 to Mount Douglas in the Howard Russell Cup final and the shutout was the first suffered in three years.

Bianco kicked a penalty goal and scored a try, both in the first half.

MAYOR PROMISES FUTURE SUPPORT

By DONNA CLEMENTS

NORTH COWICHAN — A protest delegation was told by council Wednesday that it can't do anything about the expansion of Slegg Brothers Lumber Ltd. sawmill on the tidal flats of Cowichan Bay.

However, Mayor Gerry Smith told the Khenipsen Road residents, who had presented a petition signed by 66 ratepayers, that council will try to stop any future industrial expansion there.

He said council members will do the best they can through the federal fisheries department.

To further underline moral support, he said council has written a letter to B.C. Hydro opposing establishment of a nuclear power plant in the Cowichan Bay and North Cowichan areas.

The petitioners had requested council to look into a change in the zoning of the tidal flat area to stop Slegg Brothers expansion and to preserve "this valuable natural asset of the Cowichan Valley for Vancouver Island, its visitors and our future residents."

Smith noted that council cannot make zoning retroactive in the disputed area.

The area is now zoned rural, and, according to municipal clerk Andrew Vande Casteyen, only industries associated with the forest industry can operate there.

VANDE CASTEYEN
. . . 'restrictive clause'

He said the rural zoning already has a restrictive clause and council cannot control Indian land around it.

Speaking on the petition, Bob Purgavie said safety is one of the main problems of industry in the Cowichan Bay area. The narrow Tzouhalem Road is being used by heavy chip trucks and lumber and logging trucks.

Purgavie said he has "come very close to hitting people walking on the edge of the road" and that with the large industrial trucks people are "either forced to stop or nearly get off the road."

He suggested council put a load limit on the road to force heavy trucks to take another route.

Petitioners also requested that a close study be given to the preservation of "this natural habitat of wildlife and to the Cowichan as an important spawning river. This open area provides swimming, fishing, hunting and is of vital interest to natural historians."

Ratepayer D. H. Gaunt asked in a letter for a "substantial reduction in the assessment of our property on the grounds that it has been very much devalued by the industrial development at Slegg Brothers Ltd.'s sawmill and by the excessive noise coming from the mill, which disturbs our sleep."

Gaunt said his request is not only justified by the noise factor from the mill but from the "horrible mess of mountains of sawdust and chips, searchlights on night and day every day of the week. All of which directly faces our residence."

"You wouldn't let me dump my garbage on public property in front of your house and I don't see why they can dump theirs at Cowichan Bay," said ratepayer David Chase.

Chase complained about trash being dumped into the water from the sawmill. He said the logs should be barked ashore and kept ashore when transported to the sawmill.

"If they have to go into the bay they should be bundled. After a storm my beach is covered in trash."

Ald. Dennis Hogan said, "We should attempt to keep the area as close to nature as we can. On the long run if we can have enough pressure it might be objectionable to anyone who wants to expand."

Free Water Ordered by Mill

NORTH COWICHAN—Crofton Pulp and Paper Limited has offered its water supply as a standby service to augment the municipal system during the summer over the next five years.

There would be no charge.

Mill manager Bill Reynolds told council Wednesday the offer is subject to the continuing approval of the water rights branch and that Crofton pulp mill must maintain prior rights to the company water system. In critical situations, the company warned it may be necessary to withdraw the standby supply.

"In normal situations we would not expect any difficulty in supplying the service or in obtaining the approval of the branch."

Reynolds said the branch has already been advised of the mill's intention to supply the service in 1971, and the company would re-apply early in the years of 1972 through 1975 to continue the service.

In return for the "no charge" standby service, Reynolds said the company in turn would expect that during the periods when the municipality is drawing from the main water supply any usage of the Crofton district supply by the company would also be on a no-charge basis.

Drivers Vote Friday On Latest Pay Offer

Bus drivers and mechanics in Victoria and Vancouver vote Friday on a new pay offer by B.C. Hydro.

The negotiating committee of the Amalgamated Transit Union is recommending rejection of the offer—6½ per cent this year and 6½ per cent next year.

A union spokesman said the ATU is losing ground compared with other unions at B.C. Hydro and other transportation companies.

"About 70 per cent of our membership are drivers and are getting a base rate of $3.75 an hour," he said. "But they know that Pacific Stage Lines drivers—also operated by B.C. Hydro—have been getting $4.06 an hour since mid-summer."

The 1,800 members, including just over 200 in Victoria, have voted support for strike action. However, this cannot take place legally until after the mediation officer files a report with the B.C. Mediation Commission.

Dief—End of Wage Guidelines Leads to Mandatory Controls

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal government decision to abandon wage and price guidelines may be the first step to introducing mandatory wage and price control, former prime minister John Diefenbaker said Wednesday.

Diefenbaker, here on a two-day visit, said the government excuse not to continue the guidelines is that industry and labor have refused to go along with the scheme.

The Conservative MP said such controls could be brought in through provincial co-operation or by a federal government declaration that the situation is an emergency.

He had an optimistic prediction about the contents of the government's budget, to be released today.

"I would predict some reduction of income taxes and a belated, in whole or in part, reduction of the 11 per cent tax on building material.

"I would also look to see some encouragement of Canadian industry," said Diefenbaker.

He then let loose a blast at the federal government's handling of the country's economy.

"We are in a most serious position economically that the country has ever been in. We have manufactured unemployment and there will be more if Britain goes into the European Common Market."

He said the Liberal government seems unaware of the fact that Britain entering the Common Market will have an effect on Canadian employment figures.

Sparse Crowd Greets Pope

JAKARTA (CP) — Pope Paul landed in Jakarta today for a 16-hour visit, but the capital of predominantly Moslem Indonesia turned out only small crowds at the airport and along his route through the city.

The crowd was expected to pick up tonight when the Pope celebrates Mass in a sports stadium.

An official welocming party headed by President Suharto and about 500 schoolgirls and air force cadets were at the airport to cheer the 73-year-old pontiff as he completed the seven-hour flight from Sydney, Australia.

Appearing rested and in good health on the sixth stop of his 25,000-mile trip, the Pope thanked Suharto for his welcome and praised Indonesia as a land known for its religious tolerance.

The pontiff also used the occasion to call for world peace, saying that if politicians would put aside their political ambitions "there would be permanent peace."

The Pope told Indonesians that the Roman Catholic Church is not a European organization but one that is truly universal.

Tight security was in effect because of the assassination attempt on the Pope in Manila last week. Kemayoran Airport was closed to all other flights two hours before the Pope's plane arrived, and 200 armed security guards and police were on duty, most carrying automatic weapons.

Member Fired

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The highest ranking Mexican-American member of the Nixon administration, Martin Castillo, has been fired, television station KNXT said Wednesday night.

The CBS-owned station said Castillo, chairman of the president's cabinet committee on opportunity for the Spanish-speaking, was told by a presidential aide to clear out his desk by the end of the month.

Canadian Postal Code Like U.K.'s

LONDON (CP) — Canada intends to fashion its national postal code along the lines adopted by Britain and may eventually establish an independent post office corporation somewhat along the existing British pattern.

This was disclosed by Canadian officials Wednesday as Jean-Pierre Cote, minister responsible for the Canadian post office, continued a tour of the British system.

John Mackay, Cote's deputy, said the Canadian postal code will be ready for experimental operations in 1971 with Ottawa as the site for the first coding.

He anticipated that six digits — possibly a combination of letters and figures — will be used. Once the Ottawa experimental operation begins working smoothly, the code will be applied nationally, possibly by 1973.

Cosmos Launched

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched two more satellites Wednesday in its top-secret unmanned Cosmos series, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported. The satellites were Nos. 381 and 382.

Serious Pollution War Starts

VANCOUVER (CP) — Housewives and campers are dragging their feet in the fight against pollution, delegates to the 61st annual conference of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association were told Wednesday.

A. D. Hall, executive secretary of the Canadian Forestry Association, Ottawa, said government and industry were both beginning to wage serious war on pollution and ecological concerns.

He said there was also evidence that the public was developing surface awareness of the seriousness of the dangers to the quality of the natural world, but large numbers of people had not yet begun to "change their personal habits or show a willingness to give up something" to make possible the environmental goal they publicly demand.

"Very few citizens have come out strongly enough for improvement of municipal waste controls to the stage where they say that they will take an immediate reduction in standard of living in order to pay for it," Hall pointed out.

"And certainly the change in moral values and human values has not yet reached the stage where the population explosion has been controlled or where the interdependence of people the world over on a limited supply of natural resources has been recognized and produced personal commitment."

This may very well be the most remarkable piece of modern sculpture outside the National Gallery.

Inside the smoked glass bubble—shades of 2001! —is a 40-watt Electrohome stereo chassis, AM/FM stereo radio, and BSR mini-changer. Yes, that's a brushed-chrome pedestal and base slimly yet surely supporting the bubble. And those moon-like baubles on either side? High compliance speakers that provide up to twenty feet of smooth stereo separation. In fact, if there's anything more impressive than the styling of the CIRCA 711, it's the performance of the CIRCA 711. After all, designing a stereo that looks like nothing else is one thing. Engineering it to sound like an Electrohome stereo is another.

You'll be pleased to know we've succeeded on both counts. You'll also be pleased to know the CIRCA 711 is priced within the reach of everyone. So jet down to your Electrohome dealer and get yourself overwhelmed with the most astounding stereo you're likely to see this decade. As a stereo set, it's a knockout. And as a piece of sculpture it's a bargain.

Jobless High To Continue

MONTREAL (CP) — There will be no sustained reduction in Canadian unemployment until the rate of economic growth is increased, the chairman of the Economic Council of Canada said Wednesday.

Arthur J. R. Smith told the Montreal branch of the North American Society for Corporate Planning that the falling off in economic activity must be stopped immediately and the present gap between the production level and its potential must be filled.

Because of a particularly pronounced increase in the labor force, the growth capacity of the economy now is 25 per cent higher than it was at the beginning of the 1960s. In terms of volume, the annual potential rate of growth of Canadian production is more than five per cent.

Mr. Smith said that until the economic growth regularly surpasses this rhythm, Canadians should not expect a sustained reduction in unemployment.

DETROIT (AP) — A package containing eight sticks of dynamite and a homemade fuse has been found in a men's room at Detroit Metropolitan Airport. Police said the bomb contained no timing device and would not have exploded unless ignited manually.

Oil Slick Threatens Florida Beaches

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A huge oil slick covering 760 square miles, blamed on the U.S. Navy, threatened 50 miles of north Florida beaches today.

State officials have accused the navy of pouring more than 500,000 gallons of the thick, black fuel into Atlantic coastal waters.

Florida marine patrol and weather observers said if the winds held steady from the southeast, the oil could begin coming ashore late today.

The U.S. Navy admitted dumping two barge loads of waste liquid into the Atlantic Monday night. A spokesman said such dumpings are made on a regular basis about eight times a year and usually consist of 90 per cent water.

However, Mike Wenzel, a Jacksonville waste oil dealer who had tried to sell the oil, said his tests last week of two barge loads of waste Navy No. 5 special fuel oil at Mayport Naval Station showed an exactly opposite ratio.

Gov. Claude Kirk wired Navy Secretary John Chafee asking an inquiry into who ordered the dumping and urged an emergency cleanup operation to prevent it from fouling the beaches.

Representative Charles Bennett (Dem. Fla.) said Capt. Don Dietz, commanding officer of Mayport Naval Station, told him the waste is customarily dumped 55 miles at sea—five miles farther than the 1924 oil pollution law requires.

Randolph Hodges, director of the state natural resources department, said when located Wednesday the oil slick covered 760 square miles and was 23 miles offshore at its closest point.

Hodges said indications were that 500,000 to 700,000 gallons of oil were dumped.

Payments Awarded

CALGARY (CP) — Monthly payments of $330 have been awarded to Mrs. Bonnie Hartley, widow of a motorcycle gang president, killed March 7 in a dispute with another gang. The Crimes Compensation Board also granted more than $1,000 to cover funeral and other expenses arising from the death of Ronald George Hartley, 23. The awards will be reviewed annually.

EPINAL, France (UPI) — Henri Lefevre, 82, is honeymooning with his fourth wife — the wife he first married 59 years ago and then divorced.

He married Marie Marthe Floret for the first time in 1911 but the couple divorced a few years later. Lefevre married twice more, but each time it ended in divorce.

"For my fourth try at marriage, I'm going back to my first love," he said.

Opposition Demands Higher Pension Boosts

By IAN PORTER

OTTAWA (CP) — Welfare Minister John Munro met opposition demands for "more" and "sooner" Wednesday as he presented legislation in the Commons to beef up payments to needy old-age pensioners.

The concern of the critics was that the boost in the pension supplement still will leave those receiving it below officially-recognized poverty lines and that the change will be delayed until April 1, 1971.

"I want to emphasize the delay is inexcusable," Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield told the House, "just as the delay to date has been inexcusable."

"Why are the older people in this country faced with the difficulty of having to work their way through the winter with these old rates?"

Presenting the legislation, the first product of the white paper on social security tabled Monday, Mr. Munro said the monthly pension supplement would be increased to $55 from $31.83 for single persons, and to $85 from $63.66 for couples.

The supplement is paid to those with no other income than the basic pension, to be frozen at $80 a month, an increase of 42 cents from the figure reached by annual cost-of-living raises since 1967. The supplement would continue to be increased annually by a maximum of two per cent a year.

The pension issue was given added emphasis with presentation by Veterans Affairs Minister Jean-Eudes Dube of legislation to increase payments to war pensioners. The bill, which Mr. Dube said would add $22 million next year to the present total of $214 million, was given routine first reading.

In the Senate, meanwhile, second reading was given to government legislation slated to replace the emergency regulations proclaimed under the War Measures Act to meet terrorist activity in Quebec.

The public order bill, passed Tuesday by the Commons after a month of debate, goes today to the Senate committee on legal affairs with a warning from Senator Grattan O'Leary (PC—Ontario) that he will vote against it if amendments are not made to protect civil liberties.

Senator O'Leary said he had agreed to the invocation of the War Measures Act but since then there had been a "frittering away" of liberty and there was growing doubt about government behavior. The government had dramatized and "played politics" with the issue, he said, and the people had a right to know all the facts.

But Senator Hartland Molson (Ind—Quebec) maintained people in the province want more than anything "quiet and stability."

Senator Salten Hayden (L—Ontario) maintained that national security takes priority in moments of crisis over individual rights.

Senate Opposition Leader Jacques Flynn (PC—Quebec) felt the legislation was far from satisfactory but "we have no choice but to support the principle."

China Cause Hurt By Nasser's Death

By FAROUK NASSAR

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Since the death of Gamal Abdel Nasser the influence of Communist China has suffered a series of setbacks in the Middle East.

The timing seems coincidental, since the late Egyptian president was cool toward Peking. But his death sent political tremors through several Arab countries and forces of the extreme left have not been able to capitalize on them.

Power struggles, government shakeups and army purges have swept Libya, Sudan, Iraq and South Yemen. There was a military coup in Syria.

In each of these events China's established or potential interests suffered. The Syrian coup hurt most. It ousted Peking's best Arab ally, the Marxist leadership of the governing Socialist Baath party. It also imperilled China's main arms route to the Middle East.

LANDED ARMS

Under the Marxists, Syria became a base from which Mao Tse-tung's military experts and ideological preachers spread out to infiltrate the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

Since the 1967 war Chinese ships have unloaded arms cargoes at Iraqi ports on the northern tip of the Persian Gulf. Trucks carried the goods to guerrilla bases in Jordan.

The route was diverted to Syria when King Hussein's Bedouin army closed Jordan's eastern frontier for Chinese arms during the Jordanian civil war in September.

Now the route faces a further threat. Lt.-Gen. Hafez al-Assad, the strongman who seized power in Syria, has fallen out with Maoist guerrilla groups.

Reports in the Arab press suggest that recent changes in the top army command and the defence ministry of South Yemen will curb China's efforts in the southern regions of the Arabian peninsula.

In Sudan, Gen. Gaafar el Mimeiry's regime has cracked down on Maoists.

In Libya, two captains from the "free officers" group which overthrew the monarchy in 1969 were dismissed from the government and ruling council. They were reported to have formed the extreme left wing in the council and established contact with Chinese diplomats in Cairo.

Montreal Sewage Bid Claimed Inadequate

MONTREAL (CP) — This city's current and proposed sewage treatment facilities were attacked as inadequate Tuesday at a pollution conference sponsored by the Canadian Society for Chemical Engineering.

George Berg of Rochester University, N.Y., said Montreal has "the most leisurely water-pollution control program in history."

Mrs. A. Hughs, representing the Society to Overcome Pollution (STOP), said the city will be polluting the St. Lawrence River as badly in 1980, when new sewage-treatment facilities are scheduled to be completed, as it is now.

The city's volume of sewage will have doubled by 1980 and the proposed sewage plants will only provide primary treatment, she said.

"With the population increase, we will have the same effect on the water 10 years from now as we have now."

Jean Marcotte, director of the water purification department of the Montreal Urban Community, told the conference earlier the city is planning to spend $280 million on primary treatment facilities in the next 10 years.

Canadian Tackles Court Load

HAMILTON, Bermuda (CP) — A 66-year-old Canadian Queen's Counsel has been appointed as Bermuda's third magistrate.

Norman Genser, who retired to Bermuda in October, 1969, was named to help reduce a large backlog of cases that have kept the two other full-time magistrates working flat out.

Genser, born in Stonewall, Man., graduated from the University of Saskatchewan with a law degree in 1927 and two years later was admitted to the Saskatchewan bar.

In 1930 he was appointed assistant Crown prosecutor for the district. Then in 1933 he was admitted to the Quebec bar. He practised extensively in both civil and criminal courts.

For more than two years he was widely engaged as a Crown attorney in magistrate's court. He also went on circuit with provincial magistrates and worked closely with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

HEADED OWN FIRM

Genser developed a general practice and headed his own firm which had offices in Quebec City. He was named Queen's Counsel in 1956.

During the war years he was a member of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and was involved in the drafting of special legislation for the Canadian government.

Genser said in an interview that he's still getting the feel of his new job, but finds it interesting. He said a magistrate here has a wider jurisdiction than his counterparts in Canada.

Genser said he hopes the big backlog in cases will be reduced quickly so he can revert to sitting two or three days a week.

Since his retirement he's been concentrating on golf and admits to a "very high" handicap of 22, which he hopes to reduce "as soon as possible."

IPSWICH, England (UPI) — Joe Wiggins, 80, only recently thought of claiming an army pension because of a wound he suffered in the First World War.

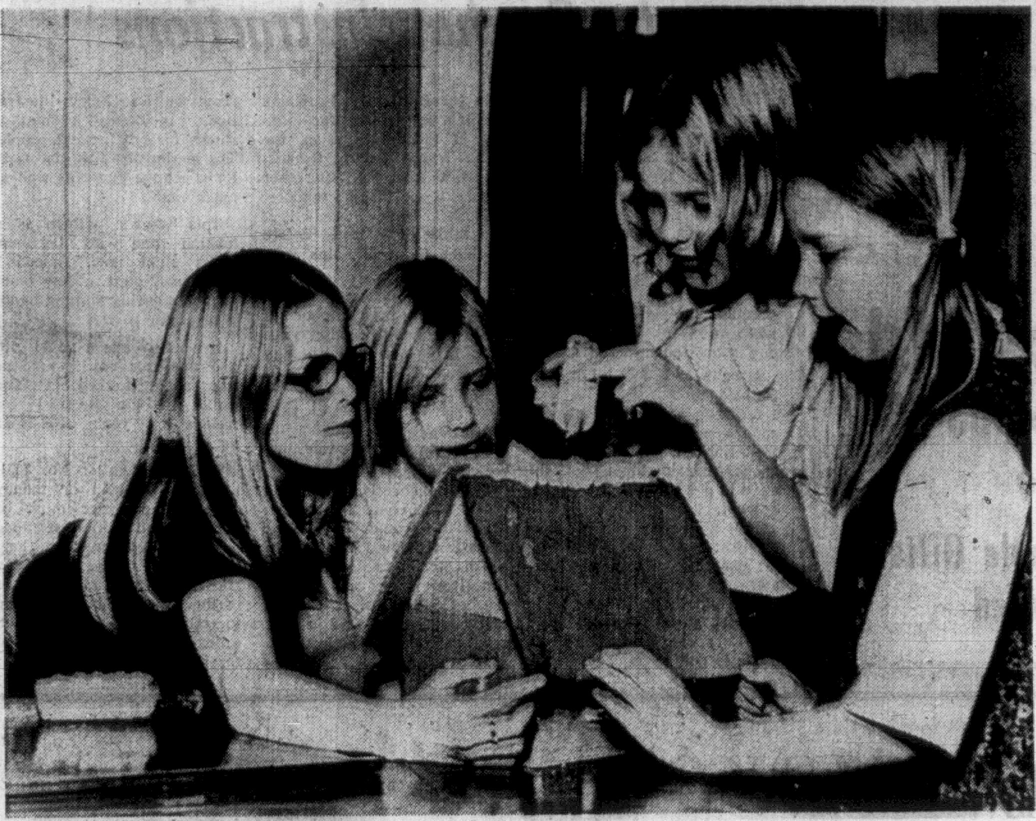
First you mix a thick gingerbread batter, as Lynn Stavdal and her sister Tracy demonstrate in the opening move of a busy morning constructing a gingerbread house.



Then, quite a bit later you call for help as the house begins to look like the ones in German picture books. It takes three sisters, Gail (left, Tracy and Carmen, to steady the structure as Lynn cements two pieces of roof together with icing. The girls took turns icing the roof and decorating the house with jellybeans and other candies. (Robin Clarke Photos)

Joyously German With Gingerbread and Icing

A German Christmas tradition, the gingerbread house decorated with colorful candies, is time-consuming but, according to a Victoria family who tried it, well worth the trouble.

The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stavdal did most of the work themselves getting gloriously sticky with icing and candies during the Saturday morning bake-in.

Here are the instructions they followed, constructing their masterpiece early in the season to save a last-minute rush. (The recipe can also be used for gingerbread cookies.)

To make the cardboard pattern for the house, the following pieces will be required:

End walls — Measure a 4-by-6-inch rectangle. At the mid point of the top of the 4-inch side extend a straight line upwards for 5 inches and mark a point. Join each corner of the 4-inch line to this point to form a peaked end wall.

Chimney — Cut two 1½-inch-by-4-inch rectangles. Cut a 1-inch deep "V" in the base of one of the rectangles.

GINGERBREAD HOUSE

7 cups sifted all-purpose flour
4 tsp. ginger
4 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. baking soda
2 cups soft butter
2 cups lightly-packed brown sugar
1 cup molasses

4 egg whites
6 cups sifted icing sugar

Lightly grease 3 large cookie sheets. Sift together flour, ginger, cinnamon and baking soda. Cream together butter and 2 cups brown sugar until light and fluffy; blend in molasses. Add sifted dry ingredients to creamed mixture, part at a time, combining well after each addition.

Divide dough in several pieces. On prepared cookie sheets roll each piece of dough to ¼-inch thickness to cover the entire sheet. Place prepared pattern pieces on dough and carefully cut out 2 side walls, 2 end walls, 2 roof panels and 2 of each of the chimney columns. Chill.

Preheat oven to 350 deg. F. Bake in preheated oven 12 to 15 minutes. Cool 5 minutes on cookie sheets. Cool completely on wire racks.

(Make gingerbread cookies from any remaining dough.)

Beat 1 egg white until frothy. Gradually beat in 1½ cups icing sugar; continue beating until icing forms stiff peaks.

Place frosting in a small pastry bag and decorate side and end walls to form windows and doors or outline any cut-from dough.

An additional batch of frosting can be made up to ice end and side walls if desired. Let dry completely. Cover any remaining frosting with damp paper towels and clear plastic wrap.

To assemble Gingerbread House: Make up second batch of frosting using 1 egg white and 1½ cups icing sugar.

Assemble on an 8½-by-11-inch piece of cardboard. cement, ice base and 1 side of Using decorative frosting as end wall, and base and corresponding edge of side wall.

Carefully fit together on cardboard. Repeat with remaining sides and end until all are glued in place. Allow to dry about 10 to 15 minutes.

Ice the edges and press together the 4 pieces that form the chimney. Hold until steady; set aside.

Prepare a third batch of frosting using 1 egg white and 1½ cups icing sugar; ice the top edges of the end and side walls and corresponding areas on roof sections and carefully press roof into place. Hold until steady.

Ice bottom of chimney and set in place. Let house dry completely; approximately 1 hour.

Prepare fourth batch of frosting using remaining egg white and 1½ cups icing sugar. Spread over roof and drizzle icicles down the front if desired.

Thick gingerbread batter bakes into cake that is hard enough to keep its shape and hold the heavy coating of icing on the roof. The Stavdal girls had some help from their mother, but the finished house is mostly their own work. (Bill Halkett photo.)

Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Flett will hold an open house for friends and relatives Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. at their home, 1278 Bay Street, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

They were married in Melfort, Sask., in 1920, and have lived in Victoria since 1953. They have seven children and 17 great grandchildren.

Executive Vanity Assumes Superiority

Michelle Geoffrion, past president of the 27,000-member National Secretaries' Association, says bosses ought to delegate more responsibility and their secretaries should be willing to accept it.

"A girl is no longer satisfied with the delegation of purely mechanical exercises," she told a men's service club. "Many executives suffer from the fear of delegation, and their vanity presupposes that they can do a particular job better.

"The dispassionate response of a secretary is often beneficial feedback, and it is only in encouraging her that the executive can expect optimum results."

Unfortunately, however, there are still some men who think their secretaries should look like models, work like animals, behave like ladies and think as men do.

The executive expects his secretary to be a wife," she said, "but one at home is surely enough."

"She is also expected to be a mother, a freind, a confidante, a whipping-post and often a mistress.

"So there really isn't any reason for a girl to say modestly: 'Oh, I'm just a secretary'."

Mary's 105 and Still Drinking

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Mary Fox, who retired as a trapper at the age of 80, celebrated her 105th birthday Monday with a bottle of beer.

Mrs. Fox, who still smokes 10 cigarettes a day and has "an occasional bottle of beer," credits her "ripe old age" to the fact that she lived most of her life in the bush and "lived off the land."

A native of Timmins, Ont., Mrs. Fox, an Indian, lived for almost a century in the Matachewan area, 30 miles west of here, where she became a well-known trapper.

Her husband, a well-known prospector who had Fox Lake named after him, died 30 years ago. The couple had five children.

Mrs. Fox lives in Tech Pioneer Residence, a home for senior citizens.

American Terms Explained In Crochet Instructions

Dear May: I have just recently learned to crochet and am really enjoying it. When buying a pattern the other day, the lady at the wool shop mentioned that in the English patterns, when they say double crochet, they mean single crochet in Canadian terms, and so on for other stitches.

Could you explain exactly what stitch to use for each one in an English pattern.

Mrs. G. Elliott, London, Ontario.

Looking through several reference books I find that the English and European books, refer to the slip-stitch as slip-stitch or single crochet.

The single crochet as referred to in American books is: insert hook into next stitch and pull through loop, then yarn over hook and pull through the two loops. This, in European and English books is double crochet.

In the English or European method, they count the number of loops formed on the hook, before pulling through to work them off. In other words, if you make two loops, then it's double crochet. If you make three loops, before working them off, this is a treble.

In the American method, they count the number of times one has to do the "yarn over hook and pull through two loops." In other words if you form three loops on the hook you will have to do yarn over the hook and pull through two loops twice, before completing the stitch.

This, then, is a double crochet, whereas in English books this would be called a treble. Canadian instruction books tend to follow the American way of writing crochet directions.

My Leaflet No. 6870 is very good for people who want to learn to crochet. There are many easy to follow illustrations, including a method shown for left handed people. The leaflet also has directions for a change purse as well as place mats.

This week's pattern is a fashion rage with the teenagers right now. Indeed I have seen quite a few older women wearing similar bands at cocktail parties.

It would make a novel gift, and the little motifs take no time at all to crochet! You could make several for friends on your Christmas list.

To order Leaflet No. 7061, send 35c in coin or money order. Your order must be accompanied with a stamped self-addressed envelope, long if possible. Send to: May Mac Lean, Knit and Chat, care of the Times. Please be sure to state pattern number when ordering and to allow up to three weeks for delivery.

3 cups citrus peel, cut into strips from:

2 medium to large grapefruit or
8 to 9 large tangerines
12 cups cold water
2½ cups sugar

To prepare peel, wash fruit; score peel into quarters. Remove sections of peel with fingers; cut into uniform strips about ⅜ inch wide. Boil peel with 6 cups cold water uncover for 10 minutes; drain and rinse. Repeat process with 6 cups fresh water. (Note, if you are preparing tangerine peel, omit second boiling.) In large saucepan combine 1½ cups sugar, honey and boiling water; bring to a boil and boil 1 minute. Add cooked, drained peel and briskly simmer until almost all of syrup has been absorbed, about 30 to 40 minutes. Stir frequently to avoid sticking. Moroccan Princess Contradicts Romantic Myth

RABAT (Reuter) — Moroccan women are starting to show signs of real revolt against ancient traditions that have kept them veiled and cloistered for centuries.

The newly-formed National Union of Moroccan Women asserts itself on the subject of women's rights with the publication of a new magazine entitled Aicha.

Princess Lalla Fatima Zohra, half-sister of King Hassan II and president of the women's union, said in the first issue she does not want to start a fight with the authorities but that she will certainly "confront some government departments with realities that will make them stop to think."

One of these realities is the status of married women. The outsider thinks of Moroccan women as romantic figures, leading leisurely lives of cloistered ease inside some colonnaded patio, clothed in silk and brocades, and laden with jewelry.

In fact, romance is far removed from reality. Many Morccan wives are unhappy — but this is not because under Moslem law their husbands can take four wives and have as many concubines as they can afford, since Moroccan men simply cannot afford harems anymore.

The problem is that in practice Moroccan women have no legal rights, even though by law they have more rights than European women, says Amina Messoudi, 28-year-old private secretary to Princess Lalla.

Writing on divorce in Aicha, she said that under Moroccan law a wife retains the right to administer her own wealth and do business without consulting her bushand. Her upkeep is her husband's entire responsibility, whatever income she may have of her own.

But in practice the husband has complete control and she has no rights even over her own possessions. If she earns a wage, she is expected to hand it all over to her husband.

It is virtually impossible for the wife to obtain a divorce, Mrs. Messoudi writes. Divorcees become "untouchables and pariahs in society" and as a consequence Moroccan women avoid divorce and are completely resigned to their fate, she says.

Mrs. Messoudi says that as a result relations betwen man and wife are like those between master and slave.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Listen to Love

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and have a sister who is 30. It is the custom in our family that the younger sister does not marry until the older sister has married.

I met a wonderful young man and he's asked me to marry him. As you have probably guessed by now, I want to announce my engagement and start making plans for my wedding.

My sister doesn't have anyone special in sight right now which doesn't seem to bother her. She is intelligent and holds down a well-paid position but she is rather plain.

What should I do? I don't want to upset my old-world parents.—Wants to Wed.

DEAR WANTS: I don't want to upset your "old-world parents" either, but if you are asking me what I would do, I'd marry the man and ask him if he knows someone who would like to meet an intelligent but rather plain 30-year-old woman.

DEAR ABBY: I cannot forget the letter from that horrible daughter signed "Uncertain" who wanted to hasten her mother's death. It was bad enough that the poor old woman was dying of an incurable disease, without having a miserable daughter who wanted to put her out of her misery.

For eight months I nursed my mother who was full of cancer. She has been dead for nearly a year now and I still cry every day, wishing she were still here so I could have the pleasure of taking care of her. Oh, God, how I miss her!

How I envy "Uncertain" that she still has her mother to care for. And how I despise that selfish daughter for wanting to see her mother dead.—Shedding Tears.

DEAR SHEDDING: It seems more "selfish" to wish an incurably ill loved one prolonged suffering in order to provide you with the pleasure (?) of nursing her. I could better understand a prayer that the Good Lord either restore her good health or take her mercifully.

Confidential to "Wants to Know, but Hates to Look Stupid": Ask anyway. There is no such thing as a "stupid" question if it's sincere. Better to ask and risk appearing "stupid" than to continue on your ignorant way and make a stupid mistake.

TORONTO, December 3rd — A perfect cake every time! And by perfect I mean light, moist and with good, old-fashioned flavour. I've used MONARCH CAKE MIXES for many years — first because of their consistently high quality and because they are packed in pouches, which I find ever-so-much more convenient than bulky boxes. Like all housewives concerned with to-day's food prices, I appreciate Monarch's substantially lower cost. And the size is just right — when I want a single-layer cake, I use one Pouch-Pak — when I want a 2-layer cake, I use 2 Pouch-Paks. Simple. The directions are on every Monarch Cake Mix package.

Wide and narrow? Right. New Confidets, from Scott — the first tapered sanitary napkins ever: wide in front, narrow in back. Just like natural body contours. And that's why a Confidet fits perfectly. Stays put. Gives you greater comfort than you've ever known before! Deep and shallow? Yes, both. A Confidet is twice as deep in the middle because that's where you need the greatest protection. Yet shallower at the ends, so there's no bulkiness. That means you get the security of a super pad (when you need it) without the worry of embarrassing outlines! It's the extra absorbency that makes Confidets so unique. And so comfortable. Confidets have just recently come to the West. Have you tried them yet?

'Let Them Have Shoes'

VANCOUVER (CP) — One of the agree, don't-agree statements in a "women's lib" poll conducted recently in a hotel lobby in downtown Vancouver was: "Burning the bra is beautiful."

Male voters agreed 153 votes to 84 but the women voted to uphold the bra—71 to 30.

Both sexes overwhelmingly opposed the proposal that a woman should be "barefoot, pregnant and in the kitchen."

One male answerer added an afterthought: "Buy them shoes."

An American actress charged in a London court Wednesday that American-born Bernard Cornfeld had assaulted her twice. She obtained an injunction ordering Cornfeld to stay away from her if he comes to London. Cornfeld is the former president of the Investors Overseas Services Trust Fund, which he built by selling mutual funds in Europe. Victoria Principal, described as the 20-year-old daughter of a former United States Air Force sergeant, told the court she had once lived with Cornfeld, 42, in London and abroad. The interim injunction ordered Cornfeld to refrain from assaulting the girl "or committing trespass upon her person." The injunction is effective until Jan. 23 when Miss Principal's suit against Cornfeld on an assault charge is due to be heard.

Singer Nancy Sinatra will marry producer Hugh Lambert in a Roman Catholic ceremony Dec. 12 in Palm Springs, her agent said Wednesday. It is the second marriage for both Nancy, 30, and Lambert, 40, who has two children. The reception to the wedding will take place at her father Frank Sinatra's desert home.

A Chicago physician was charged with sexually assaulting at least five women patients after immobilizing them with drugs in his suburban clinic. Authorities said Dr. James G. Middleton, 44, also had in his possession a cache of weapons, explosives and pornographic materials. "At least five women patients were put into a hypnotic stupor before they were taken advantage of in his office," said a detective. Middleton was charged with deviate sexual assault, possession of explosives and illegal use of weapons.

A former army surgeon said in Washington that when he was with the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment in Vietnam under Col. George S. Patton III, Patton asked the chaplain to pray for a big body count of Viet Cong. Dr. Gordon Livingston, now a psychiatrist at Johns Hopkins University, said the standing order of the 11th Regiment was "find the bastards and then pile on." He said one Sunday night the chaplain prayed, "Oh Lord, give us the wisdom to find the bastards and the strength to pile on."

Wings flapping wildly, the "Birdman of Peterborough" took to the air today—and wound up with only a bloody nose to show for his flight. "I'm not dismayed," really I'm not," Walter Cornelius said after his bid to fly by leaping off a supermarket roof with wood and hardboard "wings" strapped to his arms ended in an emergency landing in Peterborough, England. "It was a bit painful," he said later. "But I'll try again."

Bruce Davis, a member of Charles Manson's hippie-style family sought since last April on murder charges, surrendered to Los Angeles police Wednesday. Meanwhile, a defence lawyer in the Sharon Tate murder trial remained missing for a third day. Davis, 27, was embraced joyfully by about a dozen Manson family members who have been camped outside the Hall of Justice while their leader and three women followers are tried on murder-conspiracy charges. The surrender came as authorities launched a helicopter search of a wilderness area where lawyer Ronald Hughes is reported missing.

Mrs. Tjut Zahar Fonna, 23, who hoaxed the Indonesian nation with her unborn Koran-reciting "miracle baby," has escaped from detention in Bandjarmasin, South Borneo, intelligence sources said Wednesday. Among the victims of her hoax were President Suharto and members of his cabinet who put their ears to the woman's stomach to listen to the baby she said she had carried 19 months recite the Koran and talk.

The Toronto Scottish Regiment cadet corps has decided that rules are made to be broken, at least in the case of Sean Conroy. Sean, 10, performs so well on the bagpipes that regulations have been stretched to allow him to parade with the newly-reconstituted corps. The rules say cadets must be 13, but officials decided to allow Sean to be an unofficial member of the corps band for the next three years.

Dirty movies are seeking both artistic and legal respectability this week in San Francisco. While the first international Erotic Film Festival continues at the Presidio Theatre, the legal battle over pornographic films continues. Stanford psychologist Dr. John Black and San Francisco psychiatrist Martin G. Blinder defended the films in testimony at the trial of brothers Jim and Art Mitchell, who started the "hard-core" trend at their O'Farrell Theatre last year. Black said the films had some "redeeming social value," not only for "instructional" and "entertainment" reasons, but especially for their "therapeutic" value for the lonely, frustrated men he said make up most of the audience.

Prime Minister Edward Heath's government today unveiled an already hotly disputed bill making organizers of wildcat strikes punishable by fines of up to $240,000. The 160-page Industrial Relations Bill also banned closed union shops and contained other provisions union leaders feel are prejudicially favorable to management.

Canadian Toy Soldiers to Go on Sale

LONDON (CP) — A collection of miniature Canadian military figures goes on sale here Dec. 10 as part of an army of lead soldiers which is expected to attract bids from many parts of the world.

Once a staple of the nursery cupboard, toy soldiers have been promoted in recent years to the status of collectors' items, especially those of Edwardian or Victorian vintage depicting long-vanished regiments.

The Canadian figures in the auction at Phillips, Son and Neale include seven Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry; four RCMP in summer uniforms; four Governor-General's Horse Guards; two foot guards and mounted officer. Another boxed set by the same maker, the English firm of Britains, comprises six marching RCMP, two others mounted and eight Governor-General's foot guards.

The auctioneers expect the first set to sell for about £15 ($37.50) and the second for about £10 ($25).

The sale also includes portrait figures of King Edward VII—minus his horse—Edward VIII as Prince of Wales in naval uniform and as colonel of the Welsh Guards.

IMPERIAL ERA EVOKED

Soldiers of many different eras will march across the auctioneer's desk, from Roman times through the battle of Agincourt, the Napoleonic wars, the Boer War of 1899-1902 to the present day.

Britain's imperial era is evoked by sets of Bengal Lancers, Skinner's Horse and Bombay Native Infantry and there are also a number of historic Balkan regiments from the early years of the century.

Most of the figures in the sale were made by Britains, the leading English firm in this field. Britains stopped making the traditional lead soldiers four years ago and turned to plastic, which has caused a huge increase in the value of lead models. Soldiers which were originally marketed for one penny each now command £2 or more.

Some world record prices are expected at the December sale. A salesroom spokesman said some of the keenest bidding might come for a set depicting a tiger hunt, made by the German firm of Heyde about 1900.

"German toy soldier makers tended to concentrate on many of the Indian Empire subjects—possibly reflecting Imperial Germany's envious attention to British India," said the spokesman.

Bids from many parts of the world arrived for the last sale in June, including several from Canada. A Montreal collector bid for a collection of Nazi generals, including a figure of Adolf Hitler with a spring-loaded arm to give the Nazi salute, but he was outbid at £22 by an English buyer.

Mystery Deaths of Twins Investigated by Doctors

HELSINKI (AP) — Finnish medical experts were trying Wednesday to determine what caused apparently healthy 23-year old identical twin sisters to die within minutes of each other.

The girls, Tuula and Marjatta Jaavaara, collapsed last Thursday night at their home in the small town of Poorvo, east of Helsinki. Taken to hospital, they died within 10 minutes.

The twins had been extremely close. They did the same things together and, their parents said, they became ill at the same time even when they were at different places.

Heart failure was given as the immediate cause of death, but doctors hope that further examinations may throw light on the case.

Conflicting Evidence Tangles Jet Inquiry

TORONTO (CP) — A conflict of opinions on the circumstances surrounding the crash of an Air Canada jetliner with a loss of 109 lives has left an investigating judge with the knotty problem of preparing a report on a tangle of evidence.

Adjourning a federal inquiry Wednesday at the close of eight days of hearings, Mr. Justice Hugh Gibson of the Exchequer Court of Canada said he would proceed to write his report "with all speed."

He was told in a final submission by the commission counsel, B. J. MacKinnon, that if an engine had broken cleanly away and not taken part of a fuel tank with it, the DC-8-63 giant jet would have survived.

Mr. MacKinnon said the evidence was clear that the plane would have lived through a runway bounce at Toronto International Airport last July 5 if the fuel tank had not ruptured when the engine tore away.

Earlier evidence was that shear bolts were supposed to break cleanly, letting the engine fall. The release of jet fuel and subsequent explosions from shorting electrical wires blew off the right wing and sent the plane to a crash north of the airport as captain circled for another landing attempt.

ARGUES FOR BUILDERS

However, Douglas Laidlaw, counsel for McDonnel-Douglas of California, the plane's builders, said that if an engineer knew the exact way an aircraft would crash he could design a plane to withstand it.

"But that's not reasonable," he said. "You can't design an aircraft for a specific crash. They build in everything they think that the plane will be subjected to and then they add a safety factor.

"You hope—that's what design philosophy means—that if an aircraft crashes, it comes apart in the way you intend it."

Mr. Justice Gibson was urged to consider recommending substantial modifications to DC-8 passenger jets. There now are 509 DC-8s in service for 44 airlines with a total of more than 8,120,000 hours in the air.

Mr. MacKinnon said the evidence showed that premature deployment of the jet's ground-spoiler braking system by First Officer Donald Rowland was the most probable cause of the crash.

However, air accident investigators of the federal transport department, who pieced together the fragments after the crash, cited a number of structural shortcomings and deficiencies in systems on DC-8s.

Mr. MacKinnon, who represented no particular party at the inquiry, told the judge it was the commissioner's job to make recommendations that might help prevent future air tragedies.

He said the judge should "look very closely" at evidence regarding the ground spoiler system—10 steel panels that deploy upward from the wing surfaces to slow and steady an aircraft on the runway after its wheels have touched down.

Evidence indicated the spoilers were deployed manually from the cockpit while the plane was in the air, causing the runway bounce. The jet was bound from Montreal to Los Angeles with a brief stop here.

A lever between the pilot and co-pilot arms the spoilers for automatic operation once the plane's wheels touch the runway. But the lever can also be used for instant deployment on the ground or in the air.

Mr. MacKinnon said the commissioner must also consider the other factors that were pertinent to the crash:

—The failure of the Air Canada instruction curriculum and the Air Canada and McDonnel-Douglas operations manuals to inform pilots adequately that the ground spoilers could be manually deployed in flight;

—The failure of those who knew about the possibility of inadvertent in-flight deployment to inform those who did not know;

—The absence of an adequate alarm system in the cockpit which would have immediately informed the flight crew of the damage to their aircraft after the runway impact.

Mr. Laidlaw said the cause of the crash could be found in the evidence of First Officer Rowland's response to a command from Captain Peter Hamilton.

"He responded instantaneously by pulling (the control lever to deploy the spoilers) rather than arming the spoilers. There is no other theory that fits other than the fact that First Officer Rowland responded improperly."

Mr. Laidlaw said the material in the operations manual had nothing to do with the accident.

"Every pilot who flies a DC-8 knows you shouldn't deploy the spoilers in the air. If he knows he shouldn't, what difference does it make whether he can or not?"

John Keenan, counsel for the estate of Captain Hamilton, said the pilot died proving the point he had argued in life—that the spoiler system was a hazard.

Mr. Keenan criticized both the McDonnel-Douglas design and the inaccuracy of the manufacturer's and Air Canada manuals. He said the department of transport should have noticed that the CP Air manual warned of the danger of in-flight manual deployment and informed Air Canada.

W. A. Grant, counsel for the estates of First Officer Rowland and Second Officer H. G. Hill, said the testimony of witnesses at the inquiry had "convicted the manufacturers of the aircraft more than it had hung any blame on the members of the flight crew."

DOOMED WHEN IT HIT

He said that because of the failure of the aircraft design the Air Canada jet was doomed the moment it hit the runway and lost an engine.

Air Canada's lawyer, Francois Mercier, said that if Captain Hamilton had followed the established procedure for arming the spoilers—at about 2,000 feet during the before-landing check—the accident would never have happened. The spoilers then deploy automatically on touchdown.

Captain Hamilton regarded this as a dangerous procedure because of possible mechanical malfunctions that might trigger the spoilers in the air. Generally he had his first officer deploy them manually on the ground.

However in the case of First Officer Rowland, he worked out a compromise—the spoilers would be armed "on the flare" as the jet came out of its glide path to land.

"On this flight Captain Hamilton introduced a third element into an already confused set of landing procedures by requiring First Officer Rowland to arm the spoilers on the flare," said Mr. Mercier.

"The evidence compels the inference that under these circumstances First Officer Rowland manually pulled the ground spoiler lever to the 'extend' position on the flare, instead of raising it for arming purposes."

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO OAK BAY RESIDENTS

Re: Keeping of Boats and/or Boat Trailers, Camp Trailers, Camper Bodies, Commercial Vehicles and UNLICENSED VEHICLES in the Municipality.

The Zoning By-law of the Municipality prohibits the keeping of a commercial vehicle in a residential or apartment zone, except in either a carport or a garage.

Where there is a residence on the lot, the keeping of no more than one each of the following objects, not in a garage or a carport, is only permitted in the rear or sideyards behind the front line of the principal building:

> A vehicle or motor vehicle, as defined in the "Motor Vehicle Act" and which is unlicensed; Boat and/or Boat trailers; Camp trailer; Camper Body.

Provision has been made in the By-law, through registration with the Municipal Building Inspector, to permit the keeping of such an object in the front yard, subject to certain conditions, where it is impractical to get any of the above objects into the rear or sideyards because of the NATURAL topography of the lot or because of the siting of the dwelling on the lot.

No more than a total of two objects out of the above list may be kept on a lot on which there is no residence.

Copies of the applicable section of the Zoning By-law are available on request at the Municipal Hall and inquiries may be directed to the Building Inspector at 385-8711 (or after December 6, 1970, 598-3311).

Puerto Rico Bombings Aimed at Americans

BY IRWIN GOODWIN

SAN JUAN, P.R. (WP) — Some here call it "La Ofensiva," as if it were an unpleasant but expected natural phenomenon—like a seasonal hurricane. Others, more aptly and angrily, term it "El Terrori Smo."

What disturbs them is the renewed and invigorated wave of bombings aimed mainly at U.S. businesses and tourists. Two weekends ago, 11 homemade bombs exploded in the fashionable Condado section, the city's Gold Coast of tourist shops and hotels, injuring two persons and demolishing two cars owned by the Hertz Co.

This past week, aparently timed to coincide with the arrival of President Joaquin Balaguer of the Dominican Republic to discuss increasing trade relations between his nation and Puerto Rico, a bomb shattered the offices of the Dominican consulate here. Two days later, a fragmentation device, described by police as "15 times more powerful" than the bombs that went went off in Condado, was found in the University of Puerto Rico's ROTC building only a half-hour before it was timed to detonate.

'TERRORISM'

While admittedly perplexed about connecting all the incidents, Police Supt. Luis Torres Massa has labelled the events as "acts of revolutionary terrorism."

Gov. Luis A. Ferre has noted that the frequency and dimensions of this terrorism is "a new type." Demanding swift and sure action, he branded the bombers "persons who have no respect for the values of our island."

In response to Ferre's directive, a special 70-man police unit was ordered last week to move against the bombers before there are more injuried or, worse yet, perhaps some deaths.

For Balaguer's visit, more than 200 police were assigned to his protection. During a five-day stay on the island by New York's newly-elected Rep. Herman Badillo two weeks ago, the bulletproof 1964 Cadillac used by former Gov. Luis Munoz Marin was rolled out of storage.

BOMBINGS RESPONSE

Many observers believe the Condado bombings were intended as a response to Badillo's statement that he would respresent Puerto Rico in Congress, just as almost every remark by Ferre suggesting eventual statehood is greeted with another terrorist act.

Last year, with Woolworth and Pueblo Supermarkets among others bombed and burned, the economic consequences of terrorism increased to $14 million.

Police Chief Torres Massa claims his undercover agents know the identity of the bombers but lack enough evidence for arrests. Torres Massa, in public, and Ferre, in private, have attributed the terrorism to a militant fronge of "independentistas" — principally the pro-independence movement. But its executive secretary, Juan Mari Bras, denies the accusation.

Fearing more terrorism, some 300 police are assigned to protecting leading politicians and businessmen on the island. Many businesses have private protection. The stake of U.S. business in Puerto Rico is nearly half the Gross National Product of $4.9 billion. Of Fortune Magazine's top 500 U.S. firms more than 100 are operating on the island.

Two-Week Strike At Sawmill Over

100 MILE HOUSE, B.C. (CP) —Agreement was reached Wednesday to end a two-week strike of about 240 employees of the Weldwood Canada Canim Lake sawmill and plywood division at 100 Mile House.

The Northern Interior local of the International Woodworkers of America and negotiators for the company have worked out an agreement which offers employees a 70-cent-an-hour pay raise in the first two years of a three-year agreement.

In the third year, the employees will get a 14-cent catch-up increase along with any increases granted coast woodworkers.

The strike was the only one to mar the progress of settlements reached in negotiations with the area's forest employers on 1971 contract terms.

Low Nicotine Level Tobacco Plant Found

WARSAW (AP) — Polish researchers say they have developed tobacco with as little as 5 per cent of the nicotine found in the leaf now.

Dr. Jan Berbec, head of the department for special plants at Poland's Institute for Soil Fertility, said his researchers have been working on producing nicotine-free tobacco since 1964.

"Our nicotine-free brand is a normal plant," Berbec said. "The characteristic feature of its leaves is that during maturing and drying the nicotine disintegrates."

Berbec said importers from West Germany and Italy are interested.

"Perhaps next year cigarettes of nicotine-free tobacco will appear on the market," he said.

Dr. Kenneth R. Keller, assistant director in charge of tobacco research at North Carolina State University's School of Agriculture and Life Sciences, says low nicotine and "practically nicotine-free" tobacco has been "around for a long time."

He added there has been no commercial marketing of the product because it has failed to live up to the flavor and aroma of existing tobacco.

He said nearly nicotine-free tobacco strains have been developed in North Carolina Sate labs in Raleigh and also in West Germany.

In campaigns against cigarette smoking the emphasis has been more on tar than nicotine.

Fire Deaths Inquiry Set

FORT NELSON (CP) — A coroner's inquiry has been ordered into the deaths of four teenagers in a house fire here Sunday.

Laurie Shanks, 14, Bob Cantlon, 15, both of Fort Nelson, and Karen Brown, 16, and Robert Wyness, 18, recently of Qualicum Beach on Vancouver Island, were believed trapped in the front suite of a long, narrow frame duplex.

Roman List, the owner of the building, escaped from the back as flames quickly levelled the wooden structure.

An investigation by RCMP and a Vancouver fire marshal indicates cause of the fire may have been a candle or cigarette burning in the front suite.

Report on Media Due Out Next Week

OTTAWA (CP) — A report on the state of the press and broadcasting in Canada and suggestions for change will be published next Wednesday, a year to the day since the special Senate committee on the mass media opened public hearings.

Senator Keith Davey (L—Ontario), who proposed and headed the investigation, will present the Senate with the outcome of public testimony and private studies in a report of half a million words.

The report, about two-thirds the length of the Bible, consists of the committee's main findings in 100,000 words, a 250,000-word study by outside consultants on the economics of publishing and broadcasting, plus 150,000 words of other research material compiled by committee staff and outsiders.

The main report is expected to include suggested lines of action for the publishing and broadcasting industries.

At issue in almost 20 weeks of public hearings that ended last April is how to reconcile the public's right to full and fair information with the dependence of the media on commercialism and the tradition that the press should be free of outside intervention.

The committee, commissioned to find out how well Canadians are served by newspapers, magazines and news broadcasts, paid particular attention to the growth of group ownership of newspapers or multi-media ownership by a single company.

Uu to last Oct. 7, the committee reported its expenses to date as $515,375.

Memory Pill Blasted

LONDON (UPI) — A Baptist minister said Wednesday a new pill designed to help students remember facts may be "a potion from hell."

Rev. John McNicol said the new memory pill soon may be available in the United States and Britain.

"I fear that this drug if it is permitted to come into the hands of students could well lead to mass suicides, and I can easily foresee the closing down of universities and colleges because of this" McNicol said.

The minister, founder of Narcotics Anonymous, said the drug, ribmaninol, was being tested in Mexico and would be available in the United States and possibly Britain during 1971.

"This drug is a potion from hell. It could well become the student's answer to 'burning the midnight oil,' " he said.

Ex-Premier's Wife Dies

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Gertrude Frost, wife of former Ontario premier Leslie M. Frost, died Wednesday. She was 77.

Mrs. Frost was the daughter of John Carew a former representative in the Ontario legislature for South Victoria. Mr. Carew owned a prosperous lumber mill here.

During the manpower shortage of the First World War she acted as her father's political secretary, gaining experience she would use in later life to help her husband in his public life.

But at the time, Mrs. Frost was not interested in becoming a politician. She had in fact vowed before her marriage in 1926, when her husband was a struggling lawyer, never to marry a politician.

German Arms Stolen

ERLANGEN (AP) — Thieves escaped with 252 pistols destined for export, police announced. They said it was West Germany's biggest arms theft this year.

UN Committee Fight Erupts

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The General Assembly's humanitarian committee erupted into a shouting match Wednesday, shocking the usually staid UN.

"It was the most disgusting performance in the history of the committee," said R. St. John Macdonald, dean of the faculty of law at the University of Toronto, who called it a donnybrook.

At one stage, Jamil Baroodi, Saudi Arabian ambassador, became so furious at interruptions by a Frenchman that he advanced toward him threateningly. Delegates from Lebanon and Egypt restrained him.

The fury erupted as the committee was supposed to start a debate on a five-year-old proposal to create the post of commissioner of human rights—a sort of world ombudsman.

Canada, in particular Macdonald, is a strong supporter of the proposal along with other Western members. The Soviet bloc and some Africans, Arabs and other Asians oppose it for a variety of reasons.

The arm-waving, shouting debate continued until the chairman broke into tears. UN security guards slipped quietly into the chamber to be ready for any eventuality. Finally the meeting was suspended.

Short Walk to the Office

QUEBEC (CP) — A security-conscious Premier Robert Bourassa is taking up residence in the Quebec legislature buildings.

The 37-year-old premier has been living since 1966 in a modest room at the Victoria Hotel in Upper Tow, where it is reported that as many as 50 policemen are kept on constant duty.

In the first-floor apartment now being renovated for Bourassa at the legislature building housing the national assembly, he will still have his bodyguards nearby.

'Forest Industry Seems Destined To Bungle'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's forestry industry seems destined to bungle along for years, failing to keep the riches it takes from the soil at a level that does not undly deplete nutrients, a fisheries biologist told the western forestry conference Wednesday.

Dr. Peter A. Larkin, of the institute of animal resource ecology at the University of British Columbia, said that in forests 70 per cent of nutrient material is stored above ground in trees. Stripping off a single harvest of timber robs the ecosystem of a large proportion of this.

He said that unbalanced mining of minerals and carbon cannot continue indefinitely.

"We now should be switching over to harvesting the interest instead of living off the capital."

Dr. Larkin warned that if the present situation continues the annual return from forests may soon cease to expand and may even dimishish.

"If there isn't a progressive improvment in management we will gradually go out of business," he said.

Chamber Opposes Trade Bill

WASHINGTON (WP) — The Chamber of Commerce of the United States announced its flat opposition to import restrictions in the foreign trade bill Wednesday and urged President Nixon to do the same.

Until Wednesday the chamber had not taken a definite stand on the measure as passed by the House. Earlier in the year, it had supported less restrictive trade legislation proposed by the White House.

"Those who are seeking legislated quotas to pressure concessions from the Japanese are playing international trade's version of 'Russian roulette'," executive Vice-President Arch N. Booth wrote Nixon.

"Irreparable damage may be done unless your opposition is made known soon," Booth warned.

Captain of Ship Charged With Leaving Drowning Men

DETROIT (UPI) — The U.S. Coast Guard charged Wednesday a captain of a Great Lakes freighter ignored an ancient law of the seas and failed to help two men who later drowned.

A hearing will be held Tuesday to determine if the licence of Burris Wolters of Sandusky, Ohio, captain of the coal-carrier Sylvania, should be revoked for negligence.

The coast guard charged the 572-foot freighter failed to drop anchor on the night of Nov. 21 near Bob-Lo Island where William Caminti, 35, Gibraltar, Mich., and E. Bruce Lebold, 38, Trenton, Mich., were bobbing in the water after their cabin cruiser apparently struck an object and broke up.

The Sylvania's only lifesaving act was to call the coast guard by radiotelephone, according to Lt.-Cmdr. Robert V. Ricard.

In the narrow passages between the Great Lakes, shipmasters often hesitate to stop and render aid if there is no apparent danger of loss of human life because they fear they may run aground.

Normally, however, when there is the danger of a loss of life, the code of the sea is to stop and render assistance.

About 20 minutes after the Sylvania passed by, the freighter U.S. Gypsum saw the men. Crewmen of the Gypsum threw a life preserver overboard but the men disappeared before a boat could be launched.

Six Suspended

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — A board of inquiry has suspended six staff members at the penitentiary here, a spokesman said Wednesday night.

The spokesman could give no reason for the suspensions because the contents of the board of inquiry's report had not been released.

He said two of the men were senior correctional officers and the other four were junior correctional officers.

Saturday, prisoners started a fire in the penitentiary library and one guard was held captive briefly. At least one warning shot was fired and tear gas used to end the disturbance, Warden John Norfield said Wednesday.

Nixon Pledges to Maintain U.S. Forces in Europe

BRUSSELS (AP) — President Nixon pledged today that the United States will not reduce its forces in Europe — unless the Russians reduce theirs.

Nixon made his pledge in a statement read by State Secretary William Rogers to the winter meeting of the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"We have agreed," Nixon said, "that NATO's conventional forces must not only be maintained, but in certain key areas, strengthened.

"Given a similar approach by our allies, the United States will maintain and improve its forces in Europe and will not reduce them unless there is reciprocal action from our adversaries."

U.S. officials said the pledge went beyond the middle of 1972, the previous time limit on such assurances, and was "open ended." It is likely to set off a protest among members of the U.S. Congress who want to cut U.S. defence spending by bringing home a considerable number of the U.S. troops in Europe.

Last year, U.S. officials gave American strength in NATO as 310,000 men. The current figure is 285,000. But American officials say they will not be tied down to specific manpower figures, only to a promise not to reduce fighting readiness.

Nixon's statement called the meeting one of the most important in the history of the alliance. He said a comprehensive review of defence had arrived at fundamental conclusions that will help maintain NATO's strength while it seeks peace. He listed them as:

—Reaffirmation of flexibility in response to the threats of "a potentially hostile force, which is constantly improving."

—Agreement to strengthen NATO conventional forces.

—Agreement to transform recommendations into fact.

He praised European efforts to spend more on defence.

"This European initiative gives concrete testimony to the vitality and spirit of the European allies," he said.

REVIEWS BERLIN STAND

Reviewing negotiations on Berlin, Rogers said the Russians appeared to have given up their insistence on keeping West German government representation out of the city but that no substantive agreement has been made.

Rogers said the United States is not prepared to give up the joint responsibility of the Big Four—including the Russians—for the entire city, or to put the Russians in a position to control developments in West Berlin.

He blamed the Communists for tension in Berlin over the years and said it was up to them to take steps to eliminate it.

Rogers asked the ministers of the other 14 nations to reaffirm their interest in mutual, balanced-force reductions with the Soviets and their allies. The East should be urged, he said, to start exploratory talks next year.

The Soviet Bloc has proposed that talks about reductions of foreign troops take place at a general conference on European security. Rogers said exploratory talks might well come before a meeting.

The NATO foreign ministers began their semi-annual review of problems and plans amid indications that they won't agree to the European security conference until the Communists ease their restrictions on West Berlin.

The foreign ministers of Britain, the United States, France and West Germany met at dinner Wednesday night to discuss West Berlin, isolated 110 miles inside East Germany.

They concluded that only a favorable outcome of the talks on Berlin, which their ambassadors in Germany are holding with the Soviet ambassador, can lead to the climate of detente needed for the kind of general conference on European security the Russians seek.

RUSSIANS WAVERED

Diplomats attending the NATO conference disclosed that in November the Russians apparently accepted and then turned down a three-stage Western approach toward a Berlin settlement.

In the first stage, the U.S., the Soviet Union, Britain and France would negotiate a basic agreement defining Western rights of access to and from Berlin, the rights of West Berliners and the nature of West Germany's links with West Berlin.

The West and East German governments then would be delegated the task of negotiating detailed arrangements to carry out the basic agreement.

Any disputes between the two German governments would be decided by the Big Four.

Informants said the Russians apparently accepted the plan but 14 days later pulled back after East German newspapers attacked the idea of any compromise.

The West German government has repeatedly said that unless there is a solution in the Berlin talks it will not contemplate ratifying its recent non-aggression treaty with the Soviet Union.

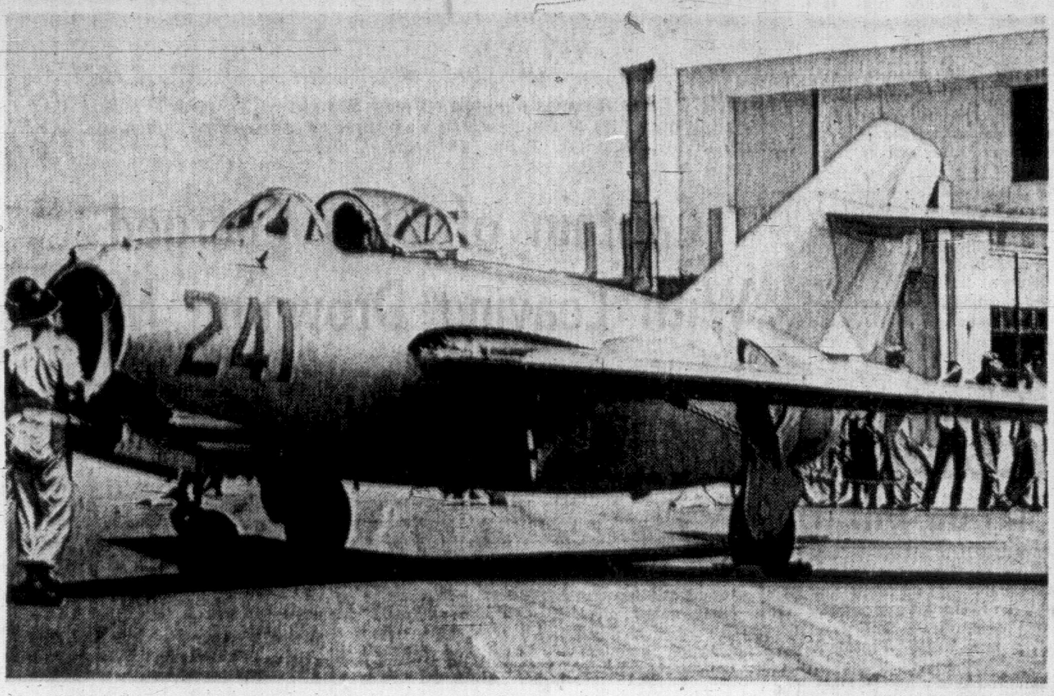
Windsor Paper Idle

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Star was unable to publish today for the second day in a row when workers of the newspaper's three craft unions staged a sit-in protest over delays in contract negotiations.

The newspaper, which normally prints three editions daily, published none Wednesday for the first time in 52 years. It has produced only one edition on each of four of the last seven publishing days.

In a statement today, The Star advised that it would not be asking workers to report for duty until a settlement has been reached "because the newspaper cannot publish."

The unions, which represent about 170 of the 400 employees, claim they are being locked out by management. Wages, vacations and holiday pay are the basic issues in dispute.



FIFTH DEFECTION by a North Korean pilot since 1950 occurred today when Major Sung-ku Pak flew a MiG-15 jet similar to the one above to a South Korean air base on the east coast. The South Koreans detected the defecting plane and sent a flight of its planes to guide it for a safe landing.

COLT?

Companies Fined $500,000

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Three major oil companies have pleaded no contest to charges of failing to follow federal safety regulations on offshore drilling platforms. They were fined more than $500,000.

Shell Oil Co., with a rig burning out of control 10 miles off the Louisiana coast and facing fines of more than $300,000, pleaded not guilty Wednesday.

Humble, Union and Continental oil companies each received the maximum fine of $2,000 on each count of the indictments returned by a federal grand jury.

Judge Fred J. Cassiery of the U.S. district court fined Humble $300,000 on 150 counts involving 33 wells; Union $24,000 on 12 counts involving eight wells; and Continental $242,000 on 121 counts involving 24 wells.

Shell is accused of 170 separate offences involving 40 wells and faces a maximum fine of $340,000.

All four firms were accused of failing to have subsurface safety devices in their wells.

The devices are designed to stop the flow of oil in the event of an accident on the drilling platform such as a fire or explosion. Each day such a device is missing constitutes a separate offence.

Earlier this year, Chevron Oil Co. paid $1 million in fines for similar violations.

'Abortion Capital Of America'

The bishops issued a joint statement Wednesday in which they said the state has become "the abortion capital of America."

They cited the legislation passed last spring, over their objections, that allows a woman to obtain a legal abortion up to 24 weeks after conception and said this statute is a "ruthless assault on human beings in the first stages of life."

"Once this law was passed," their statement said, "the abortionists lost no time in plying their death-dealing trade.

"Each day they grow wealthier from the killing of unborn children—some of whom have been heard to cry as they were dropped into surgical trash cans. They even advertise their monstrous commerce beyond the confines of the state, making New York the abortion capital of America."

The bishops made it clear that they are seeking repeal of the new abortion law.

"Once more," they said in their statement, "we denounce this outrage against humanity. Together with all the bishops of the world we hold and teach that abortion is an unspeakable crime."

Further Utah Hearings Asked

Victoria Labor Council will ask B.C. Pollution Control director William Venables to hold further hearings in major centres on an application by Utah Mining and Construction Co. Ltd. for a permit to dump effluent into Rupert Inlet.

The Labor Council move came at a meeting Wednesday following reading of a letter to Venables from the Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council.

The building trades deplored the Pollution Control Board's refusal to admit a brief prepared for public hearings at Port Hardy by the Society for Pollution and Environmental Control.

The letter also said:

"We find it difficult to agree that the board is serious in its investigative endeavor to determine the merits of Utah's application, when it chooses the remote town of Port Hardy as the venue for these crucial hearings."

Floods Kill 50

BELO HORIZONTE (AP)—Heavy rain and floods killed at least 50 persons and left hundreds homeless in Caratinga, a town in the interior of Minas Gerais state in Brazil, officials reported.

Police Court

James Mutter, 17, of 2605 Sooke Road, charged with theft under $50 while still on probation from another sentence, was ordered sent to a prison forest camp Monday by Judge William Ostler.

Mutter, appearing in provincial court after a pre-sentence report was prepared, was also charged with breach of probation.

"It's simply ... a tragedy that a boy of 17 can say he's used every drug on the market," Ostler said.

"My purpose is not to send you to jail. I do not believe in sending young people to jail."

He sentenced Mutter to concurrent four-month terms.

Joseph Bugzkowski, 28, of CFB Esquimalt, was fined $250 when he pleaded guilty to stealing a can of meat and a package of head-cheese while he had $62 on him.

David A. Lannigan, 44, of 954 Newport, was fined $400 when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

* * *

A 21-year-old sailor who pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance by fighting drew the judge's sympathy when he told court he had lost the battle.

Court was told Dwayne Johnson, of CFB Esquimalt, suffered injuries to his eyes, face and head in the set-to in a beer parlor parking lot.

"Did you challenge him?" Ostler asked.

"I don't think so, your honor—he was bigger than me," said the sailor.

"Well you seem to have got the worst of it," acknowledged the judge and ordered a $5 fine.

* * *

Walter Brown, 26, of 121 Conrad, was fined $200 for driving with a blood-alcohol level over .08 per cent.

* * *

Thomas Bown, 40, of 827 Craigflower, was fined $200 for driving with a blood-alcohol level over .08 per cent.

Construction Falls Off

Permits worth $102,825 were issued in November compared with $272,383 in the same month last year.

For the first 11 months of this year, permits worth $2.3 million were issued compared with $3.4 million in the corresponding period last year.

Unions Won't Back Spencer Project

A suggestion that building trade unions support a proposed condominium development in the Spencer Castle area mainly because it will give them jobs was rejected at a Victoria Labor Council meeting Wednesday.

The charge against the 6,000-member Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council came from Tony Miller, city aldermanic candidate and delegate from the Saanich municipal workers.

He was commenting on a letter from the building trades council to Mayor Courtney Haddock expressing dismay that the development could be scrapped as a result of opposition from nearby residents.

A copy of the letter was read at the meeting.

"I want you all to go home tonight and pick up your new telephone book and ask yourselves, is that the kind of city you want?" Miller said, referring to a photograph of Vancouver's west end.

John Schibli, secretary of the building trades council, said most of the opposition to the scheme is based on "narrow thinking on the part of residents."

He said building trades unions don't support any project that would provide their members with work.

CHRISTMAS TREAT FOR FAMILIES

Ice Capades Back Again Dec. 9

Ice Capades, the show which has become a pre-Christmas treat for many Victoria families, will be back at the Memorial Arena from Dec. 9 to 13.

Many old favorites will be back, including Don Knight, the Ontario skater, former North American and Canadian champion, who has represented Canada at least five times in Olympic and World games.

Starring in her own right will be his wife, Janet Runn, who will hold the spotlight in a number called "Love, Love, Love and More Love."

The Austrian comedian Hans Leiter and Japanese skating champion Sushi Kuchiki are among the "regulars" who will be back.

There will be new faces too.

Kiki and Clive Hammond, an adagio pair who, before they joined Ice Capades did a night club act in Garmish, Germany, appearing on a 20-foot cube of ice.

The only non-skaters in the show are Tony and Helene Romano and their eight-year-old son Patrick. They carry out a family bicycle act on machines made by Romano, varying in size from the conventional to one small enough to fit in a woman's handbag.

Costumes promise to be even more spectacular than those of other years, particularly in a number called The American Girl, in which reams of red and white Para Nazarae feathers add a colorful touch.

Wednesday and Thursday's shows will begin at 7:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday's at 8 p.m., Matinees Saturday and Sunday will start at 2 p.m.

Tickets are available at the Memorial Arena, the Bay, Eaton's, Woodward's and Simpsons-Sears.

Power Shortage May Hit U.K.

LONDON (Reuter) — Britain is threatened with a cold, dark Christmas because of a nationwide work slowdown by power station workers who want higher wages.

Their union leaders Wednesday night rejected a $5 weekly pay rise offer and orders were being sent today to 125,000 manual workers to ban overtime and to work to rule from midnight Sunday night.

The effect could include dimmer house lights, cooler electric fires and stoves and smaller television pictures as voltage drops throughout the country.

The unions have demanded increases averaging about $15 weekly.

Donations Reach $23,411

Donations to the annual Christmas Seal campaign in Victoria have reached $23,411, compared to $24,144 collected by the same time last year.

Campaign chairman Eric Hall said Wednesday the lower figure was caused by the fact that all the seals were not mailed at the same time. The campaign officially opened in Victoria Nov. 3.

THEY MAY GET KISSING YET

Pakistan Movie Censorship Strict

LAHORE (AP) — Pakistani movies are tied to a censorship code so strict it would turn Swedish moviemakers furious, yellow and blue.

Pakistani producers gaze with envy on the nude boom elsewhere. They have been striking to bring the kiss to the screen.

They failed in their most recent 12-day industry shutdown. Government censors agreed to classify pictures for general and for adult viewing — but still no kissing. Even kisses which once passed in foreign, imported films are being sliced out.

"The effect is that the two persons appear to be hitting each other with their heads and then bounce off," says a newspaper critic. "A more startling impact of this policy has been that an audience that would yawn at kisses a few years ago, now goes into ecstacies of catcalls and lusty shouts, even at a hint."

The government of this sober predominantly Moslem land of 120 million says nothing in films will "conflict with our cultural heritage or social mores." Until further notice, that means sex.

ALLOW STRIP JOINTS

But Agha G. A. Gul, white-haired head of Pakistan's busiest film studio, Evernew, says: "This is the name of the game. Otherwise, why cast an Elizabeth Taylor in the movies? We are not doing culture. We are doing business."

Angrier than Gul, who piously kneels in a corner of his office to say daily prayers, is Said Haroon, head of Eastern Film Studios in Karachi.

"We have strip joints now in Karachi," he said. "But if a hip moves on screen, out it comes. It means a man rich enough to pay a cover charge sees a nude but a poor man can't for the price of a movie ticket."

The code also bars portrayal of the armed forces or police in derogatory uniforms.

Pakistan produces about 130 films annually, enough for two changes a week at its 500 theatres. Producers grumble that the lack of sex hinders sales in the overseas market.

Basque Group Denies Kidnap

BURGOS, Spain (Reuter) — Strikes paralysed dozens of small towns in the Basque country of northern Spain today as workers protested the military trial of 16 alleged Basque nationalist guerrillas.

The trial opened as police searched for Eugen Beihl, 59, West Germany honorary consul in San Sebastian, who was kidnapped Tuesday.

In Madrid, informed sources said a Basque nationalist group, the Euzkadi Ta Axkatasmua, today denied it had kidnapped Beihl. The ETA said in a letter that a smaller group expelled from the ETA three months ago was responsible, the sources said. Beihl was believed being held as a hostage pending the outcome of the trial.

Paramilitary police armed with machine-guns patrolled streets in most parts of the Basque country today in what one Madrid newspaper described as a manhunt "without precedent in Spain." The sources said many employees in the Basque country held silent vigils in their places of work to protest the Burgos trial.

The trial of the 16 alleged Basque nationalist guerrillas opened under strict security precautions in the northern garrison town of Burgos.

About 300 persons who could not squeeze inside the packed courthouse staged a brief protest but were dispersed by heavy detachments of police who flanked all sides of the building.

Beihl was abducted as he arrived at his home Tuesday night. Police received Wednesday a message purporting to come from the ETA saying they were holding him.

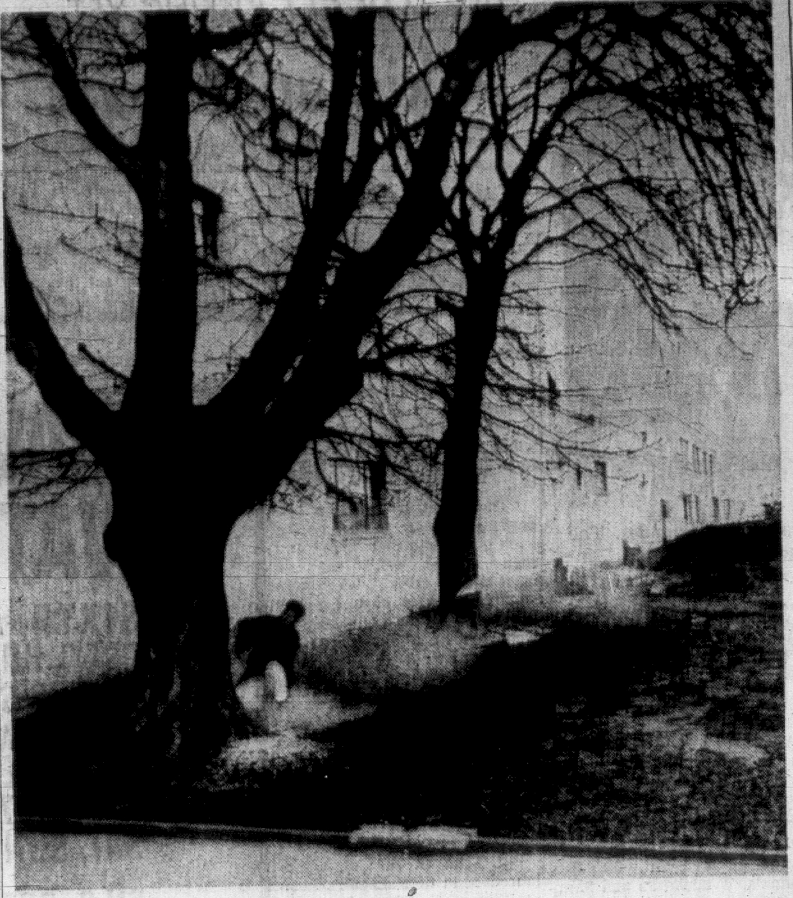
Six of the 16 on trial face possible death sentences over the killing of a police chief two years ago. Death sentences are rarely carried out in Spain.

Funeral Held For Missionary

TORONTO (CP) — Funeral services were held Wednesday for Dr. Susanna McCalla Grant, 98, who graduated as a physician about 1900 and spent 35 years as a Presbyterian medical missionary in Chinese villages.

She and her husband, William Harvey Grant, a minister, were in central China from 1902 to 1937 when they returned to Canada.

Her husband died in 1952. They are survived by four children.



LAST VESTIGE of the old North Ward School — the 65-year-old chestnut trees — were felled Wednesday. They were taken down because they would have been stuck between the old building and the new. Victoria Press Ltd. will build soon at Douglas and Kings Road. They would be unable to flourish from lack of sunlight.

Two Vietnamese Prisoners Tossed From Helicopters

By JOHN LENGEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. soldiers tossed two Vietnamese prisoners to their deaths from helicopters in an effort to scare other prisoners into disclosing information, a former army intelligence agent says.

Kenneth Barton Osborn, 25, formerly a private in the U.S. 525th Military Intelligence Group in Vietnam, says he also saw American soldiers drive a sharpened peg into a prisoner's ear and kill him.

Osborn, who served in Vietnam 15 months in 1967 and 1968, spoke at a "war crimes inquiry" sponsored by an anti-war group here Wednesday. He declined to give the names of soldiers involved in the alleged incidents, saying it was not the men who are guilty but the policy which forced them to commit the acts.

The Pentagon, while saying it does not dispute the credentials of Osborn or of the 50 other Vietnam veterans testifying during the three-day inquiry, has declined comment.

Osborn, who is working on his master's degree at American University, said he built and controlled a network of 40 to 50 Vietnamese agents.

He said the two men who were shoved out from an altitude of several hundred feet were sacrificed to extract information from two Vietnamese men his network had named as possessing information.

The interrogators had given up on gaining information from either of the victims, he said.

The technique worked, he said. The first target—the man from whom the interrogators were trying to get information—was "reduced to a whining animal" after watching the victim scream to his death.

Osborn said he did not try to stop the executions. "I was there to observe," he said.

'Advice on Inflation Ignored'

Premier Bennett wouldn't say he told us so, but he did recall Wednesday that the federal government had ignored his advice earlier this year about how to fight inflation.

"I won't say I told you so," Bennett said, when asked about reports that business leaders in Ottawa had refused to continue voluntary price restraints past the end of the year.

Bennett said he advised Ottawa to cut interest rates, eliminate the 12 per cent federal sales tax, ease the money supply and reduce tariffs.

"You can't have wages rising and the high cost of money without price increases too," Bennett said.

Bennett said there never was any real control of prices in effect because Ottawa used the wrong methods.

Opposition Leader Dave Barrett said earlier Wednesday that Ottawa had failed to provide a "blueprint" for wage and price control, adding that "you can't have wage control without price control and that includes control of profits."

Barrett said industry is well protected by governments, and referred to gasoline price increases and proposed telephone service increases by saying:

"How much money did Imperial Oil give to Social Credit in the last election campaign? How much money did B.C. Telephone give Social Credit . . .?"

'Make Allowance Planning Motive'

The federal government should consider using family allowance payments as an incentive for family planning, Opposition Leader Dave Barrett said Wednesday.

Speaking more as a social worker than a politician, Barrett told a press conference that Ottawa should face its responsibility to use social welfare programs in intelligent population control.

He suggested family allowances might be $20 for a first child, $12 for the second and $8 for the third, with no payments at all for the others.

In addition, families should be allowed to borrow on the first two children to enable them to acquire a lump sum for a down payment on a house, Barrett said.

This would put the funds directly into the economy and help overcome the housing shortage, he said.

Asked whether the proposed new federal family allowance system would in fact work against family planning by rewarding those with the most children and the least income, Barrett said:

"I would say it has a neutral effect, but some people may interpret it as having a reverse effect."

Barrett said such an incentive program would have to be phased in over eight or 10 years.

"I think the community through its government has a responsibility to say that we need to control population," Barrett said.

Diplomat Refuses U.N. Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House adviser Daniel Patrick Moynihan has abruptly ended reports he will become U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. He told President Nixon he will return to teach at Harvard University.

Until a week ago, Moynihan, chief architect of the administration's welfare reform program, had said he planned all along to spend only two years as one of Nixon's top domestic advisers.

But, when reports from former Harvard colleagues and administration officials circulated that Moynihan would succeed Charles Yost at the United Nations, they were not denied by the White House. The Washington Post said Moynihan was discussing difficulties involved in the eventual move as late as last Monday.

The newspaper said President Nixon offered and Moynihan accepted the UN job several months ago. But when reports of the impending appointment were published prematurely, Moynihan was disturbed.

One of the few Democrats in the administration, he was dismayed when the Senate finance committee recently voted down an effort to release the welfare bill, known as the family assistance plan, to the floor of the Senate.

Moynihan wrote the president Tuesday, telling him of his plans to leave the administration at the beginning of next year, White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Friday.

Doctor Group To Debate Future Of Abortionist

VANCOUVER (CP) — The right of convicted abortionist Dr. Robert Mackaroff to practice medicine in British Columbia will be reviewed next week by the provincial council of the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Dr. Mackaroff, 48, who admitted performing hundreds of abortions, was released from a forestry prison camp near Campbell River Nov. 25 with normal remission time off his three-month sentence, handed down Sept. 24. A $15,000 fine was paid while he was in custody.

Dr. W. G. McLure of the college said Wednesday Dr. Mackaroff has been told he will be required to appear before the council when it meets Dec. 10 and 11.

School Boards In Two Areas To Arbitration

VANCOUVER (CP)—Arbitration boards have been set up for the only two school districts to go into compulsory arbitration on 1971 teachers' salaries—Kitimat and Vancouver Island North.

Brian Williams, West Vancouver lawyer, will be chairman of a board to sit on Kitimat's dispute in the north-central community Dec. 10 and 11.

Chairman for Vancouver Island North hearings, to be held Dec. 14 and 15, will be Vancouver lawyer Gerry Sullivan.

One other district, Maple Ridge, has not yet completed the signing of its 1971 agreement, but the situation has not gone to official arbitration. Last year 58 of B.C.'s 80 school districts went to arbitration.

Test Flight Made

BRISTOL, England (AP) — The British version of Concorde, the British-French supersonic airliner, has made its longest test flight — two hours 44 minutes. Chief test pilot Brian Trubshaw of the British Aircraft Corp. was making subsonic flight tests over southern England.

LOFFMARK STUPID OR CRUEL—BARRETT

Opposition Leader Dave Barrett today charged Health Minister Ralph Loffmark with either stupidity or cruelty for allowing an edict which would keep wheelchair patients from getting out of bed at the Pearson Hospital for the chronically ill in Vancouver.

Barrett told a Victoria press conference that the cutback in service in provincial hospitals had caused the order which states that only patients able to dress themselves can be allowed out of bed.

Not only does this deny many patients their only "dignity and sense of well-being" but it prevents some from getting to the occupational therapy room for needed treatment.

Physio-therapy must be carried out at bedside, Barrett said, but occupational therapy requires the special room.

"The minister responsible for this is either cruel or stupid," Barrett said, describing the atmosphere at the hospital as one of "futility and despair."

"Could any citizen of B.C. allow this to happen to these patients?", Barrett asked, adding that the morale of the entire hospital has been damaged by the type of cost-cutting measures instituted by the provincial government.

Tonight's Top Television Shows

CABLEVISION 10 PROGRAMS. 5 p.m., Ladies First; 6 p.m., Project Travel — Jasper Holiday and Adventure at your Doorstep; 6:30 p.m., Film — Decision to Drill; 7 p.m., Victoria Outdoorsmen — Power Squadron Edition; 7:30 p.m., Cable Ten Forum.

FAMILY AFFAIR. 7 p.m., Channel 8; 7:30, Channel 7. Tonight belongs to Sebastian Cabot as French, who demonstrates the difficult art of keeping one's cool. He is preparing and presiding over an elegant dinner party. One disaster follows another, however, and to each French gives only casual notice as he solves them and goes on to the next. Outwardly, he is the proverbial cucumber, but inside, we see the hot peppers blazing away.

THE FLIP WILSON SHOW. 7:30 p.m., Channel 5. There's a good study in contrasts tonight between Flip and guest John Byner, a pair of totally committed professional performers. The difference is Flip's ability to take on an ingenuous attitude, while Byner rarely escapes the mould of "all work and no play," which doesn't make for a warm performer. Byner does well, however, with his impressions, which he does with "Laugh-In's" Johnny Brown. Connie Stevens is also on hand singing "Funky Chicken" and Stevie Wonder solo "Give Me Your Love" and "If You Love Me."

THE JIM NABORS HOUR. 8 p.m., Channel 7. Eddy Arnold ends a short TV hiatus to guest here tonight sining "Portrait of My Woman" and dueting "Tennessee Birdwalk" with Nabors. Arnold also does a comedy bit as a man in need of a shave who goes to a barbershop where a part-time butcher (Nabors) is filling in for a friend (Frank Sutton). A feature of the evening is "The Roaring Twenties" by the entire cast, including Nabors, Arnold, Sutton, Ronnie Schell, Karen Morrow, the chorus and dancers.

THE DEAN MARTIN SHOW. 8:30 p.m., Channel 8; 10, Ch. 5. If you find time to take your eyes off Jill St. John, especially when she solos "Feminity," you'll see Peter Graves again pushing his musical-variety ambitions, singing "I'd Rather Lead a Band" with the Goldiggers, and playing the clarinet in the process. There's also a funny skit with Paul Lynde and Kathleen Freeman as hippie parents who can't understand their square daughter and her boyfriend, Miss John and Dino.

IRONSIDE. 8:30 p.m., Channel 5. Mark Sanger's (Don Mitchell) ambitions to become a lawyer have always had Chief Ironside's fondest approval, until tonight. A brief he files, as a classroom assignment, finds its way into the hands of the district attorney, who orders the case reopened because of Sanger's work. Unfortunately for Ironside and company, it's the case of a convicted murderer, who never for a moment declared anything but his innocence based on a frameup created by Sgt. Ed Brown (Don Galloway).

THE THURSDAY NIGHT MOVIE. 9 p.m., Channel 7. "Peyton Place" (repeat) Part One) (1957). There we go agin, through another example of just exactly how much the TV networks consider the poor suffering viewers. This adaptation of the Grace Metalious novel, considered wildy racy when released in 1957, has as much life left as an exhausted sockeye salmon. Lana Turner, Arthur Kennedy, Hope Lange, Lloyd Nolan, David Nelson and even Lorne Greene head the sizeable cast, telling the myriad tales of sexual philandering in a small New England community. Part two will be seen tomorrow night.

THEATRE CANADA. 9 p.m., Channel 2. The Magic Hat. A No Strings Attached relationship in romance leads to heartbreak. This is an adaptation of a Morley Callaghan short story, and stars Gordon Pinsent, Louise Marleau and Michele Chicoine.

ENGELBERT HUMPERDINCK. 10 p.m., Channel 8. Jack Benny, actress-singer Shani Wallis, Bobby Van and British singer Clodagh Rodgers are the guests. Midnight Cowboy comes in for a bit of spoofing, and Engel sings Jean, A Fool Such As I and Am I That Easy to Forget?

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

A number of people have written, much concerned because they heard that birds, those that are kept as pets in homes, can sometimes carry ornithosis, a disease that can spread to people. The name loosely translated, simply means a disease caused by birds. Curiously, the birds themselves usually do not seem to be ill, but there is a virus in their droppings. Trouble comes when the droppings are left in the cage too long.

★ ★ ★

The virus of ornithosis usuall enters the body through the lungs, producing pneumonia. Fortunately, people generally recover from this infection by themselves.

For years now, great care has been taken in pet stores to avoid selling diseased birds by keeping the birds in quarantine for a while, especially if they have just been brought in from Central America or South America.

People occasionally write to ask me what experts think about treating rheumatoid arthritis, the serious form of arthritis in which there is much crippling and deformity of the joints, by injecting gold into the muscles. This is a treatment that has been used for many years; it was being used when I was a boy and over the years, arguments have been waged by doctors as to its usefulness. Even today, some experts use gold, but its action must be watched with care, because it can quickly do harm if the person is overly sensitive to it, or if the dose is too large. Interestingly, there are physicians who are enthusiastic about gold for arthritis, and others who strongly oppose it.

Unfortunately, it can produce unpleasant and undesirable side-effects, such as a skin rash, injury to the bone marrow and to the kidney or liver. Somewhere between 60 and 70 per cent of the patients treated with gold are likely to show improvement, and the benefits tend to be fairly long lasting.

The municipalities of Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and North Saanich will hold their advance polls from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Dec. 10 and 11 at the respective municipal halls.

Sidney's will take place at the town hall between 1 and 5 p.m. Dec. 9

Central Saanich's will be from 2 to 5 p.m. in the municipal hall.

'Not Time to Cut Education Spending'

A University of Victoria economist who has done considerable research in education warned Wednesday this is not the time to cut back education spending.

Dr. Gordon Bertram said Canadians are subject to many myths, one of them being that of the great educated Canadian or first-class schooled Canadian.

"And the myth is heartily spread by our well-educated population when we go abroad . . . But it isn't true," he said.

Bertram referred to census-based statistics, some of them he assembled for the Economic Council of Canada, to illustrate how the Canadian median of education for males in the labor force had fallen steadily behind the American level.

He showed that by 1961-62 only 5.6 per cent of Canadians as opposed to 11.1 per cent of Americans had completed university.

A more revealing figure, he pointed out, was that only 6 per cent of Canadians in the 25 to 34 age group had graduated compared to 14.7 per cent in the American age level.

Bertram traced the range of the disparity through 10-year periods from 1911 to 1961.

The Canadian level of 7.35 years of schooling was close to the American figure of 7.41 years when Canadian statistics were first collected and during the 1930s the U.S. maintained the lead although it was slight.

Following 1941, with the influence of the GI Bill of Rights providing for education benefits, Bertram said, the difference jumped considerably.

By 1961, almost two full years of schooling separated the Canadian and American averages.

LIBRARY TO GET HEAD ON DEC. 18

The board of the Greater Victoria Public Library will announce the name of the new director of library services on Dec. 18.

Board chairman, Esquimalt Ald. Arthur Cuthbert said Wednesday six candidates had been selected from the 32 applicants and interviewing of these will begin Dec. 14.

Of the six, three are Americans, one of them still working in the United States.

Peterson Out Of Hospital

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson is being released from hospital today following a three-week stay there for tests and surgery to remove scar tissue blocking an intestinal tract.

His office said he will recuperate at home and it isn't known when he will return to work. Peterson was admitted to hospital following the Social Credit convention three weeks ago.

Silence Maintained On Held Ship

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone (Reuter) — Crew members refused to allow reporters to talk to about 750 British, Australian and New Zealand passengers aboard a Soviet liner detained here by a $12 million lawsuit.

The 19,861-ton Shota Rustavezi, bound from Southampton, England, to Sydney, Australia, on charter to an Australian travel company, was boarded by a U.S. marshal with a writ of attachment Wednesday as the liner entered Cristobal harbor at the Atlantic entrance to the Panama canal.

The writ was issued on behalf of the owners of the 97,450-ton Liberian tanker Aquarius which was in collision with another vessel operated by Black Sea Shipping, owners of the Shota Rustavezi, in the Indian Ocean Sept. 10.

TWO APPOINTED TO JUAN DE FUCA

Education Minister Donald Brothers today announced two appointments to the council of the newly-formed Juan de Fuca College and two to the senate of University of Victoria.

G. B. McGillivray, 2785 Sea View, a businessman, and Mrs. A. B. Thompson, former chairman of the Greater Victoria school board and past president of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Association, will serve one-year terms on the Juan de Fuca College council.

Appointed to the Uvic senate for three years were Mrs. G. H. Wheaton, 2747 Satellite, and Dr. F. A. Hamdi, 1900 Rockland, a surgeon.

HOME GARDEN

Time to Think About Seed Sowing

By HILDA BEASTALL

The idea of getting ready now to sow seeds indoors may appear wild at the moment, but thinking about it has several merits. As soon as the day length begins to stretch even a little bit in January, home gardeners get the urge to start seeds in greenhouse or sunroom.

Hilda

First is the need for unbroken light preferably from overhead as in a greenhouse, but at least the strong light which comes from three sides of a jutting-out sunroom. I have used both successfully in raising seedlings, with the frank admission that for any quantity more than two or three flats, the greenhouse setup is the more convenient.

Soil preparation now means that it will be ready for use just when you have the sowing urge and the time in January or February. Then the outdoor soil is usually completely saturated, unmanageable and not easily raised to the temperature needed for germinating seeds.

Or, who knows? It might even be frozen or under snow.

If we dig into the oldest part of our compost heaps now, we find lovely crumbly dark soil. This is what we shall need as a base for indoor seed sowing and subsequent pricking out of seedlings.

The soil from the higher parts of the heap will be relatively free of loose moisture. Rub it through a half inch wire screen as you put it into wheelbarrow or large pails. The bits and pieces rejected by the screen go back into the heap, but the screened material should not be entirely without small stones or pieces of old plants.

Spreading the screened compost thinly on an inside concrete floor will remove some of the moisture. Don't aim at drying it completely; it must be damp for friendly bacteria to continue working.

When you find the soil has reached the state of being just damp enough to hold its shape as a soft ball, heap it into the shallow boxes (such as three-inch deep flats) you use for pricking out.

Keep the boxes in greenhouse or on the floor of the sunroom until used. You will probably find weed seeds, or even some vegetable or fruit seeds, germinating.

These you will pull out as soon as they appear, for you don't want to exhaust the soil. By sprinkling with tepid water occasionally you will finally have plenty of soil ready when needed, and it will be practically free of unwanted seeds by middle of January.

He Even Brought His Own Radar

Conrad Boffo, 31, spent 30 minutes questioning Constable Douglas Freure, who charged the motorist Aug. 19 with driving 45 miles an hour in a 30-mile-an-hour zone.

Boffo had rented the police-style radar device and had spent weeks studying the use and effectiveness of radar.

He told the court there was a steep drop in the road on which the speeding offence was alleged to have occurred, and such a dip makes an accurate radar reading impossible.

Justice of the Peace W. F. Patterson asked Constable Freure if he considered himself a "proficient operator" of his radar equipment.

The officer said he did. The justice said "that all that's needed," and registered a conviction.

Boffo was fined $15 or two days. He left the courtroom carrying his radar device, which had cost him $150 in rental fees.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED L. KARPIN

The deal presented today arose in the Vanderbilt Cup Championships of 1964. In it, there occurred a "thinking" exchange between the East defender and the South declarer. When play had ended, South had gained a victory because he outthought—or perhaps outsmarted—East.

Both sides vulnerable. East deals.

♡ K J 3
♣ K

SOUTH
♠ K 9 4
♡ 8 7 6
◇ K
♣ A Q J 7 6 4

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

On casual observation, it might appear that the play was routine. The spade eight was played from dummy on the opening lead of the 10. East signalled encouragement with the seven-spot, and South won the trick with his king.

The king of diamonds was then led and overtaken by the board's ace. Now followed the 10 of clubs. East covered the king—and South had nine tricks; one spade, two diamonds, and six clubs.

When West led the spade 10, South perceived that he could make two sapde tricks by putting up dummy's queen of spades. East would take this with his ace, and South would not possess the K-9 behind East's J-x (East was known to have the jack, since West's opening lead of the 10 had denied possession of that card).

But declarer felt that if he put up the Queen. East would then surmise that South could make two spade tricks; and that when East took the queen with the ace, he would surely stop playing spades, and shift to the heart suit.

And so, hoping to prevent the heart shift, South played dummy's eight of spades on the opening lead. East, recognizing that he could prevent declarer from winning two spade tricks, played low, allowing declarer's king to capture the trick.

From East's point of view, if declarer were willing to "throw away" a spade trick, shouldn't East have been delighted to help him? I think not. East knew that South was a good player, and that he wouldn't be tossing away a trick unless there were a good reason for so doing—namely the fear of a heart shift if the spade queen were played, to be captured by East's ace.

It is apparent, of course, that East-West had it in their power to take four heart tricks and a spade.

Flood Danger Grips London

By JOHN LeBLANC

LONDON (CP) — On a catastrophic day in 1953, a spring tide and a wind-driven surge of the North Sea came together to create a flood that swept upon the British southeast coast and into the Thames estuary to kill 119 people.

The other day a flash rainstorm over London dumped 1.7 inches of rain on its central area in 30 minutes and inundated some subways, roads, railway stations, theatres and restaurants.

If the three conditions ever happened to coincide, the results would be cataclysmic.

Officials of Greater London already were worried about the water threat to the metropolis—some of it lying below high-water level and guarded by walls—and the chaos created by the short storm has touched off the alarm again.

Slow-moving geology stimulates the anxiety. The southeast of England is sinking into the sea one inch every 10 years. London now is almost two inches lower than in disastrous 1953.

DEFENCES SHAKY

Huge areas along the lower reaches of the Thames, with about a million inhabitants, are anywhere from six to 15 feet below the top of flood defences. And these walls are regarded as by no means invulnerable.

Apart from the off-chance of natural forces getting into dangerous conjunction, man has been making contributions to the potentialities for big trouble.

After the 1953 disaster, dikes in the lower stretches of the Thames were raised. In the event of a heavy flood from the sea, this would channel a tidal wave of water into the densely populated upstream areas.

Secondly, extensive dredging in the estuary to provide draught for super-tankers could produce a funnel effect to help a surge from the sea to rush into the shallower areas up-river.

For many years, Britons were inclined to take the North Sea's occasional tantrums for granted. But the 1953 troubles and some later phenomena have made officials stop and think. One of these, a year ago, was an unexpected tide 3½ feet higher than normal farther down the coast in Cornwall.

MULL OVER SURGES

For some time now the National Institute of Oceanography and the Liverpool Institute of Coastal Oceanography and Tides have been doing intensive research on how to make accurate forecasts on storm surges travelling along the British coasts.

The big ones are caused by a miscellany of elements getting together. Spring tide—nothing to do with the season but an extra high one depending on phases of the moon—combines with a lowering of air pressure and high easterly winds that pile up water at the mouth of the Thames.

After successive governments had mulled over the 1953 surge for years, the Labor administration—now succeeded by the Conservatives— finally commissioned in 1968 a £150,000 study to see what could be done to guard London against the unleashed strength of nature.

A commission of experts reported to the government and the Greater London Council last January that the answer for the safety of the capital is a barrier—or "barrage," as it is called—straddling the lower Thames.

The estimated cost is £50 million ($125 million). The proposal is that it would have three guillotine-type lift gates ranging in width up to 600 feet which ordinarily would remain raised to let shipping pass through and allow the river current and the tide to flow back and forth. The gates would be dropped when danger threatened.

COULD TAKE YEARS

The barrier would take at least six years to build. The original proposal is for a site about eight miles down-river from the Houses of Parliament, and the government has asked the GLC to recommend a precise spot there. But municipalities below this are complaining loudly that it would only aggravate their problem by diverting flood surges upon them.

They are pressing to have the installation moved a further 10 miles toward the sea, which would still be 32 miles from the mouth of the winding river.

Experts consider there is considerable urgency about the problem, even though the odds are long against the wind-tide-rain conjunction for disaster.

Dr. Anthony Michaelis, science correspondent for The Daily Telegraph, writes that tens of thousands of Londoners could die if the three came together. Should the vast subway system be flooded, he says, the death toll could reach 100,000.

Central London telephone exchanges would be out of order for months; property damage would run to millions of pounds, and it would take more than two years to repair all ravages.

DRIVE

says Mrs. K. Tippett of St. Vital, Manitoba.

We gave Mrs. Tippett an advanced pack of new lower phosphate DRIVE, reformulated with substitute materials. Here's what she had to say about it:

"I liked the idea of a really good detergent and a stain remover working together. So I used DRIVE. Now that I have tried the new lower phosphate formula, I shall go on using it. It doesn't seem to have changed DRIVE's ability to give me a clean stain-free wash, and that's all I want."

This is just the beginning. Lever research will continue to try to find ways to use substitute materials to lower phosphate levels while maintaining DRIVE's high quality performance.

Kidnappers Bound For Cuba Sanctuary

Times News Services

MONTREAL—James Cross is free.

The dramatic end to his 60-day ordeal came at noon (PST) when the British trade official walked from a convoy at the site of Expo 67, St. Helen's Island.

Cross was immediately rushed to a Montreal hospital.

Police at the scene told reporters the vehicle was booby trapped to explode if authorities attempted to interfere, and grab the kidnappers before they reached a prearranged sanctuary on St. Helen's Island.

Ricardo Escartin, acting Cuban consul-general in Montreal, was at the island site to meet the convoy and sped southward from the resid encein Montreal North where Cross was being held.

This appeared to be in line with a government offer of safe passage to Cuba for the kidnappers in exchange for Cross.

After the convoy arrived at the Expo site, a police radio report said Cross had entered the Canadian pavilion.

Carbonneau, 37, a swarthy cab driver, has been sought since Oct. 18 on a warrant charging him with the Oct. 5 kidnapping of Cross and the Oct. 10 abduction of Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister who was strangled a week later.

Lanctot, 25, is wanted in connection with an alleged plot to kidnap the Israeli trade commissioner in Montreal last March.

The 10-car police convoy brought Cross to the Expo site from a three-storey residence in Montreal North where he was being held.

He rode in a 1962 Chrysler in the centre of the convoy. Occupants of the car held newspapers over the windows to avoid being seen.

The convoy moved out minutes after the arrival at the house of Jerome Choquette, Quebec justice minister. He flew to Montreal from Quebec when informed that police and soldiers had surrounded the place where Cross was held.

The convoy moved south on Pie IX Boulevard, a six-lane divided artery previously sealed off by armed troops using portable metal barricades.

Pedestrians were shooed off the street and held back by the barricades. Escartin was accompanied by a representative of the British trade commission in the wait for the kidnappers.

"The same plan is in effec," said Escartin, who explained he is acting in the absence of Alfredo Ramirez, Cuban consul now on regular holiday in his homeland.

★ ★ ★

Troops with fixed bayonets and police acted swiftly in Operation Cordon this morning, circling the four-block area six miles due north of downtown Montreal.

They isolated the suspect duplex—evacuating occupants of neighboring structures, including two schools. But they made no move to enter the modest-looking house immediately.

TAXES UP, DOWN OR UNCHANGED?

Federal Budget Tonight

OTTAWA (CP) — The country finds out in dollars and cents tonight just how much Ottawa plans to take out of Canadian pay cheques and profits in coming months.

Betting in advance of the federal budget—to be presented by Finance Minister E. J. Benson at about 5 p.m. PST—has favored announcement of measures to stimulate business activity and generate more jobs.

That could entail increased spending by the government, tax reductions, a combination of both or simply a shuffling of tax burdens and spending priorities.

Also imminent are changes in federal revenue demands, tax rates and tax exemptions to back up wholesale reorganization of social welfare programs scheduled for the new year.

In addition, some "temporary" tax measures are due to expire or run down. The government could decide to announce revival or an end to the 1968 surcharge on basic income taxes, due to end Dec. 31, and a 1969 measure to discourage construction of commercial buildings in richer communities, which peters out in 1971.

ASSUMING PERMIT WILL BE GRANTED

Utah Goes Ahead With Mine Plans

PORT HARDY — Utah Construction and Mining Co. is building its $74-million copper mining complex on the assumption it will be allowed to dump mine waste into Rupert Inlet near here, a provincial government inquiry was told Wednesday.

This statement was made Wednesday by a company spokesman during a 12-hour hearing into the permit application held by provincial pollution control director William N. Venables.

Robert Wheaton, administrative manager of the project, was answering a question asked by Elaine Price of Duncan, who had suggested that the company was proceeding with its project without knowing that it might be refused a permit and have to shut down its construction operation.

He told Mrs. Price that the company has applied for a permit to discharge its mine-mill waste into Rupert Inlet, and that if the application is turned down the company would make another application based on alternative methods of disposal of the waste.

Mrs. Price's question apparently arose from comments made Tuesday during a tour of the project by Venables to the effect that the hearing was being held chiefly to determine the method of waste disposal, rather then to deny proceeding with the project.

Venables later said he had intended only to emphasize that his responsibility does not relate to the question of the actual construction of the plant, but deals only with control over discharges from the plant into Rupert Inlet.

After he adjourned the marathon hearing, Venables was asked if he could indicate whether Utah conceivably be denied a permit and thus be forced to shut down this operation.

FERRY COLLISION

Pilot Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP)—A federal inquiry commission today ordered suspension of the licence of Capt. D. G. Crabbe of Victoria, the pilot aboard a Russian freighter that collided with a British Columbia government ferry Aug. 2, killing three ferry passengers.

County court Judge E. J. C. Stewart, head of the commission, said the panel could not make recommendations about the competence certificates of Capt. R. J. Pollock, master of the ferry Queen of Victoria, or his chief officer, Zale Kirron.

He said Capt. Nikolai Khaustov, master of the freighter Sergey Yesenin, was outside the jurisdiction of the commission, but was guilty of no wrong act.

Judge Stewart's report said the collision was the result of falure of those in charge of both vessels to keep sufficently to starboard in narrow Active Pass, and the "absence of standards of alertness" as they approached Helen Point at the western end of the pass.

"Capt. Pollock and Capt. Crabbe caused serious danger to the Queen of Victoria and loss of life, but we can deal only with the licence of Capt. Crabbe," the report said.

Okanagan Fruit Farmers Face Serious Problems

PENTICTON (CP) — Even if Canadians faithfully lived up to the saying, "an apple a day keeps the doctor away," the British Columbia fruit industry would still be in trouble.

In Greenwood, general manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., the coperative marketing agency for the interior's 3,200 member-growers, describes the present situation as "terribly gloomy."

Allan Claridge, president of the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association, blames the federal government for a lack of an agricultural policy for provincial fruit farmers.

And George Whittaker, president of B.C. Tree Fruits and its fruit processing subsidiary, Sun-Rype Products Ltd., cites world competition, world overproduction and failure of the Canadian government to protect the grower.

All of which leaves the grower in the rich Okanagan Valley holding apples and soft fruit by the bushel.

GRANT SOUGHT

The industry now has an application before the price stabilization board for a $3 million grant to compensate the apple growers for heavy losses incurred following disastrous heavy frosts two winters ago which nearly wiped out the 1969 soft fruit crop.

Valley growers had domestic and overseas sales of only $9,985,565 in 1969, compared with $21,762,205 the previous year. Only the hardier apple stood up, with sales totalling $7,809,858.

The losses, coupled with plummeting world prices, stiff competition in this country and spiralling living, machinery and labor costs, has left many Okanagan growers on the ropes.

"But obviously a $40-million-a-year industry is not going to disappear," said Greenwood.

"We can grow quality, we have a first-class organization.

"There are real problems, and I don't know how we're going to overcome them, particularly with a government that doesn't take a firm stance."

DUMBFOUNDED

He said he was dumbfounded recently to learn that Canada was the third-largest exporter of apple concentrate, particularly as there are 125,000 gallons of concentrated apple juice lying in B.C. Tree Fruits' warehouses that can't be sold because of cut-throat pricing by overseas producers.

"We found that vast amounts — we don't really know just how much yet — were being shipped in from low-cost European areas to Halifax, relabelled there with a Canadian label and shipped on to New York and Philadelphia as a Canadian product," said Greenwood.

"Our investigators, at the same time, could not find one can of Canadian apple juice concentrare, actually produced in Canada, going for export to the U.S.

"They're still relabelling and re-shipping this stuff. It is cheap, subsidized; we can't compete with it."

How does all this affect the Okanagan grower?

Whittaker said there are many growers — mostly in the 10-acre and under category — earning only $1500 a year and surviving because the land contributes to their table and their wants and pleasures are geared to their income.

FALLACY

And he is dead set against any federal government action, already hinted at by the agricultural task force, that would make little farms and orchards into big ones for the sake of efficiency.

"This concept is a fallacy," said Claridge. "I can prove this wrong with figures and experience.

"Food production has outstripped any of the major lines of industry in the last 10 or 15 years. The farmer is feeding more people more efficiently than ever before. And cheaper, too."

Whittaker summed up the situation this way:

"Ten years ago, 23 per cent of the average family's income went on food. Today it is 12 per cent.

"This is our problem. If the people were paying 23 per cent of their income to buy food, we wouldn't have any problems."

Debenture Series Offered at 9%

Two new investment issues described by brokers this week are a debenture series at 9 per cent from Beneficial Finance Co. of Canada, and a mixed issue of treasury and secondary stock from Kaps Transport Ltd.

The bonds, dated Jan. 2, 1971 to mature in 1991, are at par and their coupon rate is indicative of the drop in bond yields in a stronger market.

They are worth $25 million, are rated as senior debt instruments, redeemable Jan. 2, 1976 and are non-callable by the company before 1981. Woody Gundy is heading the investment group offering the series.

The Working Poor

What Does a Man Have to Do Merely to Get By? Quit His Job, Get Few Dollars More From Welfare

By PETER
McNELLY

In a society which measures a person's worth by how well he is able to provide for himself, the working poor feel acutely strained.

Faced to make ends meet on budgets which cannot be stretched, they are particularly vulnerable to the demands of unexpected costs: dental bills, car repairs, rent increases, major appliance breakdowns.

•

Changes proposed in the federal government's white paper on income security brighten their future as far as pensions and unemployment insurance go. But immediate benefits are small compared to immediate needs.

In some cases, persons on low incomes turn to local welfare offices for help. But if they are earning more than what they would receive on welfare, they are ineligible for extra cash.

Area welfare officials say that even persons earning less than what they would receive on welfare are by no means guaranteed an income supplement.

One woman, a deserted wife with two children who works in Victoria as a clerk-typist, budgets on a net income of $293 a month which includes $14 in family allowances.

Her fixed expenses:

Rent, $120; Hydro, $10; fuel, $12; phone, $5.67; car repairs, $10; bank loan for dental and debts incurred when married, $23; department store account, $10; garbage, $1.50.

•

This leaves $101 for food, gasoline, clothing and recreation. White paper proposals would increase her monthly income by $18. That's an extra $216 a year coming from increased family allowance benefits.

Until last week, this woman's rent was $60. But she had to move after the premises she rented was sold. Knowing that she would have to wait at least 1½ years to move into Blanshard Court, she went for help to the Victoria welfare department's Cook Street office.

She asked for a $75 monthly income supplement until a vacancy occurred at Blanshard Court. This, she was told, is against regulations, since her income exceeds the maximum welfare allowance for a family of three, $236.

The social worker advised her to cut costs by getting rid of her car and telephone and by not buying any new clothes.

A check at the family division of provincial court showed that the most she could hope to get from her husband for child maintenance would be between $10 and $20 monthly.

Harried Woman Advised to Drop Car, Phone and New Clothes

A probation officer there advised her not to press charges of desertion, since the strain would not be worth the financial return. The woman is convinced her husband would leave town if ordered to pay maintenance. She is filing for a divorce.

Acting on advice of another social worker, she wrote Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi, seeking his personal intervention.

Gaglardi replied that her income was too high for a supplement, and he also advised her to get rid of her car. He promised to have a department official help her look for another place to rent.

But the help never came. The woman cannot get rid of her car because she now lives past the bus line, outside the city.

She has no intention of quitting her job to go on welfare. But others in similar situations have quit their jobs.

A man with seven children quit his job last month and went on welfare. He was employed as a janitor grossing $403 a month. Basic welfare for a family of nine is $401.

The man visited the office of the Low Income Group and asked how he might get some help to make ends meet. His net income was less than the basic welfare rate for his family size.

But he, too, was ineligible for a supplement. New family allowance rates would give him another $112 a month.

Group president Walter Olszewski advised him to keep working. But the man went on welfare. Now, in addition to having a higher net income, he is eligible for free dental and medical care for his family as well as school and clothing allowances.

"If the government would have helped this man with a supplement, they would not have been paying the whole shot as they are now," Olszewski said.

And he said another aspect of going on welfare is the risk of getting caught in a "welfare cycle" which continues for generations.

•

The rehabilitation department's position on supplements is that they are, in effect, a subsidy for private enterprise.

Community Action Group advocate Susan Talbot says working women on low incomes are common. She feels they should be allowed at least enough money for baby-sitting, medical and dental care.

Furthermore, these groups receive the lowest wages, usually at or near the federal minimum of $1.65 an hour or the provincial minimum of $1.50.

Average gross wage for these jobs, he says, is about $60 a week. That's $3,120 a year.

Many clerical and sales workers cannot get full-time jobs. A recent Victoria city study of its labor force showed slightly more than 17 per cent work part-time.

Experts on poverty say a person needs at least $1,000 a year just to get by.

In April 1969, the Economic Council of Canada told the Senate Committee on Poverty that a family of four is living in poverty if its gross income is less than $4,200 a year.

'They Get Into The State Where Welfare Is Big Mother'

B.C. welfare rates for a family of four, calculated at maximum benefits, are $700 less than the Economic Council's $4,200. And B.C. rates are among the highest in Canada.

What these figures indicate is that both welfare recipients and low income workers live in poverty.

Though the province cannot supplement incomes which exceed welfare rates, welfare recipients can earn up to $100 a month without having their cheques cut proportionately.

This is allowed for persons who can show that the work may lead to eventual full-time employment.

Provincial government policy tries to help people get off welfare but does nothing to keep poor workers from quitting their jobs. Income supplements are indeed a subsidy to industry, and a logical answer to them is higher wages.

Yet governments subsidize industry in other ways, through tax concessions and depreciation allowances, for example.

Planned increases in unemployment insurance and pensions will be substantial for many people. For example, pensions to disabled heads of families will increase more than $150 a month.

Pensions for couples with no other income will rise $28 more per month than increases under the current scheme. Pensions for single persons without other means will rise $22.

How these increases will affect B.C.'s pension supplement policy, parallel to but separate from the federal scheme, is unclear. Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi said this week he would have to study the federal white paper before commenting.

But he did slam the federal proposal to eliminate family allowances in cases where earnings exceed $10,000 a year.

"What it really means is an increase in taxes to a lot of people," Gaglardi said. He added that the changes will place new tax loads on "already overburdened" middle-income families.

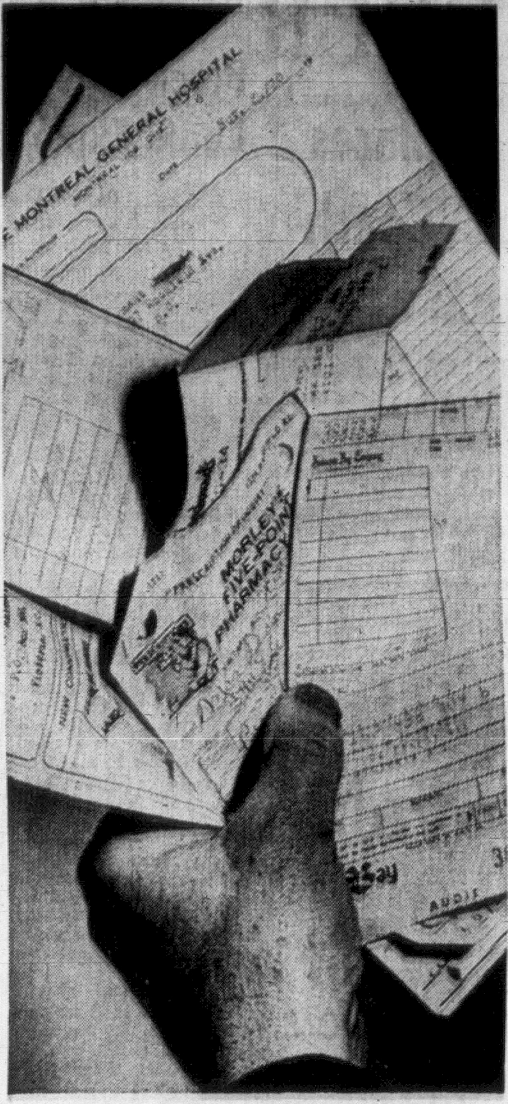
•

Prime Minister Trudeau said Sunday his government will stand or fall on public reaction to reforms in the welfare white paper.

He said the government belives the country is mature enough to accept reforms aimed at taxing the rich to help the poor.

Public response to the white paper may determine how far Ottawa will go in the future toward creating wider-ranging — and costlier — programs such as guaranteed annual incomes.

Meanwhile, the poor may receive some help, but they will still remain poor.



What Kills Is Unexpected Bills

Haddock Defies Mess Critics

Mayor Courtney Haddock today fired back at critics of his campaign to raise money from local businessmen to refurbish the Victoria polices' officers' mess.

Haddock said one of the police commissioners has pulled a "complete about-face" by voting for the refurbishing and then criticizing Haddock's method of raising the money.

The mayor also said he suspects some businessmen might be "offended" because they were not asked to contribute.

Police commissioner Gordon Carter said Wednesday he would vote against the measure if it came up again, and feared the fund solicitation might set a bad precedent.

Asked today at a press conference if he would go ahead with the scheme, Haddock replied: "No question about it—why not?"

"What businessmen are they talking about? The ones who were invited or the ones who were not?" he said, in an apparent reference to complaints by businessmen that they had been asked to contribute.

'SOMEWHERE'

Haddock said "We must give moral support to police forces—right across Canada. There's an element in our country that shows a significant lack of respect. A start has to be made somewhere."

Asked to comment on Carter's opposition to the plan, Haddock said "I'm very disappointed about that because he voted for it—he never communicated with me.

"It's a complete about-face."

Haddock said Woodwards, the store doing the refurbishing, contributed $500 and he showed reporters the cheque.

He said Woodwards paid the money because "I asked for it. Woodwards is one of the best businesses in the world" and he added he worked at that company's stores for many years.

'A FRINGE'

Asked if any other department stores were asked to contribute, he said "Yes, they were invited, too . . . we don't want to slight anyone, or discriminate.

"As far as I know, they were asked."

"Not at all — because it was such a small amount."

He said the $4,100 carpetting provided by Woodwards would be installed by Dec. 15. It will be "an inexpensive but good carpet, instead of a bare tile floor."

He added "my hundred dollars is there."

He said he "can't understand" why there should be any opposition to the move. "It's such a chintzy little thing."

Man Makes Splash On First Night

The 50-year-old commissionaire walked along D jetty where HMCS Cowichan is tied up at 12:30 a.m. this morning. Five minutes later he was struggling for survival in the icy water.

His cries for help were heard by Cpl. Michael Kattler aboard the Cowichan, who immediately went into action.

"I threw him a Kisbie ring, sounded the alarm and phoned the Belmont fire department."

Kattler and his crew lowered a berthing hawser through the eye of which Whitmore put his arms. They tried to haul him up but he was too heavy.

Today he was in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Kattler said the wind was blowing at 50 miles an hour at the time of the incident, drowning out Whitmore's voice. He said the commissionaire stumbled in a large hole on the jetty, used for buoy storage by the federal department of transport.

His rescuer said he was almost as shaken as Whitmore.

CRASHING START FOR WEEK

Council general manager John Reeves said there were 19 traffic accidents Tuesday in Victoria and surrounding areas with five injuries and 18 accidents Wednesday with nine injuries.

All areas but Sooke have had accidents.

The injury accidents have occurred in Saanich, Sidney, Oak Bay, Central Saanich, Colwood and the city.

Safe Driving Week continues through until Dec. 7.

IN JUST FOUR YEARS, SAYS CURTIS

Saanich Welfare Bill Up 400 Per Cent

The cost of welfare in Saanich has jumped from $178,293 in 1966 to $894,000 this year, Mayor Hugh Curtis said today.

The increase of more than 400 per cent compared with an increase of "only 112 per cent" in provincial per capita grants in the same period, from $828,000 to $1,765,000, he added.

"One of the principal reasons, of course, for the substantial increase in social assistance costs to municipalities is the sudden doubling by the province (to 20 per cent) of the municipal share in 1968," said Curtis.

He made the comments in letters to the five members of the legislature for Greater Victoria, because part of Saanich is in each of the constituencies.

"It was the feeling of the executive of the Union of B.C. Municipalities that the very severe incidence of social assistance costs on municipal budgets should be drawn to the attention of all members of the legislature," Curtis wrote.

He pointed out that municipalities are required by provincial law to adopt budgets by May 15.

Saanich, in setting its welfare budget, took the per capita total cost from 1969 of $624,000 and brought this up to $710,000 in the expectation of increases this year.

LEVY INCREASED

Subsequently, the province increased the per capita levy from the old 96 cents to $1.15 and then to $1.58.

"Assuming that the $1.58 rate will remain until Dec. 31, we are required to find $184,000 more than the $710,000 budgeted," he said.

In 1966, welfare costs represented 21.6 per cent of the per capita grant which the provincial government gives municipalities but this will be over 50 per cent of the grant this year.

"When you consider that over 90 per cent of the tax base in Saanich municipality is represented by residential assessment you will realize that this extraordinary increase in social assistance costs becomes a direct burden on the homeowner," he wrote.

"It may be argued that a considerable amount of the increase in social assistance costs is due to transients but this certainly does not apply to all municipalities in the province yet they have to bear their share of this burden."

Pickets Call Firemen To Sandringham

At 7:10 a.m. they called the Victoria fire department. Department inspectors came to the hospital at 1650 Fort. They found too much oil getting into the furnace's combustion chamber.

A fire department spokesman said they called in a mechanic who adjusted the oil flow, returning it to a safe level. He said it is against the law to operate a furnace in a dangerous condition.

Protection Due for Sheep

Agriculture Minister Shelford indicated today a sheep protection area will be established in the View Royal-Otter Point district as requested by farmers and ratepayers.

Shelford said the move, which involves licensing of dogs with provision for impoundment or shooting of dogs running loose and attacking sheep, would require a provincial cabinet order.

There are a number of sheep protection areas in the province, and Shelford added that similar regulations may have to be made to protect children from dogs in the Atlin area of northern B.C.

G. H. Mitchell, Metchosin area farmer, who called for the special measures, said about 12 per cent of flocks have been lost to dogs in the area every year.

Arthur Mayse . . .

THERE ARE A COUPLE of factors that our Robin Hood federal government seems to be overlooking when it proposes to snatch the baby bonus away from the family whose income exceeds $10,000 a year.

One of these is that since its inception, the per-child family allowance has been sensibly paid to the wife. And with equal sense, most wives who are mothers have through the years regarded this government assist to the child-rearer in a very special way.

They don't look on it as income. It is something for the kids, whether spent on their behalf each month, or salted away to help them through the years when education becomes expensive.

I think that any number of mothers in families whose gross income is over the cut-off figure are going to entertain less-than-friendly feelings toward a federal authority that ends a now-traditional rebate on stiff income taxes.

It's possible too that certain husbands who have kept the amount of their earnings from their wives won't be happy with a measure that forces them out of the fiscal underbrush.

Husband, uncomfortably: "Well, dear, I've been meaning to tell you . . .")

All in all, I suspect that the Trudeau government would do well to consider an embarrassing political fact before shoving this measure down the Canadian craw.

Giving to those who haven't isn't necessarily going to win votes. But taking excessively from those who have is an excellent way to lose 'em!

The other evening I was looking hungrily at some nice fat pork chops in a market bin when a large stranger approached. He delivered a plaint that was music to these ears.

"It's a long time since you've written anything about fishing," he said. "How about making a reel scream?"

I'll be delighted to oblige when my temporarily idle reels have something to scream about. Until then, the best I can manage is a report on a gift that came my way this week.

They are tied in patterns with honored names: Jock Scott, Durham Ranger, Thunder-and-Lightning, and other such.

Wonderful creations they are, their varied plumage set in place with a skill that few amateur fly-tiers could hope to emulate.

From the head of each projects the loop of silkworm gut to which leaders were secured before the salmon hook with metal eye came into vogue. Some of those loops are brittle with age.

But not all of them, and in due time I mean to try my luck for B.C. steelhead, coho or big cutthroat trout with a Jock Scott presented long ago for approval to the lordly salmon of Tweed or Tay.

Back once more to food, a subject much on my mind these days of reduced intake. In case you haven't noticed, the number of specialty restaurants in Victoria is growing.

Now that Ernie Mykyte and Jerome Olymyk have opened their Fort Street Cossack, the diner-out can add Russian dishes to the list.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons that negotiations with the adbuctors began this morning.

Trudeau said the abductors sent a communique proposing negotiations Wednesday night, after an intensive police operation began in Montreal.

The prime minister told the Commons that lawyer Robert Demers was acting for the government.

The break in the case came just 60 days after the British trade commissioner was kidnapped at gunpoint Oct. 5 from his home on fashionable Redpath Crescent.

The weather was sunny with temperatures in the 40s, unusually warm for December. Streets were dry and police movements were made easier by the absence of snow.

Warrants are out for four men in connection with the kidnapping of Cross and the subsequent kidnap-killing of Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister slain Oct. 17 after a week in captivity.

Charged with both kidnappings are Paul Rose, 27, a former teacher, and taxi driver Marc Carbonneau, 37.

Charged with conpsiracy in the Laporte abductions are Jacques Rose, 23, brother of Paul, Francis Rimard, 23, and Bernard Lortie, 19. Lortie was picked up in a police raid Nov. 6.

In Montreal North, police surrounding the suspected hideout refused passage to a well-dressed man in his late 50s who said he wanted to get through "just in case" his son was in the house.

The man was Gerard Lanctot,

Lanctot, worried and nervous, offered his help to authorities to prevent his son from doing anything rash—if his son happened to be in the house.

He had not seen Jacques since his son was 17.

After the lawyers entered the house Montreal's police chief, Marcel St. Aubin, arrived on the scene. The QPP chief remained at police headquarters to brief Justice Minister Choquette.

The Montreal Star says negotiations of some kind have been under way through an unidentified channel since Wednesday night.

The terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec was apparently asking that the government's safe conduct offer for the Cross kidnappers should also be extended to those involved in the kidnapping and murder of Laporte.

Choquette said Nov. 3 the government offer of safe conduct to Cuba does not apply to the murderers of Laporte.

The Star quotes informants in Montreal and Quebec City as saying the FLQ cell members holding Cross had been warned that if anything happens to the diplomat their own chances of survival would be slight indeed. The police would simply go in shooting.

Residences surrounding the duplex have been evacuated, a QPP spokesman reported. Four ambulances and several helicopters were seen on the yard of Pie IX school, which had been evacuated earlier.

The last word from Cross came in a handwritten letter found in a northern telephone booth Sunday, Nov. 22, saying he was alive and well but wondering when his "bad dream" would end. It was dated Nov. 15.

The eyes of all citizens were turned to the north-end area, a quiet district in normal times.

Big buses were used to blockade streets at a time when the QPP would confirm only that a "police operation concerning the Laporte-Cross investigation" was in progress.

One source said later the Des Recollets house had been under surveillance for nine days.

At 9:30 a.m. general police broadcasts were made: "All vehicles and personnel involved in Operation Cordon take positions."

Three minutes later they were reported in position and ready to any eventuality.

Bennett Continues Tax Game

He said today "the people must be served" and as a result "adjustments" will be made at a Vancouver hopsital which was forced to confine patients to bed unless they can dress themselves.

The move, resulting from a critical staff shortage at the Pearson Hospital for the chromically ill, a provincial institution, was attributed Wednesday by Opposition Leader Dave Barrett to "cruel or stupid" policies by Health Minister Ralph Loffmark.

Bennett said today such adjustments "cost money" and engaged a reporter in a brief debate on the merits of paying taxes to provide more services to people.

"We've got to give more services, not less. They cost money," Bennett said.

However, when asked whether he would have to dip into surplus funds to balance the current year's budget, as he predicted last summer, Bennett said he would prefer to wait a while and study his revenue receipts for the remaining four months of the fiscal year.

Bennett said his previorsly announced review of the provincial taxation system is "coming along very thoroughly."

Snowmobile Licences Proposed

NEW WESTMINSTER, (CP)—The British Columbia Federation of Agriculture voted Wednesday for compulsory licensing of snowmobiles.

The resolution, presented by the B.C. Beef Cattle Growers' Association at the federation's annual convention here, stated licensing of the machines would make it possible for their operators to be tracked down in the event of damage to farm property.

The convention passed another resolution from the cattle growers suggesting it be made compulsory for anyone carrying a firearm outside the boundaries of his own property to have a licence.

Delegates also voted for resolution proposing a fund derived from the sale of hunting licences be set up to compensate farmers for the loss of livestock to hunters and predatory animals.

The three-day convention ended Wednesday.

Americans Hostile To Officers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A medical researcher said in Senate testimony today that interviews with 60 former U.S. marines convinced him they were more hostile toward the South Vietnamese army and their own officers than toward the Viet Cong.

Dr. Charles Levy, a research associate at Harvard Medical School, quoted a former marine as telling how one man killed an army officer with a truck, and another put a booby trap in his commanding officer's tent.

"They talked in terms of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese army not being the primary focus of their hostility," Levy said in testimony prepared for the Senate veterans affairs subcommittee. "Instead, references to them are invariably positive."

Levy said the marines expressed hostility toward two central targets: the South Vietnamese army, and American non-commissioned and commissioned officers.

Levy said there is an overwhelming need for a training camp in reverse, to undo the attitudes and resolve emotional problems growing out of Vietnam combat.

Saanich Plans $2 Million Loan For Sewerage

Saanich council is proposing to borrow close to $2 million to finance sewerage and waterworks expansion.

Official notice was given today. Unless within 30 days one-twentieth of the property owners (about 1,500 persons) petition council for a referendum, council may approve the bylaws.

It is proposed to borrow $924,000 to construct various improvements and extensions to the waterworks system and $900,000 for sewerage work in the Burnside-Marigold and Warren Dogulas areas.

CROSS FREE

NO NONSENSE as two armed soldiers, one with fixed bayonet, seal off a four-block area in northeast Montreal this morning, before terrorists agreed to release James Cross. (CP Wirephoto.)

KIDNAPPERS' CAR containing British trade envoy James Cross moves through Montreal today on way to Man and His World site where Cross was released. Police escort of 50 motorcycles accompanied the car, reported to be driven by kidnap suspect Marc Carbonneau. Cross was said to be in the back seat. (CP Wirephoto.)

Kidnappers Deal For Cuba Sanctuary

Times News Services

MONTREAL—James Cross is free.

The dramatic end to his 60-day ordeal came at noon (PST) when the British trade official walked from a convoy at the site of Expo 67, St. Helen's Island.

Police at the scene told reporters the vehicle was booby trapped to explode if authorities attempted to interfere, and grab the kidnappers before they reached a prearranged sanctuary on St. Helen's Island,

Ricardo Escartin, acting Cuban consul-general in Montreal, was at the island site to meet the convoy as it sped southward from the residence in Montreal North where Cross was held.

★ ★ ★

After the convoy arrived at the Expo site, a police radio report said Cross had entered the Canadian pavilion.

Carbonneau, 37, a swarthy cab driver, has been sought since Oct. 18 on a warrant charging him with the Oct. 5 kidnapping of Cross and the Oct. 10 abduction of Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister who was strangled a week later.

Lanctot, 25, is wanted in connection with an alleged plot to kidnap the Israeli trade commissioner in Montreal last March.

The 10-car police convoy brought Cross to the Expo site from a three-storey residence in Montreal North.

He rode in a 1962 Chrysler in the centre of the convoy. Occupants of the car held newspapers over the windows to avoid being seen.

The convoy moved out minutes after the arrival at the house of Jerome Choquette, Quebec justice minister. He flew to Montreal from Quebec when informed that police and soldiers had surrounded the place where Cross was held.

The convoy moved south on Pie IX Boulevard, a six-lane divided artery previously sealed off by armed troops using portable metal barricades.

Pedestrians were shooed off the street and held back by the barricades.

Escartin was accompanied by a representative of the British trade commission in the wait for the kidnappers.

"The same plan is in effect," said Escartin, who explained he is acting in the absence of Alfredo Ramirez, Cuban consul now on regular holiday in his homeland.

Troops with fixed bayonets and police acted swiftly in Operation Cordon this morning, circling the four-block area six miles due north of downtown Montreal.

They isolated the suspect duplex—evacuating occupants of neighboring structures, including two schools. But they made no move to enter the modest-looking house immediately.

A police escort brought Choquette into the

FERRY COLLISION

Pilot Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP)—A federal inquiry commission today ordered suspension of the licence of Capt. D. G. Crabbe of Victoria, the pilot aboard a Russian freighter that collided with a British Columbia government ferry Aug. 2, killing three ferry passengers.

County court Judge E. J. C. Stewart, head of the commission, said the panel could not make recommendations about the competence certificates of Capt. R. J. Pollock, master of the ferry Queen of Victoria, or his chief officer, Zale Kirron.

He said Capt. Nikolai Khaustov, master of the freighter Sergey Yesenin, was outside the jurisdiction of the commission, but was guilty of no wrong act.

Judge Stewart's report said the collision was the result of falure of those in charge of both vessels to keep sufficiently to starboard in narrow Active Pass, and the "absence of standards of alertness" as they approached Helen Point at the western end of the pass.

"Capt. Pollock and Capt. Crabbe caused serious danger to the Queen of Victoria and loss of life, but we can deal only with the licence of Capt. Crabbe," the report said.

Federal Budget Tonight

OTTAWA (CP) — The country finds out in dollars and cents tonight just how much Ottawa plans to take out of Canadian pay cheques and profits in coming months.

Betting in advance of the federal budget—to be presented by Finance Minister E. J. Benson at about 5 p.m. PST—has favored announcement of measures to stimulate business activity and generate more jobs.

That could entail increased spending by the government, tax reductions, a combination of both or simply a shuffling of tax burdens and spending priorities.

Also imminent are changes in federal revenue demands, tax rates and tax exemptions to back up wholesale reorganization of social welfare programs scheduled for the new year.

In addition, some "temporary" tax measures are due to expire or run down. The government could decide to announce revival or an end to the 1968 surcharge on basic income taxes, due to end Dec. 31, and a 1969 measure to discourage construction of commercial buildings in richer communities, which peters out in 1971.

ASSUMING PERMIT WILL BE GRANTED

Utah Goes Ahead With Mine Plans

PORT HARDY — Utah Construction and Mining Co. is building its $74-million copper mining complex on the assumption it will be allowed to dump mine waste into Rupert Inlet near here, a provincial government inquiry was told Wednesday.

This statement was made Wednesday by a company spokesman during a 12-hour hearing into the permit application held by provincial pollution control director William N. Venables.

Robert Wheaton, administrative manager of the project, was answering a question asked by Elaine Price of Duncan, who had suggested that the company was proceeding with its project without knowing that it might be refused a permit and have to shut down its construction operation.

He told Mrs. Price that the company has applied for a permit to discharge its mine-mill waste into Rupert Inlet, and that if the application is turned down the company would make another application based on alternative methods of disposal of the waste.

Mrs. Price's question apparently arose from comments made Tuesday during a tour of the project by Venables to the effect that the hearing was being held chiefly to determine the method of waste disposal, rather then to deny proceeding with the project.

Venables later said he had intended only to emphasize that his responsibility does not relate to the question of the actual construction of the plant, but deals only with control over discharges from the plant into Rupert Inlet.

After he adjourned the marathon hearing, Venables was asked if he could indicate whether Utah could conceivably be denied a permit and thus be forced to shut down this operation.

CURB BILL WITHDRAWN

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP) — The government on opposition urgings today withdrew its bill to restrict the powers of the auditor-general.

Alberta Upholds Court Choice

EDMONTON (CP)—The Supreme Court of Alberta ruled Wednesday that the Crown has the right to proceed by indictment in a case which can also be handled summarily.

Chief Justice J. V. H. Milvain said there is no discrimination against an accused if the Crown chooses to elect trial by indictment, even though a person could receive a longer sentence than he could if convicted in a summary trial.

Chief Justice Milvain was dealing with an application from lawyer Ian Baker, who claimed that two of his clients charged with trafficking in the drug MDA were being discriminated against because the Crown had chosen to try them by way of indictment.

Pat McClary, 26, and his wife, Carole, 25, were charged Oct. 22 under provisions of the Food and Drug Act. If convicted by indictment they face a maximum sentence of 10 years, seven years longer than the maximum sentence for the same offence by summary conviction.

SAYS RIGHTS VIOLATED

Mr. Baker said the Crown's election was a violation of the Canadian Bill of Rights.

In rejecting Mr. Baker's application to prohibit preliminary hearing in the case, Chief Justice Milvain said the Crown's choice to proceed by indictment or summary procedure is "one that has been embedded in our criminal law from its commencement."

The Alberta ruling follows a decision Nov. 9 by Judge Joseph Kelly of Ontario county court that the Crown had no right to proceed by indictment in a tax-evasion case.

The ruling came when Judge Kelly quashed charges against Stafford Smythe, Toronto Maple Leafs Hockey Club president, of evading income taxes of $289,372 and filing false or misleading returns.

Judge Kelly's ruling was appealed to the Supreme Court of Ontario. Chief Justice Dalton Wells reserved decision Nov. 17 on a Crown application asking him to order a trial for Mr. Smythe.

Fear and Contempt In Africa Easing

By KENNETH L. WHITING

PRETORIA (AP) — There are hints of relaxation in the long and bitter conflict between black and white countries in Africa.

For more than a decade the continent's white-ruled southern tip and the newly independent states to the north viewed each other with fear and contempt. Militant black leaders condemned racial segregation and threatened to "liberate" blacks in the south. A succession of South African leaders warned they would tolerate no interference.

Bitterness and tension increased in the late '60s until it appeared no negotiating room was left.

Now there are small signs of a breakthrough.

From the South African viewpoint it is one result of Prime Minister Vorster's "outward-looking" foreign policy of mutual co-operation and aid for friendly black neighbors. This was first outlined more than two years ago. Skeptics suggested that Vorster aimed at creating a ring of neutralized buffer countries around South Africa and economically dependent on South Africa.

Foreign Minister Hilgard Muller indicates Pretoria is still sensitive on this point. He told a political meeting:

"We want our neighbors to become our friends voluntarily. We do not want an iron curtain around South Africa. We want to establish a friendly circle of free, independent states in this part of Africa."

Geography puts the former British territories of Botswana, Lesotho and Swaziland into South Africa's economic orbit. The unrecognized regime in breakaway Rhodesia depends heavily on South Africa for moral and financial support.

Malawi was the first real triumph for the outward-looking policy. In exchange for diplomatic recognition, Pretoria provided medical technicians and other specialists, communications equipment and funds to underwrite President H. Kamuzu Banda's dream capital at Lilongwe.

MEET SUCCESS

For more than a year informed sources in other parts of black Africa reported that South Africa's economic overtures were meeting with increasing success. Trade with more than half a dozen countries in east and west Africa developed under various guises.

Muller went to Malagasy in November to sign an economic pact through which South Africa will lend the Madagascar republic $3.25 million to develop tourism. Diplomatic links seem likely.

The Ivory Coast president, Felix Houphouet-Boigny, has suggested that black African leaders discuss the opening of "a dialogue" with South Africa. Five other French-speaking countries and Ghana supported his proposal. A similar number of nations rejected the idea.

There is no sign of an early detente, but the proposal may eventually mean an end to the era of empty threats and counterthreats. It could conceivably clear the way to devoting more money toward economic development and less to the politics of race.

9.6 Per Cent Average Pay Hike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiated wage increases in British Columbia for a six-month period to the end of November showed an upward trend, the B.C. Mediation Commission said in a report Wednesday.

A study of 32 agreements involving 48,000 employees indicated an average 9.6 per cent wage increase for the first year of negotiated contracts and 8.7 per cent for the second year.

Last year's six-month rate, including October, was about nine per cent.

Ford Grant Won

NEW YORK (CP) — The Ford Foundation has announced a $126,000 grant to the University of Toronto for research in reproductive biology. The grant was one of five totalling about $1.4 million for research and training in the field, and the University of Toronto was the only Canadian institution to be named as a recipient.

NEW LOWER PHOSPHATE
GETS THE

DRIVE

OK

says Mrs. K. Tippett of St. Vital, Manitoba.

We gave Mrs. Tippett an advanced pack of new lower phosphate DRIVE, reformulated with substitute materials. Here's what she had to say about it:

"I liked the idea of a really good detergent and a stain remover working together. So I used DRIVE. Now that I have tried the new lower phosphate formula, I shall go on using it. It doesn't seem to have changed DRIVE's ability to give me a clean stain-free wash, and that's all I want."

This is just the beginning. Lever research will continue to try to find ways to use substitute materials to lower phosphate levels while maintaining DRIVE's high quality performance.

The Working Poor

What Does a Man Have to Do Merely to Get By? Quit His Job, Get Few Dollars More From Welfare

By PETER
McNELLY

In a society which measures a person's worth by how well he is able to provide for himself, the working poor feel acutely strained.

Forced to make ends meet on budgets which cannot be stretched, they are particularly vulnerable to the demands of unexpected costs: dental bills, car repairs, rent increases, major appliance breakdowns.

●

Changes proposed in the federal government's white paper on income security brighten their future as far as pensions and unemployment insurance go. But immediate benefits are small compared to immediate needs.

In some cases, persons on low incomes turn to local welfare offices for help. But if they are earning more than what they would receive on welfare, they are ineligible for extra cash.

Area welfare officials say that even persons earning less than what they would receive on welfare are by no means guaranteed an income supplement.

One woman, a deserted wife with two children who works in Victoria as a clerk-typist, budgets on a net income of $283 a month which includes $14 in family allowances.

Her fixed expenses:

Rent, $120; Hydro, $10; fuel, $12; phone, $5.67; car repairs, $10; bank loan for dental and debts incurred when married, $23; department store account, $10; garbage, $1.50.

●

This leaves $101 for food, gasoline, clothing and recreation. White paper proposals would increase her monthly income by $18. That's an extra $216 a year coming from increased family allowance benefits.

Until last week, this woman's rent was $60. But she had to move after the premises she rented was sold. Knowing that she would have to wait at least 1½ years to move into Blanshard Court, she went for help to the Victoria welfare department's Cook Street office.

She asked for a $75 monthly income supplement until a vacancy occurred at Blanshard Court. This, she was told, is against regulations, since her income exceeds the maximum welfare allowance for a family of three, $236.

The social worker advised her to cut costs by getting rid of her car and telephone and by not buying any new clothes.

A check at the family division of provincial court showed that the most she could hope to get from her husband for child maintenance would be between $10 and $20 monthly.

Harried Woman Advised to Drop Car, Phone and New Clothes

A probation officer there advised her not to press charges of desertion, since the strain would not be worth the financial return. The woman is convinced her husband would leave town if ordered to pay maintenance. She is filing for a divorce.

Acting on advice of another social worker, she wrote Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi, seeking his personal intervention.

Gaglardi replied that her income was too high for a supplement, and he also advised her to get rid of her car. He promised to have a department official help her look for another place to rent.

But the help never came. The woman cannot get rid of her car because she now lives past the bus line, outside the city.

She has no intention of quitting her job to go on welfare. But others in similar situations have quit their jobs.

A man with seven children quit his job last month and went on welfare. He was employed as a janitor grossing $403 a month. Basic welfare for a family of nine is $401.

The man visited the office of the Low Income Group and asked how he might get some help to make ends meet. His net income was less than the basic welfare rate for his family size.

But he, too, was ineligible for a supplement. New family allowance rates would give him another $112 a month.

Group president Walter Olszewski advised him to keep working. But the man went on welfare. Now, in addition to having a higher net income, he is eligible for free dental and medical care for his family as well as school and clothing allowances.

"If the government would have helped this man with a supplement, they would not have been paying the whole shot as they are now," Olszewski said.

And he said another aspect of going on welfare is the risk of getting caught in a "welfare cycle" which continues for generations.

●

The rehabilitation department's position on supplements is that they are, in effect, a subsidy for private enterprise.

Community Action Group advocate Susan Talbot says working women on low incomes are common. She feels they should be allowed at least enough money for babysitting, medical and dental care.

Furthermore, these groups receive the lowest wages, usually at or near the federal minimum of $1.65 an hour or the provincial minimum of $1.50.

Average gross wage for these jobs, he says, is about $60 a week. That's $3,120 a year.

Many clerical and sales workers cannot get full-time jobs. A recent Victoria city study of its labor force showed slightly more than 17 per cent work part-time.

Experts on poverty say a person needs at least $1,000 a year just to get by.

In April 1969, the Economic Council of Canada told the Senate Committee on Poverty that a family of four is living in poverty if its gross income is less than $4,200 a year.

'They Get Into The State Where Welfare Is Big Mother'

B.C. welfare rates for a family of four, calculated at maximum benefits, are $700 less than the Economic Council's $4,200. And B.C. rates are among the highest in Canada.

What these figures indicate is that both welfare recipients and low income workers live in poverty.

Though the province cannot supplement incomes which exceed welfare rates, welfare recipients can earn up to $100 a month without having their cheques cut proportionately.

This is allowed for persons who can show that the work may lead to eventual full-time employment.

Provincial government policy tries to help people get off welfare but does nothing to keep poor workers from quitting their jobs. Income supplements are indeed a subsidy to industry, and a logical answer to them is higher wages.

Yet governments subsidize industry in other ways, through tax concessions and depreciation allowances, for example.

Planned increases in unemployment insurance and pensions will be substantial for many people. For example, pensions to disabled heads of families will increase more than $150 a month.

Pensions for couples with no other income will rise $28 more per month than increases under the current scheme. Pensions for single persons without other means will rise $22.

How these increases will affect B.C.'s pension supplement policy, parallel to but separate from the federal scheme, is unclear. Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi said this week he would have to study the federal white paper before commenting.

But he did slam the federal proposal to eliminate family allowances in cases where earnings exceed $10,000 a year.

"What it really means is an increase in taxes to a lot of people," Gaglardi said. He added that the changes will place new tax loads on "already overburdened" middle-income families.

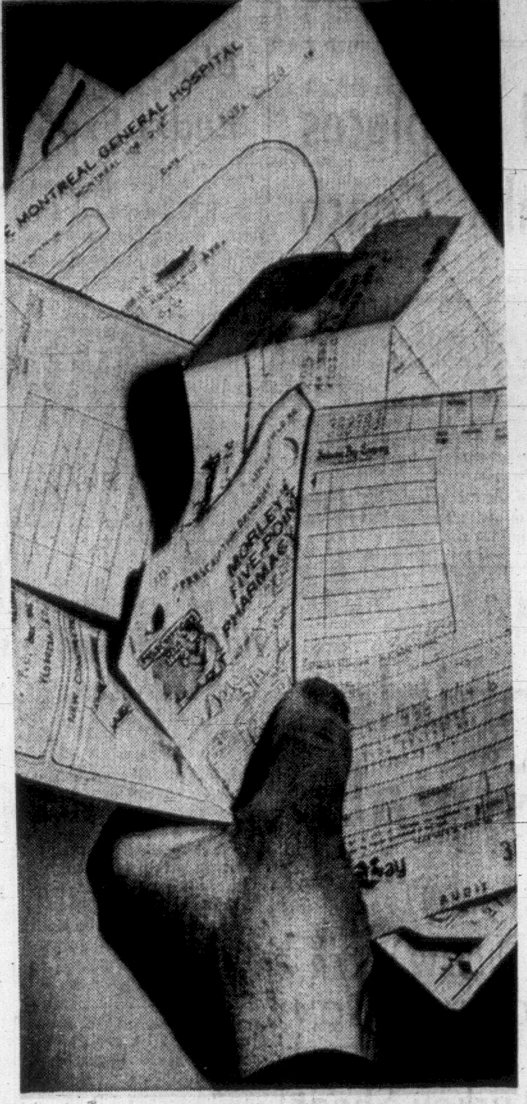
●

Prime Minister Trudeau said Sunday his government will stand or fall on public reaction to reforms in the welfare white paper.

He said the government belives the country is mature enough to accept reforms aimed at taxing the rich to help the poor.

Public response to the white paper may determine how far Ottawa will go in the future toward creating wider-ranging — and costlier — programs such as guaranteed annual incomes.

Meanwhile, the poor may receive some help, but they will still remain poor.



What Kills Is Unexpected Bills

Haddock Defies Mess Critics

Mayor Courtney Haddock today fired back at critics of his campaign to raise money from local businessmen to refurbish the Victoria police officers' mess.

Haddock said one of the police commissioners has pulled a "complete about-face" by voting for the refurbishing and then criticizing Haddock's method of raising the money.

The mayor also said he suspects some businessmen might be "offended" because they were not asked to contribute.

Police commissioner Gordon Carter said Wednesday he would vote against the measure if it came up again, and feared the fund solicitation might set a bad precedent.

Asked today at a press conference if he would go ahead with the scheme, Haddock replied: "No question about it—why not?"

"What businessmen are they talking about? The ones who were invited or the ones who were not?" he said, in an apparent reference to complaints by businessmen that they had been asked to contribute.

'SOMEWHERE'

Haddock said "We must give moral support to police forces—right across Canada. There's an element in our country that shows a significant lack of respect. A start has to be made somewhere."

Asked to comment on Carter's opposition to the plan, Haddock said "I'm very disappointed about that because he voted for it—he never communicated with me.

Haddock said Woodwards, the store doing the refurbishing, contributed $500 and he showed reporters the cheque.

He said Woodwards paid the money because "I asked for it. Woodwards is one of the best businesses in the world" and he added he worked at that company's stores for many years.

'A FRINGE'

Asked if any other department stores were asked to contribute, he said "Yes, they were invited, too . . . we don't want to slight anyone, or discriminate.

"As far as I know, they were asked."

"Not at all — because it was such a small amount."

He said the $4,100 carpetting provided by Woodwards would be installed by Dec. 15. It will be "an inexpensive but good carpet instead of a bare tile floor."

He added "my hundred dollars is there."

He said he "can't understand" why there should be any opposition to the move. "It's such a chintzy little thing."

Man Makes Splash On First Night

The 50-year-old commissionaire walked along D jetty where HMCS Cowichan is tied up at 12:30 a.m. this morning. Five minutes later he was struggling for survival in the icy water.

His cries for help were heard by Cpl. Michael Kattler aboard the Cowichan, who immediately went into action.

"I threw him a Kisbie ring, sounded the alarm and phoned the Belmont fire department."

Kattler and his crew lowered a berthing hawser through the eye of which Whitmore put his arms. They tried to haul him up but he was too heavy.

Today he was in good condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Kattler said the wind was blowing at 50 miles an hour at the time of the incident, drowning out Whitmore's voice. He said the commissionaire stumbled in a large hole on the jetty, used for buoy storage by the federal department of transport.

His rescuer said he was almost as shaken as Whitmore.

CRASHING START FOR WEEK

Council general manager John Reeves said there were 19 traffic accidents Tuesday in Victoria and surrounding areas with five injuries and 18 accidents Wednesday with nine injuries.

All areas but Sooke have had accidents.

The injury accidents have occurred in Saanich, Sidney, Oak Bay, Central Saanich, Colwood and the city.

Safe Driving Week continues through until Dec. 7.

IN JUST FOUR YEARS, SAYS CURTIS

Saanich Welfare Bill Up 400 Per Cent

The cost of welfare in Saanich has jumped from $178,293 in 1966 to $894,000 this year, Mayor Hugh Curtis said today.

The increase of more than 400 per cent compared with an increase of "only 112 per cent" in provincial per capita grants in the same period, from $828,000 to $1,765,000, he added.

"One of the principal reasons, of course, for the substantial increase in social assistance costs to municipalities is the sudden doubling by the province (to 20 per cent) of the municipal share in 1968," said Curtis.

He made the comments in letters to the five members of the legislature for Greater Victoria, because part of Saanich is in each of the constituencies.

"It was the feeling of the executive of the Union of B.C. Municipalities that the very severe incidence of social assistance costs on municipal budgets should be drawn to the attention of all members of the legislature," Curtis wrote.

He pointed out that municipalities are required by provincial law to adopt budgets by May 15.

Saanich, in setting its welfare budget, took the per capita total cost from 1969 of $624,000 and brought this up to $710,000 in the expectation of increases this year.

LEVY INCREASED

Subsequently, the province increased the per capita levy from the old 96 cents to $1.15 and then to $1.58.

"Assuming that the $1.58 rate will remain until Dec. 31, we are required to find $184,000 more than the $710,000 budgeted," he said.

In 1966, welfare costs represented 21.6 per cent of the per capita grant which the provincial government gives municipalities but this will be over 50 per cent of the grant this year.

"When you consider that over 90 per cent of the tax base in Saanich municipality is represented by residential assessment you will realize that this extraordinary increase in social assistance costs becomes a direct burden on the homeowner," he wrote.

"It may be argued that a considerable amount of the increase in social assistance costs is due to transients but this certainly does not apply to all municipalities in the province yet they have to bear their share of this burden."

Pickets Call Firemen To Sandringham

At 7:10 a.m. they called the Victoria fire department. Department inspectors came to the hospital at 1650 Fort. They found too much oil getting into the furnace's combustion chamber.

A fire department spokesman said they called in a mechanic who adjusted the oil flow, returning it to a safe level. He said it is against the law to operate a furnace in a dangerous condition.

Protection Due for Sheep

Agriculture Minister Shelford indicated today a sheep protection area will be established in the View Royal-Otter Point district as requested by farmers and ratepayers.

Shelford said the move, which involves licensing of dogs with provision for impoundment or shooting of dogs running loose and attacking sheep, would require a provincial cabinet order.

There are a number of sheep protection areas in the province, and Shelford added that similar regulations may have to be made to protect children from dogs in the Atlin area of northern B.C.

G. H. Mitchell, Metchosin area farmer, who called for the special measures, said about 12 per cent of flocks have been lost to dogs in the area every year.

Arthur Mayse . . .

THERE ARE A COUPLE of factors that our Robin Hood federal government seems to be overlooking when it proposes to snatch the baby bonus away from the family whose income exceeds $10,000 a year.

One of these is that since its inception, the per-child family allowance has been sensibly paid to the wife. And with equal sense, most wives who are mothers have through the years regarded this government assist to the child-rearer in a very special way.

They don't look on it as income. It is something for the kids, whether spent on their behalf each month, or salted away to help them through the years when education becomes expensive.

I think that any number of mothers in families whose gross income is over the cut-off figure are going to entertain less-than-friendly feelings toward a federal authority that ends a now-traditional rebate on stiff income taxes.

It's possible too that certain husbands who have kept the amount of their earnings from their wives won't be happy with a measure that forces them out of the fiscal underbrush.

Husband, uncomfortably: "Well, dear, I've been meaning to tell you . . .")

All in all, I suspect that the Trudeau government would do well to consider an embarrassing political fact before shoving this measure down the Canadian craw.

Giving to those who haven't isn't necessarily going to win votes. But taking excessively from those who have is an excellent way to lose 'em!

●

The other evening I was looking hungrily at some nice fat pork chops in a market bin when a large stranger approached. He delivered a plaint that was music to these ears.

"It's a long time since you've written anything about fishing," he said. "How about making a reel scream?"

I'll be delighted to oblige when my temporarily idle reels have something to scream about. Until then, the best I can manage is a report on a gift that came my way this week.

It's a hard-used leather flybook almost as old as this century. In its transparent envelopes are Atlantic salmon flies of a sort that match the book.

They are tied in patterns with honored names: Jock Scott, Durham Ranger, Thunder-and-Lightning, and other such.

Wonderful creations they are, their varied plumage set in place with a skill that few amateur fly-tiers could hope to emulate.

From the head of each projects the loop of silkworm gut to which leaders were secured before the salmon hook with metal eye came into vogue. Some of those loops are brittle with age.

But not all of them, and in due time I mean to try my luck for B.C. steelhead, coho or big cutthroat trout with a Jock Scott presented long ago for approval to the lordly salmon of Tweed or Tay.

Should a reel-screamer latch on, I hope the sound will carry to whatever waters the sea captain who once used those flies now frequents.

●

Back once more to food, a subject much on my mind these days of reduced intake. In case you haven't noticed, the number of specialty restaurants in Victoria is growing.

Now that Ernie Mykyte and Jerome Olymyk have opened their Fort Street Cossack, the diner-out can add Russian dishes to the list.

For me a wistful reading of the menu, followed by a bowl of very good Ukrainian borscht.

So much for this day, and home now with pounds shed and belt already taken in a notch. Two more, and we've made it.

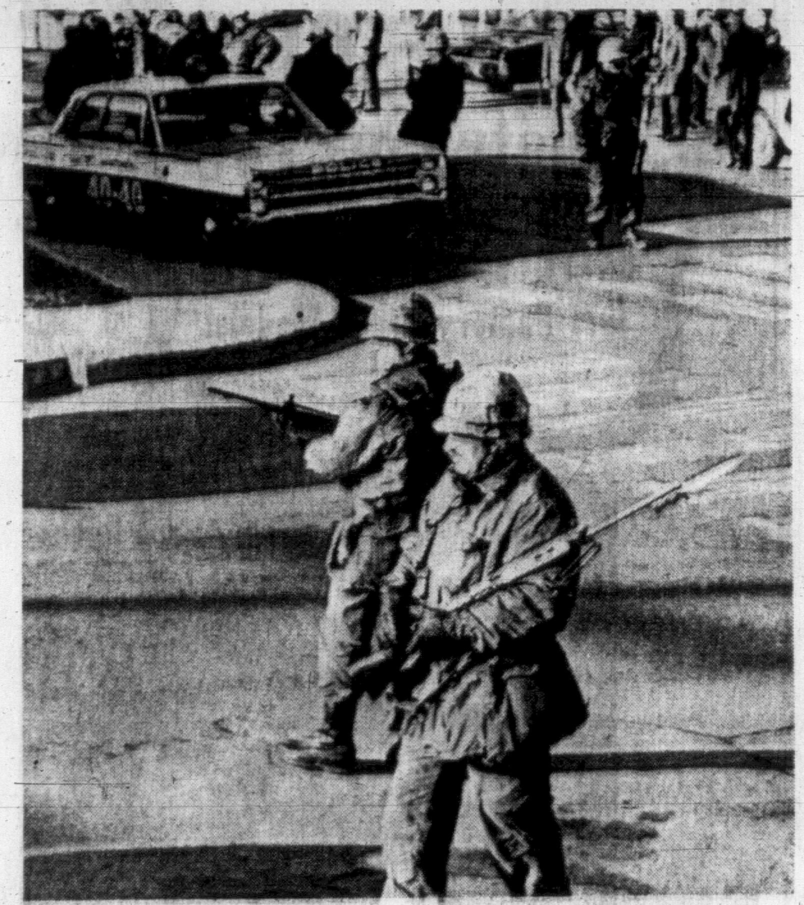
CROSS IS FREE



NO NONSENSE as two armed soldiers, one with fixed bayonet, seal off a four-block area in northeast Montreal this morning, before terrorists agreed to release James Cross. (CP Wirephoto.)

KIDNAPPERS' CAR containing British trade envoy James Cross moves through Montreal today on way to Man and His World site where Cross was released. Police escort of 50 motorcycles accompanied the car, reported to be driven by kidnap suspect Marc Carbonneau. Cross was said to be in the back seat. (CP Wirephoto.)

Kidnappers Deal For Cuba Sanctuary

Times News Services

MONTREAL—James Cross is free.

The dramatic end to his 60-day ordeal came at noon (PST) when the British trade official walked from a convoy at the site of Expo 67, St. Helen's Island.

Police at the scene told reporters the vehicle was booby trapped to explode if authorities attempted to interfere, and grab the kidnappers before they reached a prearranged sanctuary on St. Helen's Island.

Ricardo Escartin, acting Cuban consul-general in Montreal, was at the island site to meet the convoy as it sped southward from the residence in Montreal North where Cross was held.

After the convoy arrived at the Expo site, a police radio report said Cross had entered the Canadian pavilion.

Carbonneau, 37, a swarthy cab driver, has been sought since Oct. 18 on a warrant charging him with the Oct. 5 kidnapping of Cross and the Oct. 10 abduction of Pierre Laporte, Quebec labor minister who was strangled a week later.

Lanctot, 25, is wanted in connection with an alleged plot to kidnap the Israeli trade commissioner in Montreal last March.

The 10-car police convoy brought Cross to the Expo site from a three-storey residence in Montreal North.

* * *

He rode in a 1962 Chrysler in the centre of the convoy. Occupants of the car held newspapers over the windows to avoid being seen.

The convoy moved out minutes after the arrival at the house of Jerome Choquette, Quebec justice minister. He flew to Montreal from Quebec when informed that police and soldiers had surrounded the place where Cross was held.

The convoy moved south on Pie IX Boulevard, a six-lane divided artery previously sealed off by armed troops using portable metal barricades.

Pedestrians were shooed off the street and held back by the barricades.

Escartin was accompanied by a representative of the British trade commission in the wait for the kidnappers.

"The same plan is in effect," said Escartin, who explained he is acting in the absence of Alfredo Ramirez, Cuban consul now on regular holiday in his homeland.

Troops with fixed bayonets and police acted swiftly in Operation Cordon this morning, circling the four-block area six miles due north of downtown Montreal.

They isolated the suspect duplex—evacuating occupants of neighboring structures, including two schools. But they made no move to enter the modest-looking house immediately.

A police escort brought Choquette into the

FERRY COLLISION

Pilot Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP)—A federal inquiry commission today ordered suspension of the licence of Capt. D. G. Crabbe of Victoria, the pilot aboard a Russian freighter that collided with a British Columbia government ferry Aug. 2, killing three ferry passengers.

County court Judge E. J. C. Stewart, head of the commission, said the panel could not make recommendations about the competence certificates of Capt. R. J. Pollock, master of the ferry Queen of Victoria, or his chief officer, Zale Kirron.

He said Capt. Nikolai Khaustov, master of the freighter Sergey Yesenin, was outside the jurisdiction of the commission, but was guilty of no wrong act.

Judge Stewart's report said the collision was the result of falure of those in charge of both vessels to keep sufficiently to starboard in narrow Active Pass, and the "absence of standards of alertness" as they approached Helen Point at the western end of the pass.

"Capt. Pollock and Capt. Crabbe caused serious danger to the Queen of Victoria and loss of life, but we can deal only with the licence of Capt. Crabbe," the report said.

Federal Budget Tonight

OTTAWA (CP) — The country finds out in dollars and cents tonight just how much Ottawa plans to take out of Canadian pay cheques and profits in coming months.

Betting in advance of the federal budget—to be presented by Finance Minister E. J. Benson at about 5 p.m. PST—has favored announcement of measures to stimulate business activity and generate more jobs.

That could entail increased spending by the government, tax reductions, a combination of both or simply a shuffling of tax burdens and spending priorities.

Also imminent are changes in federal revenue demands, tax rates and tax exemptions to back up wholesale reorganization of social welfare programs scheduled for the new year.

In addition, some "temporary" tax measures are due to expire or run down. The government could decide to announce revival or an end to the 1968 surcharge on basic income taxes, due to end Dec. 31, and a 1969 measure to discourage construction of commercial buildings in richer communities, which peters out in 1971.

ASSUMING PERMIT WILL BE GRANTED

Utah Goes Ahead With Mine Plans

PORT HARDY — Utah Construction and Mining Co. is building its $74-million copper mining complex on the assumption it will be allowed to dump mine waste into Rupert Inlet near here, a provincial government inquiry was told Wednesday.

This statement was made Wednesday by a company spokesman during a 12-hour hearing into the permit application held by provincial pollution control director William N. Venables.

Robert Wheaton, administrative manager of the project, was answering a question asked by Elaine Price of Duncan, who had suggested that the company was proceeding with its project without knowing that it might be refused a permit and have to shut down its construction operation.

He told Mrs. Price that the company has applied for a permit to discharge its mine-mill waste into Rupert Inlet, and that if the application is turned down the company would make another application based on alternative methods of disposal of the waste.

Mrs. Price's question apparently arose from comments made Tuesday during a tour of the project by Venables to the effect that the hearing was being held chiefly to determine the method of waste disposal, rather then to deny proceeding with the project.

Venables later said he had intended only to emphasize that his responsibility does not relate to the question of the actual construction of the plant, but deals only with control over discharges from the plant into Rupert Inlet.

After he adjourned the marathon hearing, Venables was asked if he could indicate whether Utah could conceivably be denied a permit and thus be forced to shut down this operation.

CURB BILL WITHDRAWN

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP) — The government on opposition urgings today withdrew its bill to restrict the powers of the auditor-general.

Stanley Knowles, New Democrat house leader, presented a motion giving the government consent to withdraw the bill which the opposition had said it would fight all the way to closure.

Knowles's motion required unanimous consent.
